U. S. Marines In Seoul Suburb

Yanks Seize Two Naktong Bridgeheads

Second Crossing Under Red Attack

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 19 (AP) — American Marines with powerful Patton tanks battled through the Seoul suburb of Yongdungpo today while 150 to 175 miles southeast American infantry seized two bridgeheads on the west bank of the Naktong River Monday and this morning.

U. S. Navy carrier-based pilots reported they saw the Marines in Yongdungpo Monday at the head of an endless column of tanks, trucks and vehicles, moving up from the Inchon beachhead a score of miles to the west.

Yongdungpo is a southwest industrial suburb of the Korean capital, on the southwest bank of the Han River across from the city proper.

Previous field reports from correspondents had placed the Marine spearhead less than three miles from Seoul and about a miles outside Yongdungpo.

In the coordinated offensive to break out of the old Pusan perimeter in Southeast Korea, elements of the U. S. Second Division Monday crashed across the Naktong River line and established a firm bridgehead on the west bank.

Quickly following, units of the First Corps, 23 miles farther north, crossed to the Naktong's west bank in 50 assault boats Tuesday morning, AP Correspondent Bem Price reported.

This second Naktong crossing came under communist attack, and Price indicated it was having rough going.

Between the jaws of the 40,000-man strong Inchon-Seoul assault and the southern offensive, the Allies are seeking to crush the North Koreans who invaded South Korea June 25.

Gen. MacArthur's United Nations command headquarters said the North Korean reds had not yet recovered from the initial tactical surprise of the Allied landings at Inchon Friday, and that red efforts to stem the advancing Allied forces were resulting in complete destruction of communist groups.

Enemy resistance was described as "stubborn but disorganized" by Maj. Gen. E. M. Almond, commanding the U. S. Tenth Corps.

North Korean troops and armor were moving toward the Seoul area from both north and south, however, under heavy aerial harassment.

Home Defense Blueprint Sent To Capitol Hill

Program Outlines Mutual Aid System

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — President Truman laid before Congress today the blueprint for a vast civil defense program to rally the nation from an atomic attack and enable it to strike back swiftly and destroy the aggressor.

Drafted by the National Securities Resources Board, the program outlines a mutual aid system reaching into every American home and calling for the services of hundreds of thousands of paid and unpaid workers at the federal, state and local level.

Mr. Truman called it a "sound and workable" plan for coping with "the potential damage of devastating modern weapons."

Federal Agency Asked

He asked Congress to set up in the near future a civil defense administration with a $17,500-a-year head, and to pass other legislation needed to get the program started.

The President said he will create a temporary civil defense administration to serve until Congress acts. He also urged state and local officials "move ahead rapidly" with their own planning in line with the new national program.

Funds for the program will be requested later. Officials said it would cost millions, perhaps billions. They estimated it would take about two years to get the program into high gear.

Need For Program Stressed

As to the need for such a program:

For the first time since the war of 1812, said NSRB Chairman W. Stuart Symington, "an enemy has the power to attack our cities, and for the first time in our history that attack my come suddenly, with little or no warning."

The NSRB's master plan calls for civil defense eventually to take over from the Air Force the present air raid warning system. Then it parcels out to the various government bodies the responsibility for all the things to be done in case of attack—from rescue of the wounded to shelter of the homeless.

Columbia Offers Frigate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Colombia today offered a 2,000-ton frigate and crew of 190 men to aid in the Korean fighting.

India Proposes China's U. N. Seat Be Given To Reds

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 18 (AP) — India formally proposed tonight that the United Nations Assembly turn China's U. N. seat over to the communist regime of Mao Tze-Tung.

The Indian proposal was submitted to Secretary-General Trygve Lie on the eve of the Assembly's fifth session which opens at 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow at Flushing Meadow Park, New York.

India thus got the jump on Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky who is expected to touch off a bitter fight on the Chinese representation issue at the opening session of the 59-nation Assembly.

Senate Confirms O'Dwyer, 44-22

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Senate today voted 44 to 22 to confirm former Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York as ambassador to Mexico.

Approval came after the chamber beat down a motion by Sen. Ives (R-NY) to postpone action on the nomination.

Ives said the Senate should hold back its decision until New York City officials had been consulted about reports that high police officials who served under O'Dwyer might be linked to alleged gambling payoffs. He said he had no information to substantiate the reports but that the record should be cleared up in O'Dwyer's "own best interests."

Meanwhile, the Senate Armed Services Committee set 1 p. m., E.S.T., tomorrow for a hearing on another presidential appointment—that of Gen. George C. Marshall as secretary of defense.

President Truman today signed a special act of Congress permitting Marshall, a life-long soldier, to serve in the traditionally civilian post. He then sent the formal nomination of Marshall to the Senate for confirmation.

School Aid Compromise Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — The Senate today passed a bill to continue for four years federal financial aid to schools whose operating expenses have been increased because of government activities.

The measure is a compromise between separate House and Senate bills. Worked out by a conference committee, it was passed without objection by the Senate and now goes to the House for final action.

Contractor Gets "In Dutch" Through Faulty Tape, Sues

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—A masonry contractor complained today that some of his customers got a baker's dozen after he bought a tape measure at a five and ten cent store.

Michael O'Malley declared he gave some customers more for their money, but they didn't like it any more than he did.

In a federal court suit he seeks $20,000 from the F. W. Woolworth Company and the Waterbury Lock and Specialty Company, Milford, Conn.

He said Woolworth's sold him and the Waterbury firm made a rule which he thought was 25 feet long but which turned out to be 26 feet.

The extra foot was caused by having two figure 12s on the tape, O'Malley declared, but he didn't notice it until he built some buildings a foot too big.

Six garages and a house didn't measure up to expectations because of the faulty tape, he said. He has lost some customers and the confidence of others, he went on, and he is being sued for damages by garage owner whose 21x21 foot building exceeds the 20x20 city ordinance limit.

Atlantic Council "Welcomes" Plans For Integrated Force

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — The 12-nation North Atlantic Council tonight "warmly welcomed" proposals for a combined international force adequate for the defense of freedom in Europe against communist aggression.

The council made its position known in a communique issued after three days of secret meetings here. Persons close to the council deliberations said that every member of the council making up the North Atlantic community favored the plans for a combined army, but that one or two wanted to consult their colleagues at home before making a final decision.

The Big Three virtually completed their conversations in a three-hour meeting tonight. The foreign ministers of the United States, France and Britain adjourned at 7:20 p. m. EST until 10:30 a. m. EST tomorrow, when they will consult the Benelux countries — Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — on their discussions. The Big Three are expected to issue a final communique tomorrow. No official statement on their talks was made tonight.

The Big Three were reported here to have reached some decisions on steps toward ending the state of war with Germany and relaxing occupation controls. It was said they wanted to communicate these decisions to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before making them public.

The council adjourned subject to the call of the chairman, U. S. Secretary of State Acheson, during the next two weeks.

The statement made no direct reference to the long discussions in the council on the problem of arming German military units and putting them into this military force.

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told the council that it was premature to rearm the Germans.

'Big Mo' Breaks Up Red Attack

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18 (AP)—The U. S. Navy, in a special release from Korea, said today the battleship Missouri, firing its powerful 16-inch guns point blank at North Korean concentrations, had broken up a communist attack at Pohang Sunday.

The release, datelined "Aboard the Heavy Cruiser U.S.S. Helena" said the Missouri's action "broke up an enemy move to stop the advancing South Korean Third Division." This was the first mention of the Helena being in Korea waters.

The battle-experienced Third Division was poised to open an offensive Sunday morning under cover of Navy carrier-based aircraft, but a low ceiling made air operations impossible.

Then the Missouri and escorting destroyers steamed into the area "at full speed," the dispatch said, "and laid down a curtain of fire that broke up the enemy's frontal attack."

With the aid of shore-based spotters, the Missouri's gunners zeroed in on enemy concentrations.

"Communist resistance crumbled in the face of this devastating fire," the Navy said, and the South Korean Third Division was able to cross the Kizan-Ko River "with ease."

Green Asks Ban On Trade With Russia

HOUSTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, asked the United States today to stop all trade shipments to and from Russia.

Opening the AFL's annual convention, he asserted Russia is using United States goods for war purposes.

Green strongly criticised southern Democrats for helping block repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

He said wages must keep pace with increases in the cost of living.

The convention received a resolution which would ask the government to make it clear to the Russian people America distinguishes sharply between them and their Kremlin rulers.

The resolution, offered by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, said "American people are friends and not the enemies of the Russian people."

The proposal said the United States should establish some means by which the average Russian could be convinced that "our conflict is solely with the despotic rulers in the Kremlin, thirsting for world domination."

Another resolution, from William Nagorsne of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, urged a revision of the United Nations Charter to form "a true federation of nations, with a code of international law . . ."

It proposed that should Russia abstain, the United States would proceed to unite with other nations in a "partial world federation."

FBI Probes Explosion At "Voice" Station

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18 (AP)—FBI agents moved in quickly today in an effort to determine if there may have been sabotage in an explosion which damaged a "Voice of America" transmitter early yesterday.

The blast at nearby Bethany wrecked a tower which supported an antenna used in transmitting the "Voice" broadcasts to Europe and Latin America.

GI Vote Bills Okayed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — House passage sent to the Senate today legislation intended to make it easier for servicemen to vote.

Two bills were passed without opposition. One would require the armed forces to deliver personally to each serviceman an absentee ballot application and the other would waive existing size and weight limitations on mailed ballots.

M'Arthur Says North Koreans Aided By USSR

Malik Refuses To Listen To Report

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 18 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur charged today that Communist China provided a major share of the muscle of the North Korean army by swelling its ranks with 40,000 to 60,000 combat-seasoned troops of Korean origin.

Russia supplied the North Korean Communists with weapons and munitions sending in a wide variety of equipment as late as 1950, MacArthur said.

In his fourth report to the United Nations Security Council, MacArthur made it clear that this outside aid pumped up the striking power of the North Koreans to the point where they were able to launch their invasion of South Korea on June 25. The U. N. commander pointed out, for example, that North Korea's industry "is not capable of providing heavy equipment such as armor, tanks and artillery."

Malik Loses Battle

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik tied the council up in a wrangle lasting more than two hours as he waged a losing fight to delay the reading of MacArthur's report. He finally was voted down 10 to 1.

At the end of the reading, U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin introduced exhibits including a submachinegun. Malik ducked out of the chamber then rather than examine the exhibits.

Upon returning to the meeting Malik called MacArthur an "obscurantist fascist" and said the General's report was a "bloodthirsty document trying to justify" American aggression in Korea.

He accused the U. S. Air Force of attacking civilians and bombing schools, hospitals and homes. Malik maintained that the Soviet Union sold weapons to the North Koreans only when Russian troops withdrew in December, 1948.

Asembly To Convene

Malik's 22-minute speech was a reiteration of communist claims that the United States is the aggressor in Korea — claims which have been completely rejected by the non-communist world. The council adjourned without fixing a date for its next meeting.

Earlier Malik had remained expressionless with his earphones off so he could not hear the Russian translation of MacArthur's words.

The Security Council's meeting today came on the eve of the fifth session of the General Assembly in the old World's Fair grounds in Flushing. In that larger arena the council's disputes, including the Korean case, will be renewed.

Man Who Hid Bomb On Plane Sentenced

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept. 18 (AP) — John H. Grant, 32, convicted of attempting to murder his wife, two children and three other persons by placing a gasoline bomb aboard an airliner, was sentenced today to one to 20 years in prison.

His attorney gave notice of appeal after a motion for a new trial was denied.

The aircraft engineer, who told a jury he was heavily in debt, nagged by his wife and in love with a pretty airline stewardess, was beneficiary of a $25,000 insurance policy Mrs. Grant bought at his request before boarding the plane.

Conferees Agree On "Tough" Bill To Control Reds

Truman's Attitude Is Question Mark

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Senate-House conferees agreed today on a "tough" communist- control bill and recommended that it be made a permanent law of the land.

A major feature would permit the mass roundup and jailing of suspected subversives in time of war or national emergency.

It provides, however, that persons seized under the act must not be confined with felons or assigned to hard labor.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), chairman of the joint conference committee, immediately challenged any legal basis for a presidential veto of the measure. President Truman's attitude is a question.

Declaring that the committee was unanimous in its final approval, McCarran told newsmen:

"In my judgment, there is nothing in this bill that is unconstitutional on which any veto might rest."

McCarran sponsored the big catch-all measure woven from half a dozen different Senate and House bills.

President Truman has said he would refuse to sign the bill as written originally, but later indicated he had not made up his mind about sections of the final compromise measure. Mr. Truman told his news conference last week he would act promptly—either sign or veto the measure—after it reaches the White House and he has analyzed it.

Members of the conference committee described the compromise as "even tougher in some respects" than separate bills already passed by overwhelming majorities in both houses of Congress. The Senate vote was 70 to 7, the House 354 to 20.

Each chamber must now act on the compromise version.

Doctors Report Salt Water Eases Craving For Alcohol

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 18 (AP) —Take a drink of salt water when you reach the stage of really craving alcohol, says the quarterly Journal of Alcohol, out today.

Because, it is explained, your body is really craving salt, even though your palate says alcohol. There's nothing imaginary behind this sensation, the study indicates. It's a purely physical reaction which fools your senses.

The study is reported by Doctors W. D. Silkworth and M. Texon of the Knickerbocker Hospital, New York. They analyzed the blood of persons who had been drinking heavily enough to be hospitalized. In all cases they found the salt (chloride) reduced.

"The alcoholic," they report, "in the early stages of a drinking bout, drinks as a result of psychological or environmental factors. At this voluntary stage the blood chlorides are not significantly altered.

"When the drinking continues to the point of a lowered blood chloride, the sensation of thirst evokes an abnormal response. Instead of salt and water, the alcoholic continues to take liquor. The stage of uncontrolled drinking has been reached.

"He takes more whisky and water to replace the loss of water and salt. Thus, he does not replace his salt, but perhaps satisfies his pharyngeal thirst sensation. (The Pharynx is the part of the throat where the thirst sensation is felt). This further exaggerates his net salt loss and perpetuates his craving."

Result Hinges On Counties; Tydings Wins

Leads Are Held By Butler, Gunter

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (AP)— Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., early today claimed victory in his bid for Democratic renomination, saying that "I now have 88 convention votes."

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (Tuesday) (AP) — Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., badly whipped in Baltimore, made gains in the primary tally from Maryland counties early today and stood a chance of corralling enough convention votes to win the Democratic nomination.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings easily won his primary battle against two opponents.

George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor and one-time racing commissioner, carried his home city of Baltimore by a big margin.

Sen. Tydings

Mahoney also held leads in some of the counties but slow returns made the situation inconclusive.

Under Maryland's unit system of nominating in convention Lane was ahead in districts having 84 votes and Mahoney had 68 votes — including 35 of the 42 from Baltimore.

But the popular vote was an entirely different matter. With 960 polling places of the 1,429 reported, unofficial returns gave Mahoney 134,392 votes and Lane 124,941.

Maryland's convention system roughly parallels the electoral college in presidential elections. Each county and Baltimore City legislative district is assigned as many convention votes as it has members of the General Assembly. The convention votes of a subdivision go to the candidate who gets the top vote in the subdivision. There are 152 convention votes in all.

Tydings snowed under Hugh S. Monaghan, 2nd, and former Congressman John A. Meyer in the Democratic senatorial race.

He was ahead in every county and Baltimore City district by wide margins and seemed assured of all 152 convention votes.

With 916 polling places reported, his popular total was 104,001 votes to 29,733 for Monaghan and 27,913 for Meyer.

The nip-and-tuck race between Lane and Mahoney for the right to meet Republican Theodore R. McKeldin in the November general election may not be decided until late today—or even tomorrow.

The margin between the two men in most of the counties was narrow.

McKeldin was the only Republican candidate for his party's gubernatorial nomination.

John Marshall Butler, Baltimore attorney seeking the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, forged ahead of D. John Markey, the 1946 party nominee for the job.

Butler took all 42 of Baltimore City's convention votes and was leading in about one-half of the counties, on the basis of very scattered returns.

With 796 polling places in, Butler's unofficial popular vote total was 21,096 to 17,166 for Markey.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for attorney general, William A. Gunter, Cumberland, held a slim lead over Miss Helen E. Brown, Baltimore. With 811 of 1,429 polling places reported, Gunter had 21,916 to 19,404 for Miss Brown.

Chemist Pleads Guilty To Spying

GREENVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18 (AP) —Alfred Dean Slack told a federal judge today he was guilty of wartime spying for Soviet Russia and, through his attorney, begged for mercy.

Displaying no emotion as he stood before Judge Robert L. Taylor, Slack said he had supplied Russian agents with a sample of RDX, a high explosive, and the formula for its manufacture.

Judge Taylor deferred sentence after U. S. Attorney James M. Meek said there were "extenuating circumstances" in Slack's favor and recommended a 10-year prison sentence. The judge said he wished to study the case before pronouncing sentence.

Meek said the 10-year term was agreeable to U. S. Attorney General Howard McGrath and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Home Defense Blueprint Sent To Capitol Hill

Program Outlines Mutual Aid System

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — President Truman laid before Congress today the blueprint for a vast civil defense program to rally the nation from an atomic attack and enable it to strike back swiftly and destroy the aggressor.

Drafted by the National Securities Resources Board, the program outlines a mutual aid system reaching into every American home and calling for the services of hundreds of thousands of paid and unpaid workers at the federal, state and local level.

Mr. Truman called it a "sound and workable" plan for coping with "the potential damage of devastating modern weapons."

Federal Agency Asked

He asked Congress to set up in the near future a civil defense administration with a $17,500-a-year head, and to pass other legislation needed to get the program started.

The President said he will create a temporary civil defense administration to serve until Congress acts. He also urged state and local officials "move ahead rapidly" with their own planning in line with the new national program.

Funds for the program will be requested later. Officials said it would cost millions, perhaps billions. They estimated it would take about two years to get the program into high gear.

Need For Program Stressed

As to the need for such a program:

For the first time since the war of 1812, said NSRB Chairman W. Stuart Symington, "an enemy has the power to attack our cities, and for the first time in our history that attack my come suddenly, with little or no warning."

The NSRB's master plan calls for civil defense eventually to take over from the Air Force the present air raid warning system. Then it parcels out to the various government bodies the responsibility for all the things to be done in case of attack—from rescue of the wounded to shelter of the homeless.

Columbia Offers Frigate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Colombia today offered a 2,000-ton frigate and crew of 190 men to aid in the Korean fighting.

India Proposes China's U. N. Seat Be Given To Reds

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 18 (AP) — India formally proposed tonight that the United Nations Assembly turn China's U. N. seat over to the communist regime of Mao Tze-Tung.

The Indian proposal was submitted to Secretary-General Trygve Lie on the eve of the Assembly's fifth session which opens at 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow at Flushing Meadow Park, New York.

Senate Confirms O'Dwyer, 44-22

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Senate today voted 44 to 22 to confirm former Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York as ambassador to Mexico.

Approval came after the chamber beat down a motion by Sen. Ives (R-NY) to postpone action on the nomination.

Ives said the Senate should hold back its decision until New York City officials had been consulted about reports that high police officials who served under O'Dwyer might be linked to alleged gambling payoffs. He said he had no information to substantiate the reports but that the record should be cleared up in O'Dwyer's "own best interests."

Meanwhile, the Senate Armed Services Committee set 1 p. m., E.S.T., tomorrow for a hearing on another presidential appointment—that of Gen. George C. Marshall as secretary of defense.

President Truman today signed a special act of Congress permitting Marshall, a life-long soldier, to serve in the traditionally civilian post. He then sent the formal nomination of Marshall to the Senate for confirmation.

School Aid Compromise Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — The Senate today passed a bill to continue for four years federal financial aid to schools whose operating expenses have been increased because of government activities.

The measure is a compromise between separate House and Senate bills. Worked out by a conference committee, it was passed without objection by the Senate and now goes to the House for final action.

Atlantic Council "Welcomes" Plans For Integrated Force

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — The 12-nation North Atlantic Council tonight "warmly welcomed" proposals for a combined international force adequate for the defense of freedom in Europe against communist aggression.

The council made its position known in a communique issued after three days of secret meetings here.

Persons close to the council deliberations said that every member of the council making up the North Atlantic community favored the plans for a combined army, but that one or two wanted to consult their colleagues at home before making a final decision.

The Big Three virtually completed their conversations in a three-hour meeting tonight. The foreign ministers of the United States, France and Britain adjourned at 7:20 p. m. EST until 10:30 a. m. EST tomorrow, when they will consult the Benelux countries — Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — on their discussions. The Big Three are expected to issue a final communique tomorrow. No official statement on their talks was made tonight.

The Big Three were reported here to have reached some decisions on steps toward ending the state of war with Germany and relaxing occupation controls. It was said they wanted to communicate these decisions to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before making them public.

The council adjourned subject to the call of the chairman, U. S. Secretary of State Acheson, during the next two weeks.

The statement made no direct reference to the long discussions in the council on the problem of arming German military units and putting them into this military force.

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told the council that it was premature to rearm the Germans.

'Big Mo' Breaks Up Red Attack

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18 (AP)—The U. S. Navy, in a special release from Korea, said today the battleship Missouri, firing its powerful 16-inch guns point blank at North Korean concentrations, had broken up a communist attack at Pohang Sunday.

The release, datelined "Aboard the Heavy Cruiser U.S.S. Helena" said the Missouri's action "broke up an enemy move to stop the advancing South Korean Third Division." This was the first mention of the Helena being in Korea waters.

The battle-experienced Third Division was poised to open an offensive Sunday morning under cover of Navy carrier-based aircraft, but a low ceiling made air operations impossible.

Then the Missouri and escorting destroyers steamed into the area "at full speed," the dispatch said, "and laid down a curtain of fire that broke up the enemy's frontal attack."

With the aid of shore-based spotters, the Missouri's gunners zeroed in on enemy concentrations.

"Communist resistance crumbled in the face of this devastating fire," the Navy said, and the South Korean Third Division was able to cross the Kizan-Ko River "with ease."

Green Asks Ban On Trade With Russia

HOUSTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, asked the United States today to stop all trade shipments to and from Russia.

Opening the AFL's annual convention, he asserted Russia is using United States goods for war purposes.

Green strongly criticised southern Democrats for helping block repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

He said wages must keep pace with increases in the cost of living.

The convention received a resolution which would ask the government to make it clear to the Russian people America distinguishes sharply between them and their Kremlin rulers.

The resolution, offered by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, said "American people are friends and not the enemies of the Russian people."

The proposal said the United States should establish some means by which the average Russian could be convinced that "our conflict is solely with the despotic rulers in the Kremlin, thirsting for world domination."

Another resolution, from William Nagorsne of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, urged a revision of the United Nations Charter to form "a true federation of nations, with a code of international law . . ."

It proposed that should Russia abstain, the United States would proceed to unite with other nations in a "partial world federation."

FBI Probes Explosion At "Voice" Station

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18 (AP)—FBI agents moved in quickly today in an effort to determine if there may have been sabotage in an explosion which damaged a "Voice of America" transmitter early yesterday.

The blast at nearby Bethany wrecked a tower which supported an antenna used in transmitting the "Voice" broadcasts to Europe and Latin America.

GI Vote Bills Okayed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — House passage sent to the Senate today legislation intended to make it easier for servicemen to vote.

Two bills were passed without opposition. One would require the armed forces to deliver personally to each serviceman an absentee ballot application and the other would waive existing size and weight limitations on mailed ballots.

Conferees Agree On "Tough" Bill To Control Reds

Truman's Attitude Is Question Mark

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP)—Senate-House conferees agreed today on a "tough" communist control bill and recommended that it be made a permanent law of the land.

A major feature would permit the mass roundup and jailing of suspected subversives in time of war or national emergency.

It provides, however, that persons seized under the act must not be confined with felons or assigned to hard labor.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), chairman of the joint conference committee, immediately challenged any legal basis for a presidential veto of the measure. President Truman's attitude is a question.

Declaring that the committee was unanimous in its final approval, McCarran told newsmen:

"In my judgment, there is nothing in this bill that is unconstitutional on which any veto might rest."

McCarran sponsored the big catch-all measure woven from half a dozen different Senate and House bills.

President Truman has said he would refuse to sign the bill as written originally, but later indicated he had not made up his mind about sections of the final compromise measure. Mr. Truman told his news conference last week he would act promptly—either sign or veto the measure—after it reaches the White House and he has analyzed it.

Members of the conference committee described the compromise as "even tougher in some respects" than separate bills already passed by overwhelming majorities in both houses of Congress. The Senate vote was 70 to 7, the House 354 to 20.

Each chamber must now act on the compromise version.

Man Who Hid Bomb On Plane Sentenced

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept. 18 (AP) — John H. Grant, 32, convicted of attempting to murder his wife, two children and three other persons by placing a gasoline bomb aboard an airliner, was sentenced today to one to 20 years in prison.

His attorney gave notice of appeal after a motion for a new trial was denied.

The aircraft engineer, who told a jury he was heavily in debt, nagged by his wife and in love with a pretty airline stewardess, was beneficiary of a $25,000 insurance policy Mrs. Grant bought at his request before boarding the plane.

Chemist Pleads Guilty To Spying

GREENVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18 (AP) —Alfred Dean Slack told a federal judge today he was guilty of wartime spying for Soviet Russia and, through his attorney, begged for mercy.

Displaying no emotion as he stood before Judge Robert L. Taylor, Slack said he had supplied Russian agents with a sample of RDX, a high explosive, and the formula for its manufacture.

Judge Taylor deferred sentence after U. S. Attorney James M. Meek said there were "extenuating circumstances" in Slack's favor and recommended a 10-year prison sentence. The judge said he wished to study the case before pronouncing sentence.

Meek said the 10-year term was agreeable to U. S. Attorney General Howard McGrath and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Contractor Gets "In Dutch" Through Faulty Tape, Sues

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—A masonry contractor complained today that some of his customers got a baker's dozen after he bought a tape measure at a five and ten cent store.

Michael O'Malley declared he gave some customers more for their money, but they didn't like it any more than he did.

In a federal court suit he seeks $20,000 from the F. W. Woolworth Company and the Waterbury Lock and Specialty Company, Milford, Conn.

He said Woolworth's sold him and the Waterbury firm made a rule which he thought was 25 feet long but which turned out to be 26 feet.

The extra foot was caused by having two figure 12s on the tape, O'Malley declared, but he didn't notice it until he built some buildings a foot too big.

Six garages and a house didn't measure up to expectations because of the faulty tape, he said. He has lost some customers and the confidence of others, he went on, and he is being sued for damages by garage owner whose 21x21 foot building exceeds the 20x20 city ordinance limit.

Doctors Report Salt Water Eases Craving For Alcohol

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 18 (AP) —Take a drink of salt water when you reach the stage of really craving alcohol, says the quarterly Journal of Alcohol, out today.

Because, it is explained, your body is really craving salt, even though your palate says alcohol. There's nothing imaginary behind this sensation, the study indicates. It's a purely physical reaction which fools your senses.

The study is reported by Doctors W. D. Silkworth and M. Texon of the Knickerbocker Hospital, New York. They analyzed the blood of persons who had been drinking heavily enough to be hospitalized. In all cases they found the salt (chloride) reduced.

"The alcoholic," they report, "in the early stages of a drinking bout, drinks as a result of psychological or environmental factors. At this voluntary stage the blood chlorides are not significantly altered.

"When the drinking continues to the point of a lowered blood chloride, the sensation of thirst evokes an abnormal response. Instead of salt and water, the alcoholic continues to take liquor. The stage of uncontrolled drinking has been reached.

"He takes more whisky and water to replace the loss of water and salt. Thus, he does not replace his salt, but perhaps satisfies his pharyngeal thirst sensation. (The Pharynx is the part of the throat where the thirst sensation is felt). This further exaggerates his net salt loss and perpetuates his craving."

U. S. Marines In Seoul Suburb

Second Crossing Under Red Attack

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 19 (AP) — American Marines with powerful Patton tanks battled through the Seoul suburb of Yongdungpo today while 150 to 175 miles southeast American infantry seized two bridgeheads on the west bank of the Naktong River Monday and this morning.

U. S. Navy carrier-based pilots reported they saw the Marines in Yongdungpo Monday at the head of an endless column of tanks, trucks and vehicles, moving up from the Inchon beachhead a score of miles to the west.

Yongdungpo is a southwest industrial suburb of the Korean capital, on the southwest bank of the Han River across from the city proper.

Previous field reports from correspondents had placed the Marine spearhead less than three miles from Seoul and about a miles outside Yongdungpo.

In the coordinated offensive to break out of the old Pusan perimeter in Southeast Korea, elements of the U. S. Second Division Monday crashed across the Naktong River line and established a firm bridgehead on the west bank.

Quickly following, units of the First Corps, 23 miles farther north, crossed to the Naktong's west bank in 50 assault boats Tuesday morning, AP Correspondent Bem Price reported.

This second Naktong crossing came under communist attack, and Price indicated it was having rough going.

Between the jaws of the 40,000-man strong Inchon-Seoul assault and the southern offensive, the Allies are seeking to crush the North Koreans who invaded South Korea June 25.

Gen. MacArthur's United Nations command headquarters said the North Korean reds had not yet recovered from the initial tactical surprise of the Allied landings at Inchon Friday, and that red efforts to stem the advancing Allied forces were resulting in complete destruction of communist groups.

Enemy resistance was described as "stubborn but disorganized" by Maj. Gen. E. M. Almond, commanding the U. S. Tenth Corps.

North Korean troops and armor were moving toward the Seoul area from both north and south, however, under heavy aerial harassment.

Home Defense Blueprint Sent To Capitol Hill

Program Outlines Mutual Aid System

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — President Truman laid before Congress today the blueprint for a vast civil defense program to rally the nation from an atomic attack and enable it to strike back swiftly and destroy the aggressor.

Drafted by the National Securities Resources Board, the program outlines a mutual aid system reaching into every American home and calling for the services of hundreds of thousands of paid and unpaid workers at the federal, state and local level.

Mr. Truman called it a "sound and workable" plan for coping with "the potential damage of devastating modern weapons."

Federal Agency Asked

He asked Congress to set up in the near future a civil defense administration with a $17,500-a-year head, and to pass other legislation needed to get the program started.

The President said he will create a temporary civil defense administration to serve until Congress acts. He also urged state and local officials "move ahead rapidly" with their own planning in line with the new national program.

Funds for the program will be requested later. Officials said it would cost millions, perhaps billions. They estimated it would take about two years to get the program into high gear.

Need For Program Stressed

As to the need for such a program:

For the first time since the war of 1812, said NSRB Chairman W. Stuart Symington, "an enemy has the power to attack our cities, and for the first time in our history that attack my come suddenly, with little or no warning."

The NSRB's master plan calls for civil defense eventually to take over from the Air Force the present air raid warning system. Then it parcels out to the various government bodies the responsibility for all the things to be done in case of attack—from rescue of the wounded to shelter of the homeless.

M'Arthur Says North Koreans Aided By USSR

Malik Refuses To Listen To Report

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 18 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur charged today that Communist China provided a major share of the muscle of the North Korean army by swelling its ranks with 40,000 to 60,000 combat-seasoned troops of Korean origin.

Russia supplied the North Korean Communists with weapons and munitions sending in a wide variety of equipment as late as 1950, MacArthur said.

In his fourth report to the United Nations Security Council, MacArthur made it clear that this outside aid pumped up the striking power of the North Koreans to the point where they were able to launch their invasion of South Korea on June 25. The U. N. commander pointed out, for example, that North Korea's industry "is not capable of providing heavy equipment such as armor, tanks and artillery."

Malik Loses Battle

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik tied the council up in a wrangle lasting more than two hours as he waged a losing fight to delay the reading of MacArthur's report. He finally was voted down 10 to 1.

At the end of the reading, U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin introduced exhibits including a submachinegun. Malik ducked out of the chamber then rather than examine the exhibits.

Upon returning to the meeting Malik called MacArthur an "obscurantist fascist" and said the General's report was a "bloodthirsty document trying to justify" American aggression in Korea.

He accused the U. S. Air Force of attacking civilians and bombing schools, hospitals and homes. Malik maintained that the Soviet Union sold weapons to the North Koreans only when Russian troops withdrew in December, 1948.

Asembly To Convene

Malik's 22-minute speech was a reiteration of communist claims that the United States is the aggressor in Korea — claims which have been completely rejected by the non-communist world. The council adjourned without fixing a date for its next meeting.

Earlier Malik had remained expressionless with his earphones off so he could not hear the Russian translation of MacArthur's words.

The Security Council's meeting today came on the eve of the fifth session of the General Assembly in the old World's Fair grounds in Flushing. In that larger arena the council's disputes, including the Korean case, will be renewed.

"When the drinking continues to the point of a lowered blood chloride, the sensation of thirst evokes an abnormal response. Instead of salt and water, the alcoholic continues to take liquor. The stage of uncontrolled drinking has been reached.

"He takes more whisky and water to replace the loss of water and salt. Thus, he does not replace his salt, but perhaps satisfies his pharyngeal thirst sensation. (The Pharynx is the part of the throat where the thirst sensation is felt). This further exaggerates his net salt loss and perpetuates his craving."

Result Hinges On Counties; Tydings Wins

Leads Are Held By Butler, Gunter

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (AP)— Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., early today claimed victory in his bid for Democratic renomination, saying that "I now have 88 convention votes."

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (Tuesday) (AP) — Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., badly whipped in Baltimore, made gains in the primary tally from Maryland counties early today and stood a chance of corralling enough convention votes to win the Democratic nomination.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings easily won his primary battle against two opponents.

George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor and one-time racing commissioner, carried his home city of Baltimore by a big margin.

Sen. Tydings

Mahoney also held leads in some of the counties but slow returns made the situation inconclusive.

Under Maryland's unit system of nominating in convention Lane was ahead in districts having 84 votes and Mahoney had 68 votes — including 35 of the 42 from Baltimore.

But the popular vote was an entirely different matter. With 960 polling places of the 1,429 reported, unofficial returns gave Mahoney 134,392 votes and Lane 124,941.

Maryland's convention system roughly parallels the electoral college in presidential elections. Each county and Baltimore City legislative district is assigned as many convention votes as it has members of the General Assembly. The convention votes of a subdivision go to the candidate who gets the top vote in the subdivision. There are 152 convention votes in all.

Tydings snowed under Hugh J. Monaghan, 2nd, and former Congressman John A. Meyer in the Democratic senatorial race.

He was ahead in every county and Baltimore City district by wide margins and seemed assured of all 152 convention votes.

With 916 polling places reported, his popular total was 104,001 votes to 29,733 for Monaghan and 27,913 for Meyer.

The nip-and-tuck race between Lane and Mahoney for the right to meet Republican Theodore R. McKeldin in the November general election may not be decided until late today—or even tomorrow.

The margin between the two men in most of the counties was narrow.

McKeldin was the only Republican candidate for his party's gubernatorial nomination.

John Marshall Butler, Baltimore attorney seeking the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate, forged ahead of D. John Markey, the 1946 party nominee for the job.

Butler took all 42 of Baltimore City's convention votes and was leading in about one-half of the counties, on the basis of very scattered returns.

With 796 polling places in, Butler's unofficial popular vote total was 21,096 to 17,166 for Markey.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for attorney general, William A. Gunter, Cumberland, held a slim lead over Miss Helen E. Brown, Baltimore. With 811 of 1,429 polling places reported, Gunter had 21,916 to 19,404 for Miss Brown.

Chemist Pleads Guilty To Spying

GREENVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18 (AP) —Alfred Dean Slack told a federal judge today he was guilty of wartime spying for Soviet Russia and, through his attorney, begged for mercy.

Displaying no emotion as he stood before Judge Robert L. Taylor, Slack said he had supplied Russian agents with a sample of RDX, a high explosive, and the formula for its manufacture.

Judge Taylor deferred sentence after U. S. Attorney James M. Meek said there were "extenuating circumstances" in Slack's favor and recommended a 10-year prison sentence. The judge said he wished to study the case before pronouncing sentence.

Meek said the 10-year term was agreeable to U. S. Attorney General Howard McGrath and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Truman Adviser Drafts Five-Year, $10,000,000,000 Foreign Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — President Truman may be asked to propose about $10,000,000,000 in economic aid to some 40 countries in the next five years to help block off communism.

This recommendation is reported to be the theme of a comprehensive survey of world conditions being prepared by Gordon Gray, special economic adviser to the President.

Informed officials told a reporter today that the study probably will be submitted to the White House in mid-October.

As it now stands, they said, it would ask the President to consider these main steps to raise world living standards while the United States helps its allies rearm:

1. Extend Marshall Plan help to 19 Western European areas for three or four years beyond the presently-scheduled cut off date of July 1, 1952. The annual rate suggested is around $1,500,000,000 — the amount now believed necessary for the last year of the Marshall Plan.

2. Set aside from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000 for a coordinated economic aid program for nations in the Middle East, South and Southeast Asia.

3. Appropriate around $50,000,000 yearly to provide "technical assistance" to any nation needing it. This presumably refers to President Truman's "Point Four" program to help underdeveloped areas.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—The International Harvester Company and the Farm Equipment Workers Union announced tonight a settlement of their long-standing contract dispute.

Denham Advises Regional Offices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Robert N. Denham, fired by President Truman as general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, today advised his 18 regional directors to hold up complaints against unions or employers until his successor is seated.

Denham said he sent a telegram to the NLRB regional offices telling them that "they could get into a lot of trouble and not to try to issue any complaints until a successor has been nominated and confirmed."

He expressed belief his advice would not "seriously interfere with operations" of regional offices, which would continue to process election cases or those complaints already started.

"It will only mean delaying action on these complaints," he said.

The outspoken prosecuting officer for the Taft-Hartley Act, whose running battle with the five-man NLRB over enforcement policy finally cost him his job, stepped down tonight. He had offered to quit at President Truman's convenience. The President accepted his resignation as of the close of business today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—The International Harvester Company and the Farm Equipment Workers Union announced tonight a settlement of their long-standing contract dispute.

Denham Advises Regional Offices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (AP) — Robert N. Denham, fired by President Truman as general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, today advised his 18 regional directors to hold up complaints against unions or employers until his successor is seated.

Denham said he sent a telegram to the NLRB regional offices telling them that "they could get into a lot of trouble and not to try to issue any complaints until a successor has been nominated and confirmed."

He expressed belief his advice would not "seriously interfere with operations" of regional offices, which would continue to process election cases or those complaints already started.

"It will only mean delaying action on these complaints," he said.

The outspoken prosecuting officer for the Taft-Hartley Act, whose running battle with the five-man NLRB over enforcement policy finally cost him his job, stepped down tonight. He had offered to quit at President Truman's convenience. The President accepted his resignation as of the close of business today.

Philippines Foreign Secretary Calls For Japanese Peace Treaty

President Truman said last week that the United States soon will begin informal conferences with Russia and other nations of the Far East Commission on the question of a Japanese peace treaty. And Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines foreign secretary, urges herewith the "early conclusion of a peace treaty" as a matter of extreme urgency arising from the communist conquest of China and the Korean war. Gen. Romulo, who is also the outgoing president of the U. N. General Assembly, says that such a treaty will cement the good relations of the U. S. with the democratic-minded community in Asia and issues an invitation to hold the treaty talks in Manila.

By GEN. CARLOS P. ROMULO
Secretary of Foreign Affairs of the Philippines and Outgoing President of the U. N. General Assembly

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—The Philippine government has from the first strongly favored the early conclusion of a peace treaty with Japan.

We have held this view from considerations dictated by our proximity to Japan and from the larger considerations arising from the urgent necessity of determining the position of Japan relative to Asia and the Far East and the whole international community.

During the past four years, the post-surrender policies of the victorious Allies relative to Japan have been formulated by the Far Eastern Commission in Washington and carried out by the supreme commander for the Allied powers in Tokyo.

This arrangement was clearly intended to be provisional in character, pending the conclusion of a peace treaty.

Despite repeated proposals, supported among others by the Philippines, to hold a peace conference at the earliest possible moment, no agreement on the matter could be reached and plans have had to be indefinitely deferred.

The Philippine government therefore welcomes the announcement that the United States government is now ready to discuss plans for holding the conference with the other interested states.

The reasons which demanded such a conference two years ago still remain but with a note of extreme urgency arising from recent developments in East Asia and the Pacific.

The importance of Japan to the political and economic life of the region was not cancelled by her military defeat. A nation of 80 millions occupying a strategic group of islands off the mainland of Asia, and possessing the strongest industrial base of any country in the region, Japan was bound to play a vital role in any major developments there.

The objectives of a peace treaty with Japan were: First, to place on a permanent basis the program decided by the Far Eastern Commission to demilitarize and democratize Japan to the end that she may never again become a threat to the peace and freedom of her neighbors; and secondly, to regularize her relations with the victorious Allies and regulate her participation in international affairs.

Those objectives have now become mandatory by reason of the situation in China and the Korean war.

If Japan is to be admitted to the common tasks which the Allies need to undertake in East Asia and the Pacific it is a prime essential that the views, interests and consent of the interested states be first secured and embodied by common agreement in the terms of the treaty of peace.

Any other procedure would almost surely give rise to divisive influences between the United States and its allies in East Asia and the Pacific and thus nullify any advantages which would be gained by the fuller participation of Japan in those common tasks.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized how absolutely necessary such reassurances are at this moment, how important it is that certain guarantees be given to those countries in the region which, like the Philippines, have been the recent victims of Japanese aggression. Their apprehensions must be set at rest.

First steel plows in general use were invented by John Deere in about 1837.

The New Alphabet Of War Economy

Anyone who spent the trying years of World War II on the home front invariably associates the nagging strait jacket of economic controls of that period with one or more of Washington's alphabet agencies. Thus the appearance in news dispatches of new alphabet combinations is perhaps the sharpest reminder that a war economy is again hovering over the nation.

Looking over the list of names of the new agencies and their functions, the citizens can hope that the changes in names are for the better. Instead of the OPA (Office of Price Administration), there is the ESA (Economic Stabilization Agency) to ride herd on wage and price controls.

The WMC (War Manpower Commission) becomes bureaucratic history as its functions become the charge of the NSRB (National Security Resources Board).

To allocate scarce materials the familiar initials of the WPB (War Production Board) bow out in favor of a new alphabet combination, NPA (National Production Authority). This latter agency will be headed by William H. Harrison, president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, who has already met with steel men to discuss how much of this vital material should be allotted to the civilian economy.

Perhaps the greatest departure from the World War II mode of operation was the appointment of W. Stuart Symington, now head of the NSRB, to boss the system of over-all controls.

Under the powers granted him by the Defense Production Act the President has seen fit to shift all the problems of rearmament to old line government agencies, with the one exception noted above. It also comes clear that the President is determined to impose any or all controls the moment he deems "voluntary" sacrifices to be inadequate.

War Cost Mounting

Middle-aged persons can remember when a billion dollars was a staggering sum. Today the word billion rolls easily off the tongue, and a billion dollars is regarded as just one more blue chip in a bottomless pot. Only with difficulty can the profound effect the billions to be spent in the next 12 months be visualized.

President Truman has already signed the omnibus appropriation bill for $36,000,000,000. The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved supplemental appropriations totaling $17,000,000,000 more. This will bring the total for military expenditures at home and abroad to $30,000,000,000 and will raise the total budget to $53,000,000,000.

But that's not all. Within a few months Mr. Truman is expected to ask for an additional $10,000,000,000—possibly more, if the situation becomes worse. That would bring the year's military total to $40,000,000,000 and the total budget to $63,000,000,000. There is little opposition to these expenditures. The nation's security is at stake. But the inflationary impact will be severe. And today there is no unemployment and no low price level to take up some of the slack. Inflation starts off in high gear.

Present revenue sources at present rates provide a bare $40,000,000,000. The government will be compelled to raise at least $23,000,000,000 by other means. Borrowing such an amount would be equipping the inflationary trend with jet propulsion. Raising the entire $23,000,000,000 through higher taxes would hold down inflation and might be the least painful. What the citizen paid in higher taxes might be little more than he would otherwise have paid in higher prices. But that will not be tried. No government would risk the effect on production, national unity and morale of tax increases on that scale.

This is an election year. Consequently the people cannot expect to hear all the bad news until after election. Higher taxes and more drastic controls are on the way, but they will be kept to a minimum until after election. Next year, when the government drops the other shoe, taxpayers will discover that even today a billion dollars isn't chicken feed.

Barbarian Alexander

The movies have discovered Genghis Khan. His career will soon be filmed. This will make millions acquainted with the man who has been called the greatest conqueror of all time. A barbarian counterpart of Alexander the Great, he started as the chief of a tiny tribe. He and his immediate successors built a Mongol empire which included Russia, China and all Central Asia to the mountains guarding Tibet and India. They even projected the conquest of Japan, but were defeated by a storm like that which helped wreck the Spanish Armada's attempted conquest of England. In the other direction, they invaded Hungary and Poland and reached German Silesia, before the unbeaten armies were called back by news of the death of their ruler, the great Khan.

All this they did with small armies, strictly disciplined, aided by Chinese engineers, and guided by the accurate reports of spies. Their aim was to set up a pastoral civilization. Genghis Khan once meditated the slaughter of the entire Chinese nation to use their land for grazing. He was dissuaded by the reminder that the Chinese did one thing useful for him: they paid taxes.

Soldier Of The South

If armies had possessed tanks in his day, he might have been the foreshadow of George S. Patton Jr. This refers to the South's John B. Hood, a soldier who revelled in fighting. He differed from Patton, however, in one important respect. Patton was a winning general; Hood lost his chief engagement, the battle of Nashville in 1864. Hood was, it now appears, over his head when commanding an army. As leader of a regiment or division, he could not be surpassed; but when a campaign required more than bulldog assault on the enemy, Hood was lacking.

For years Hood has been neglected by biographers. Now, within a few months of each other, two lives have appeared, "Hood, Cavalier General" by Richard O'Connor, and now "The Gallant Hood by John P. Dyer, professor of history in Tulane University, New Orleans. Issuing two biographies where one might suffice is an old publishers' custom. Two biographies of George H. Thomas, who defeated Hood, came out almost simultaneously, and now the two of Hood. They both agree on one fundamental fact, that the promotion of Hood to command of an army was one of the many military blunders of Jefferson Davis.

Perhaps history repeats because many miss the lesson the first time.

It's a long lane that has any empty parking spaces.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Baldness And Scalp Padding

THRUOUT the years many remedies for baldness have been devised but there are millions of "baldies" to attest to the fact that we lack a hair restorer. For this we can blame lack of knowledge concerning the cause. This does not mean, however, that physicians have never given thought to or done research on the problem but their efforts have led mainly to theories and to disproving old wives' tales and ancient beliefs. After all, protecting the public from being swindled thru fraudulent claims is part of the responsibility of the medical profession and it will continue to assume the role of watchdog until a real cure is obtained.

One of the most recent concepts of baldness begins with the proposition that contractions of the scalp muscles lead to kinking and pinching of the blood vessels of the head and the impairment of circulation that follows is responsible for hair fall. But this is not all. It is well known that the tissues comprising the normal scalp are nearly twice as thick as over the bare forehead. It also is known that the tissues of areas that have become bald have lost their padding and are as thin as they are over the forehead.

Doctors T. S. Szasz and A. M. Robertson put two and two together and decided that muscle tension in itself would not kink blood vessels over these spots when they are well padded. From this they reasoned that the man who is destined to become bald first loses the fat underneath the skin of the scalp. Once this has occurred, the muscles can act on the blood vessels to curtain the blood flow to the hair roots.

One objection to this theory centers about the incontestable evidence that the male sex hormone plays a role in setting the stage. But Doctors Szasz and Robertson found the answer for this drawback. By searching the medical literature, they discovered that years ago it was demonstrated that when this hormone was injected in excessive amounts there is a tendency for the fat beneath the skin to undergo chemical changes and literally dissolve. This information apparently made the theory more tenable because it is the men with an overabundance of testosterone who become bald and it is possible that the modus operandi is loss of scalp fat. This in turn makes the scalp more susceptible to circulatory changes by muscle compression.

We also mentioned that baldness was prone to develop in regions where muscles are able to exert their greatest force. As a rule, this is in the midline and near the back where the muscle fibers are more adherent to the skull. The exact pattern depends upon the shape of the head, which is inherited. This is significant, however, because hair thinning is most likely to occur in these spots, creating the characteristic type of baldness. There is nothing practical about this theory. We cannot alter the hereditary pattern nor is it feasible to disrupt the glandular system to grow a thatch. Furthermore, there is no way to open a kinked vessel that is being compressed from within.

DONOR

B. W. writes: Can a person who has had treatment for the blood be a donor?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of blood condition the individual in question suffered. In general, no one who has had a disorder of this nature should act as a donor. There are so many with no blood disturbance that it is unnecessary for donor or recipient to take a chance.

Collins Feels Optimistic On Korea; New Bazooka Developed Just In Time; Italo-American Congressman Credited With Helping Oust Johnson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—In the most optimistic war report yet given Congress, Army Chief of Staff Joe Collins promised no more retreats in Korea and predicted the Chinese communists would not attack Formosa.

General Collins summed up the Korean situation for the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors. To the best of his knowledge and judgment, he reported, "there will be no more falling back."

The good news, however, didn't stop senators from needling General Collins about sending untrained American boys into the front lines.

"It was not our intention to do that," Collins explained. "You must remember that we didn't have enough trained men in Japan."

He pointed out that Japan was short of training grounds, because every available inch was under cultivation. Thus, the Army found it difficult to give combat training under actual battle conditions, using live explosion charges. Tank shells, he said, would ricochet for miles and would be likely to kill civilians. Yet, this is the kind of training needed to condition men for war. Collins added that training was a matter of comparison anyway, that a soldier got more out of three months intensified training under emergency conditions than a full year of peacetime training.

The army's chief problem is not lack of manpower, but lack of equipment, the chief of staff clarified.

"People wonder why we don't call up more national guard units and more organized reserves," he explained. "Why call up men in excess of the equipment we have to supply them with?"

Collins added, however, that the equipment was now beginning to roll, which caused Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate's watch-dog over military production, to ask why the super, tank-penetrating bazookas had not been mass-produced earlier.

Bazookas In Nick Of Time

"It was fortunate that we perfected them as soon as we did," replied Collins, who commanded the capture of Cherbourg in the Normandy invasion and has had plenty of bazooka experience. He went on to explain the difficulty in developing the delicate, precision shells for these new super bazookas, which finally stopped the Soviet 60-ton tanks. The shells release a concentrated ray of heat that can bore through 14 inches of armor—a project that took considerable perfecting by Army Ordnance. After the handmade models were completed, Collins added, it was a problem to convert to mass production and the Army was lucky in having them finished just as the Korean War broke.

Collins briefed the senators from a war map, which caused him to remark that the army has developed a new plastics process for building relief maps, reducing the cost of relief maps from $35 to 60 cents per square foot.

This caused Kentucky's Senator Virgil Chapman to look round the room, and noting that economy-minded Senator Byrd of Virginia was not present, he observed: "Be sure to tell Senator Byrd about that."

General Collins also talked about the 38th parallel, along which his son served as an army officer before the invasion.

"The 38th parallel is nothing but an imaginary line. It doesn't follow any river, mountain range or natural barrier," he explained.

Sometimes it cuts right through the middle of a rice paddy, hence the people living along the 38th parallel "pay no attention to it."

However, Collins didn't say whether the allied armies would pay any attention to it. The decision, he indicated, would be left up to the United Nations.

Axman Tauriello

Dapper Congressman Tony Tauriello, the Italian-American from Buffalo, is now greeted in the congressional cloakrooms as "bad news Tony."

This is because Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson resigned just a few days after Tauriello's scathing letter demanding that he quit.

The morning Johnson's ouster was announced, Tauriello received a flock of congratulations, plus an inference from Wisconsin's Andy Biemiller that Taureillo was an axman for the White House.

"Who is next on your list?" Biemiller asked.

The Buffalo Democrat and first-termer protested to no avail that he had no inside from the president. To which Rep. John McCormack of Massuchusetts, the majority leader, said: "You knew about Johnson going before I did, Tony."

Rep. Stephen Young of Ohio pulled Tauriello into a corner and told him Johnson's resignation would so bolster Democrat chances in Ohio that Senator Robert Taft would probably be defeated.

Fidgety Accuser

A chubby little man with a limp Hitler moustache fidgeted before the Senate Interior Committee. He was Frank T. Bow, and he had ghost-written the speech in which Senator Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas tried to pin the red label on Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman.

After a full day of inquiry, puzzled Chairman Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming asked: "Do you end now with the statement that you make no charge of personal disloyalty against Secretary Chapman?"

"Yes, sir," Bow replied meekly.

Earlier in the hearings, Bow had said that he dug his criticism of Chapman out of the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

"Has the house committee ever brought any charges against Secretary Chapman?" shot back O'Mahoney.

"Not to my knowledge," Bow admitted.

He also testified that he received his anti-Chapman information two years ago when he was counsel for the old Harness committee in the 80th Congress.

"You want us to infer," aswed the exasperated O'Mahoney, "that when you were counsel for the Harness committee, you did not regard this evidence as of sufficient moment to justify you to ask the attorney general for investigation. Did you personally examine Oscar Chapman?"

"No, sir," replied Bow, "I did not . . . before this committee I am making no charges."

Disgusted, Senator Jim Murray of Montana commented, "We should be ashamed of ourselves listening to this kind of stuff when our country is threatened with dangers in the world."

Bow spoke up, "I do not doubt the loyalty of Mr. Chapman."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Where We Stand

WASHINGTON

THE news from Korea is good. But the news from New York is bad. On-the-spot reports from Korea will soon appear in this space, but it is believed in Washington that the successful landings in the north may bring victory sooner than it had seemed possible to hope. Yet good news from Korea should not be allowed to obscure the central fact.

This is that the strategic situation of the United States and its allies is nothing short of intolerable. Moreover, it will remain intolerable just so long as there is no real defense of Western Europe—and this is the problem with which the Foreign Ministers of the Atlantic Pact powers have been grappling in New York, with what appears to be marked lack of success.

There is one way to understand just how intolerable our situation is, while the defense of Western Europe remains a paper defense. This is to ask the best informed of the strategic planners for their best estimates of the course of a general war breaking out in the near future. There is, perhaps, nothing particularly surprising about their answers. But just as a reminder of where we really stand, it may be worth repeating these answers in capsule form.

First, of course, just about everything the United States has, except the strategic air force, the inadequate continental air command, and odds and ends of divisions, is now committed in Korea. Thus it is "difficult to see how a stand could be made anywhere in Europe, even behind the Pyrennees."

Second, the planners accept the view of Winston Churchill of the position of the British Isles, if the continent is over-run. Even in the bad days of 1940, Churchill said recently, he had "good hopes" that England would win through, even alone. "But now," he continued, "I cannot feel the same sense of concrete assurance." While the continent is defenseless, the planners believe, it must be assumed that Britain might be neutralized, even without an invasion.

Third, there is virtually nothing available for the defense of the Middle East. Thus, "we would do very well to secure a major base in North Africa."

Fourth, southeast Asia, already so threatened, would go the way of China. And with the mainland of Asia gone, the defense of the American bases in Japan, Okinawa, and the Philippines is rated "very difficult and probably impossible."

It is time to face up to what this means. It means a United States, for the first time in its history, fighting almost alone, retaining as effective allies only such British Commonwealth countries as Canada, New Zealand, and Australia, plus whatever allies could be found among the Latin American countries.

This is the assumption which must be made, at least for planning purposes. There is, of course, another side to the picture. As of today, according to the best guesses of the best guessers in the Pentagon, the Soviet Union could eliminate at most 15 per cent of the American war potential by atomic bombardment. On the other hand, the Soviet Union could be "turned back to the Middle Ages" — reduced to an essentially agrarian civilization.

May Last 30 Years

Moreover, the United States would have many secret allies in the vast areas occupied by the Red Army. It is not impossible that under such circumstances the whole structure of Soviet power might quite suddenly collapse. But it is also not impossible, the planners warn, that "such a war might last for thirty years."

The key to everything is the defense of Western Europe. Only when there is real military power in Western Europe will the growing stockpile of Soviet atom bombs be balanced by equality in conventional military strength in the West. Until the vacuum in Western Europe is filled everyone, in this country as well as

Integration Of Armed Forces Is Being Applied

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Now it can be told—the story of a great naval armada of more than 300 ships assembled on short notice and delivering two full strength division of troops at Inchon for a successful landing under the protection of American naval guns and naval airpower.

One of the two divisions, composed of Army troops, was transported by the Navy from points in the the Pacific. But to land the other division composed of U. S. Marines, necessitated a movement virtually around the world. From the Mediterranean and through the Suez Canal went U. S. Marines protected by American cruisers and destroyers.

Just before the naval forces and Marines started from their stations in the Mediterranean, reinforcements of Marines likewise went from the United States to replace the Mediterranean forces that had been ordered to the Far East so that the departure and replacement movements occurred simultaneously.

Demonstrates Mobility

But this feat—a conspicuous demonstration of the mobility of the United States Navy—was not the only example of mobility. The same Marine brigade fighting in South Korea on Monday were on Friday fighting their way into Seoul from Inchon. They had been withdrawn from the front line, replaced by army troops and loaded on ships at a South Korean port and brought together on the West Coast of Korea with other Marine units from the Mediterranean and the United States and then put into action as a full strength division. They did not need any new training or maneuvers. It now turns out that the Marine bridage fighting in South Korea for the last several weeks went there merely as a stop gap to help plug the line but was designed from the beginning to join other units in the amphibious or ship-to-shore operation just completed at Inchon though planned last June.

It can now be told also what the meaning of the naval operation is on the East Coast of Korea. Here the battleship Missouri is pouring 16-inch shells up and down the coast. She had been hastily brought back to Annapolis a few weeks ago to unload the midshipmen she had been carrying on a training cruise. The famous battlewagon was sent full speed by Admiral Sherman to the Far East. Her ammunition and supplies were sent ahead of time to Pacific bases. The Missouri packs a powerful wallop. Each of her 16-inch shells is the equivalent of two 1,000-pound airplane bombs and can be fired in all kinds of weather steadily for days, horizontally and at other angles, within a range of 18 miles inland along the coast.

The South Korean marines, trained by America, are the only troops being used for landing on the East Coast. They together with the firepower of the Missouri and of our heavy cruisers and destroyers, are designed to make the narrow road along the East Coast of Korea not only impassable from the north for supply caravans but also unusable for any northward retreat of the communist forces when the United Nations army offensive in the South begins to push them back.

It also can be told now that the battleship New Jersery was a few weeks ago ordered into commission. She was Admiral Halsey's flagship in the last war. A third battleship will be put in commission in a few months. These battleships which are needed in peacetime to train gunners and naval reserve officers for cruisers and destroyers—they can give big ship discipline to a crew of about 2,000 men at a time—can also be used for bombardment whenever required. The importance of the training programs can be realized when it is noted that our destroyers are being increased from 135 to 200.

Carriers Being Increased

Also it can be stated authoritatively now that before the end of the present fiscal year naval airpower which had 30 aircraft carriers operating in 1945 will have at least ten big carriers and 15 smaller ones in commission. Many of these coming out of shipyards in a few months will have been modernized. They are desperately needed for anti-submarine patrol, the chief weakness at the moment in the Pacific.

All in all the United States Fleet is being rehabilitated not only for service in the Pacific but in the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean and in the Indian Ocean. It seems strange that only a year ago some public men and a few military spokesmen were arguing that because Russia had no large navy, America did not need any substantial naval force either. It is apparent that a mobile force of Marines and a flexible navy will always be needed not only as a deterrent in peacetime to potential enemies but as a force in being ready for instant service throughout the seven seas without waiting for draft calls or the mobilization of inactive reserves.

Likewise it is good news that the U. S. Air Forces which have done a remarkable support job in the Far East are being enlarged and that the ground troops of the U. S. Army are at last coming into their own with a tank program and personnel expansion which has long been urged as against the doctrine that wars can be fought cheaply with one branch of the armed services, namely strategic air. Today more than ever the principle of integration of our armed services is being effectively applied.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Fanatical Red-Baiters

IT would seem that Senator Millard Tydings feels called upon to defend his whitewash of the infiltration of communists in government departments, particularly the State. His defense is that the Senate resolution called upon him to investigate Senator McCarthy's charges. It did no such thing. The Senate resolution read:

"Resolved, that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, or any duly authorized subcommittee thereof, is authorized and directed to conduct a full and complete study and investigation as to whether persons who are disloyal to the United States are or have been employed by the Department of State."

Senator Tydings makes a to-do about professional anti-communists, by which he undoubtedly means those who are experts in the field. After all, Maxism is a movement little more than 100 years old. It is a philosophic system with special views on the subjects of religion, biology, economics, politics and social institutions. Since 1917, this philosophy has been applied practically to a country of 180,000,000 persons. It is now being applied to a complex of races consisting of about 800,000,000 human beings.

To understand this development in human history, much study, analysis and thought are required. On both sides, experts have been developed.

For instance, Max Eastman, David Dallin, William Henry Chamberlin, and some others I could mention are experts in the field of communist theory. Dr. J. B. Matthews, T. C. Kirkpatrick, and Karl Barslaag are experts in the field of current communist activities. Isaac Don Levine and Alfred Kohlberg are authorities on the relationship of communist movements to international intrigue. Father Edmund Walsh possesses a vast knowledge of the conflict between Marxism and Christianity.

Such former communists as Jay Lovestone, Benjamine Gitlow, Joseph Zack, Louis Budenz, Eugene Lyons (he was never a communist but his knowledge is invaluable), Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers—to mention a few—know the movement from the inside.

I am not calling the roll, but am merely indicating that if you needed a doctor to look after your eyes, you would not go to a horse doctor. He might be a nice gentleman and quite impartial, but he would not know the human eye.

I could list men in our government who are experts in phases of this field, but I do not want them to lose their jobs as professional anti-communists. It is wrong to blame Senator Tydings or Dean Acheson for their naive astonishment at the truth as it discloses itself, perhaps by such a confession as Lee Pressman's. I blame them for not understanding that they require the services of men as expert in this field as a municipality requires the right kind of engineer to design and build a bridge.

Last winter, I addressed a group of ardent but puzzled men on the subject of fragmentization. This is a commonplace communist tactic. It might be an application of the old political axiom: "divide and rule." But the communists in all countries fragmentize the population by a propaganda device arising out of their theory that all life is a struggle for survival, and nothing else. Therefore, groups must struggle against each other if there is to be human progress.

In this country, they applied this technique particularly to racial groups. They established the word, minority, as a social entity. Trace that word, as applied to Jews, Catholics and Negroes, and see how recent it is in this relationship. They so built this concept that entire groups of our citizens have accepted their status as members of a minority. Certainly such a figure as Louis D. Brandeis did not think of himself as one of a minority. He was an American among the whole American people.

To understand and trace through this concept of fragmentization; to grasp its poisonous effect upon Jews, Negroes, Italians, Puerto Ricans; to realize its potential evils and to think out the cures—these involve considerable study, understanding and thought. No off-the-cuff superficialties add to our knowledge.

Therefore, the anti-communist expert, the professional anti-Marxist, is a valuable citizen who can contribute much to his country's political health and security. He is not to be held up to opprobrium by politicians who would wash away the whole thing as an alien nightmare. It will not wash away. It has grown too big. It now needs to be understood as a major problem in our lives requiring expert attention.

The New Alphabet Of War Economy

Anyone who spent the trying years of World War II on the home front invariably associates the nagging strait jacket of economic controls of that period with one or more of Washington's alphabet agencies. Thus the appearance in news dispatches of new alphabet combinations is perhaps the sharpest reminder that a war economy is again hovering over the nation.

Looking over the list of names of the new agencies and their functions, the citizens can hope that the changes in names are for the better. Instead of the OPA (Office of Price Administration), there is the ESA (Economic Stabilization Agency) to ride herd on wage and price controls.

The WMC (War Manpower Commission) becomes bureaucratic history as its functions become the charge of the NSRB (National Security Resources Board).

To allocate scarce materials the familiar initials of the WPB (War Production Board) bow out in favor of a new alphabet combination, NPA (National Production Authority). This latter agency will be headed by William H. Harrison, president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, who has already met with steel men to discuss how much of this vital material should be allotted to the civilian economy.

Perhaps the greatest departure from the World War II mode of operation was the appointment of W. Stuart Symington, now head of the NSRB, to boss the system of over-all controls.

Under the powers granted him by the Defense Production Act the President has seen fit to shift all the problems of rearmament to old line government agencies, with the one exception noted above. It also comes clear that the President is determined to impose any or all controls the moment he deems "voluntary" sacrifices to be inadequate.

War Cost Mounting

Middle-aged persons can remember when a billion dollars was a staggering sum. Today the word billion rolls easily off the tongue, and a billion dollars is regarded as just one more blue chip in a bottomless pot. Only with difficulty can the profound effect the billions to be spent in the next 12 months be visualized.

President Truman has already signed the omnibus appropriation bill for $36,000,000,000. The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved supplemental appropriations totaling $17,000,000,000 more. This will bring the total for military expenditures at home and abroad to $30,000,000,000 and will raise the total budget to $53,000,000,000.

But that's not all. Within a few months Mr. Truman is expected to ask for an additional $10,000,000,000—possibly more, if the situation becomes worse. That would bring the year's military total to $40,000,000,000 and the total budget to $63,000,000,000. There is little opposition to these expenditures. The nation's security is at stake. But the inflationary impact will be severe. And today there is no unemployment and no low price level to take up some of the slack. Inflation starts off in high gear.

Present revenue sources at present rates provide a bare $40,000,000,000. The government will be compelled to raise at least $23,000,000,000 by other means. Borrowing such an amount would be equipping the inflationary trend with jet propulsion. Raising the entire $23,000,000,000 through higher taxes would hold down inflation and might be the least painful. What the citizen paid in higher taxes might be little more than he would otherwise have paid in higher prices. But that will not be tried. No government would risk the effect on production, national unity and morale of tax increases on that scale.

This is an election year. Consequently the people cannot expect to hear all the bad news until after election. Higher taxes and more drastic controls are on the way, but they will be kept to a minimum until after election. Next year, when the government drops the other shoe, taxpayers will discover that even today a billion dollars isn't chicken feed.

Barbarian Alexander

The movies have discovered Genghis Khan. His career will soon be filmed. This will make millions acquainted with the man who has been called the greatest conqueror of all time. A barbarian counterpart of Alexander the Great, he started as the chief of a tiny tribe. He and his immediate successors built a Mongol empire which included Russia, China and all Central Asia to the mountains guarding Tibet and India. They even projected the conquest of Japan, but were defeated by a storm like that which helped wreck the Spanish Armada's attempted conquest of England. In the other direction, they invaded Hungary and Poland and reached German Silesia, before the unbeaten armies were called back by news of the death of their ruler, the great Khan.

All this they did with small armies, strictly disciplined, aided by Chinese engineers, and guided by the accurate reports of spies. Their aim was to set up a pastoral civilization. Genghis Khan once meditated the slaughter of the entire Chinese nation to use their land for grazing. He was dissuaded by the reminder that the Chinese did one thing useful for him: they paid taxes.

Soldier Of The South

If armies had possessed tanks in his day, he might have been the foreshadow of George S. Patton Jr. This refers to the South's John B. Hood, a soldier who reveled in fighting. He differed from Patton, however, in one important respect. Patton was a winning general; Hood lost his chief engagement, the battle of Nashville in 1864. Hood was, it now appears, over his head when commanding an army. As leader of a regiment or division, he could not be surpassed; but when a campaign required more than bulldog assault on the enemy, Hood was lacking.

For years Hood has been neglected by biographers. Now, within a few months of each other, two lives have appeared, "Hood, Cavalier General" by Richard O'Connor, and now "The Gallant Hood by John P. Dyer, professor of history in Tulane University, New Orleans. Issuing two biographies where one might suffice is an old publishers' custom. Two biographies of George H. Thomas, who defeated Hood, came out almost simultaneously, and now the two of Hood. They both agree on one fundamental fact, that the promotion of Hood to command of an army was one of the many military blunders of Jefferson Davis.

Perhaps history repeats because many miss the lesson the first time.

It's a long lane that has any empty parking spaces.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Baldness And Scalp Padding

THRUOUT the years many remedies for baldness have been devised but there are millions of "baldies" to attest to the fact that we lack a hair restorer. For this we can blame lack of knowledge concerning the cause. This does not mean, however, that physicians have never given thought to or done research on the problem but their efforts have led mainly to theories and to disproving old wives' tales and ancient beliefs. After all, protecting the public from being swindled thru fraudulent claims is part of the responsibility of the medical profession and it will continue to assume the role of watchdog until a real cure is obtained.

One of the most recent concepts of baldness begins with the proposition that contractions of the scalp muscles lead to kinking and pinching of the blood vessels of the head and the impairment of circulation that follows is responsible for hair fall. But this is not all. It is well known that the tissues comprising the normal scalp are nearly twice as thick as over the bare forehead. It also is known that the tissues of areas that have become bald have lost their padding and are as thin as they are over the forehead.

Doctors T. S. Szasz and A. M. Robertson put two and two together and decided that muscle tension in itself would not kink blood vessels over these spots when they are well padded. From this they reasoned that the man who is destined to become bald first loses the fat underneath the skin of the scalp. Once this has occurred, the muscles can act on the blood vessels to curtain the blood flow to the hair roots.

One objection to this theory centers about the incontestable evidence that the male sex hormone plays a role in setting the stage. But Doctors Szasz and Robertson found the answer for this drawback. By searching the medical literature, they discovered that years ago it was demonstrated that when this hormone was injected in excessive amounts there is a tendency for the fat beneath the skin to undergo chemical changes and literally dissolve. This information apparently made the theory more tenable because it is the men with an overabundance of testosterone who become bald and it is possible that the modus operandi is loss of scalp fat. This in turn makes the scalp more susceptible to circulatory changes by muscle compression.

We also mentioned that baldness was prone to develop in regions where muscles are able to exert their greatest force. As a rule, this is in the midline and near the back where the muscle fibers are more adherent to the skull. The exact pattern depends upon the shape of the head, which is inherited. This is significant, however, because hair thinning is most likely to occur in these spots, creating the characteristic type of baldness. There is nothing practical about this theory. We cannot alter the hereditary pattern nor is it feasible to disrupt the glandular system to grow a thatch. Furthermore, there is no way to open a kinked vessel that is being compressed from within.

DONOR

B. W. writes: Can a person who has had treatment for the blood be a donor?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of blood condition the individual in question suffered. In general, no one who has had a disorder of this nature should act as a donor. There are so many with no blood disturbance that it is unnecessary for donor or recipient to take a chance.

Collins Feels Optimistic On Korea; New Bazooka Developed Just In Time; Italo-American Congressman Credited With Helping Oust Johnson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—In the most optimistic war report yet given Congress, Army Chief of Staff Joe Collins promised no more retreats in Korea and predicted the Chinese communists would not attack Formosa.

General Collins summed up the Korean situation for the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors. To the best of his knowledge and judgment, he reported, "there will be no more falling back."

The good news, however, didn't stop senators from needling General Collins about sending untrained American boys into the front lines.

"It was not our intention to do that," Collins explained. "You must remember that we didn't have enough trained men in Japan."

He pointed out that Japan was short of training grounds, because every available inch was under cultivation. Thus, the Army found it difficult to give combat training under actual battle conditions, using live explosion charges. Tank shells, he said, would ricochet for miles and would be likely to kill civilians. Yet, this is the kind of training needed to condition men for war. Collins added that training was a matter of comparison anyway, that a soldier got more out of three months intensified training under emergency conditions than a full year of peacetime training.

The army's chief problem is not lack of manpower, but lack of equipment, the chief of staff clarified.

"People wonder why we don't call up more national guard units and more organized reserves," he explained. "Why call up men in excess of the equipment we have to supply them with?"

Collins added, however, that the equipment was now beginning to roll, which caused Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate's watch-dog over military production, to ask why the super, tank-penetrating bazookas had not been mass-produced earlier.

Bazookas In Nick Of Time

"It was fortunate that we perfected them as soon as we did," replied Collins, who commanded the capture of Cherbourg in the Normandy invasion and has had plenty of bazooka experience. He went on to explain the difficulty in developing the delicate, precision shells for these new super bazookas, which finally stopped the Soviet 60-ton tanks. The shells release a concentrated ray of heat that can bore through 14 inches of armor—a project that took considerable perfecting by Army Ordnance. After the handmade models were completed, Collins added, it was a problem to convert to mass production and the Army was lucky in having them finished just as the Korean War broke.

Collins briefed the senators from a war map, which caused him to remark that the army has developed a new plastics process for building relief maps, reducing the cost of relief maps from $35 to 60 cents per square foot.

This caused Kentucky's Senator Virgil Chapman to look round the room, and noting that economy-minded Senator Byrd of Virginia was not present, he observed: "Be sure to tell Senator Byrd about that."

General Collins also talked about the 38th parallel, along which his son served as an army officer before the invasion.

"The 38th parallel is nothing but an imaginary line. It doesn't follow any river, mountain range or natural barrier," he explained.

Sometimes it cuts right through the middle of a rice paddy, hence the people living along the 38th parallel "pay no attention to it."

However, Collins didn't say whether the allied armies would pay any attention to it. The decision, he indicated, would be left up to the United Nations.

Axman Tauriello

Dapper Congressman Tony Tauriello, the Italian-American from Buffalo, is now greeted in the congressional cloakrooms as "bad news Tony."

This is because Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson resigned just a few days after Tauriello's scathing letter demanding that he quit.

The morning Johnson's ouster was announced, Tauriello received a flock of congratulations, plus an inference from Wisconsin's Andy Biemiller that Taurello was an axman for the White House.

"Who is next on your list?" Biemiller asked.

The Buffalo Democrat and first-termer protested to no avail that he had no inside from the president. To which Rep. John McCormack of Massuchusetts, the majority leader, said: "You knew about Johnson going before I did, Tony."

Rep. Stephen Young of Ohio pulled Tauriello into a corner and told him Johnson's resignation would so bolster Democrat chances in Ohio that Senator Robert Taft would probably be defeated.

Fidgety Accuser

A chubby little man with a limp Hitler moustache fidgeted before the Senate Interior Committee. He was Frank T. Bow, and he had ghost-written the speech in which Senator Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas tried to pin the red label on Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman.

After a full day of inquiry, puzzled Chairman Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming asked: "Do you end now with the statement that you make no charge of personal disloyalty against Secretary Chapman?"

"Yes, sir," Bow replied meekly.

Earlier in the hearings, Bow had said that he dug his criticism of Chapman out of the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

"Has the house committee ever brought any charges against Secretary Chapman?" shot back O'Mahoney.

"Not to my knowledge," Bow admitted.

He also testified that he received his anti-Chapman information two years ago when he was counsel for the old Harness committee in the 80th Congress.

"You want us to infer," aswed the exasperated O'Mahoney, "that when you were counsel for the Harness committee, you did not regard this evidence as of sufficient moment to justify you to ask the attorney general for investigation. Did you personally examine Oscar Chapman?"

"No, sir," replied Bow, "I did not . . . before this committee I am making no charges."

Disgusted, Senator Jim Murray of Montana commented, "We should be ashamed of ourselves listening to this kind of stuff when our country is threatened with dangers in the world."

Bow spoke up, "I do not doubt the loyalty of Mr. Chapman."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Where We Stand

WASHINGTON

THE news from Korea is good. But the news from New York is bad. On-the-spot reports from Korea will soon appear in this space, but it is believed in Washington that the successful landings in the north may bring victory sooner than it had seemed possible to hope. Yet good news from Korea should not be allowed to obscure the central fact.

This is that the strategic situation of the United States and its allies is nothing short of intolerable. Moreover, it will remain intolerable just so long as there is no real defense of Western Europe—and this is the problem with which the Foreign Ministers of the Atlantic Pact powers have been grappling in New York, with what appears to be marked lack of success.

There is one way to understand just how intolerable our situation is, while the defense of Western Europe remains a paper defense. This is to ask the best informed of the strategic planners for their best estimates of the course of a general war breaking out in the near future. There is, perhaps, nothing particularly surprising about their answers. But just as a reminder of where we really stand, it may be worth repeating these answers in capsule form.

First, of course, just about everything the United States has, except the strategic air force, the inadequate continental air command, and odds and ends of divisions, is now committed in Korea. Thus it is "difficult to see how a stand could be made anywhere in Europe, even behind the Pyrennees."

Second, the planners accept the view of Winston Churchill of the position of the British Isles, if the continent is over-run. Even in the bad days of 1940, Churchill said recently, he had "good hopes" that England would win through, even alone. "But now," he continued, "I cannot feel the same sense of concrete assurance." While the continent is defenseless, the planners believe, it must be assumed that Britain might be neutralized, even without an invasion.

Third, there is virtually nothing available for the defense of the Middle East. Thus, "we would do very well to secure a major base in North Africa."

Fourth, southeast Asia, already so threatened, would go the way of China. And with the mainland of Asia gone, the defense of the American bases in Japan, Okinawa, and the Philippines is rated "very difficult and probably impossible."

It is time to face up to what this means. It means a United States, for the first time in its history, fighting almost alone, retaining as effective allies only such British Commonwealth countries as Canada, New Zealand, and Australia, plus whatever allies could be found among the Latin American countries.

This is the assumption which must be made, at least for planning purposes. There is, of course, another side to the picture. As of today, according to the best guesses of the best guessers in the Pentagon, the Soviet Union could eliminate at most 15 per cent of the American war potential by atomic bombardment. On the other hand, the Soviet Union could be "turned back to the Middle Ages" — reduced to an essentially agrarian civilization.

May Last 30 Years

Moreover, the United States would have many secret allies in the vast areas occupied by the Red Army. It is not impossible that under such circumstances the whole structure of Soviet power might quite suddenly collapse. But it is also not impossible, the planners warn, that "such a war might last for thirty years."

The key to everything is the defense of Western Europe. Only when there is real military power in Western Europe will the growing stockpile of Soviet atom bombs be balanced by equality in conventional military strength in the West. Until the vacuum in Western Europe is filled everyone, in this country as well as

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Now it can be told—the story of a great naval armada of more than 300 ships assembled on short notice and delivering two full strength division of troops at Inchon for a successful landing under the protection of American naval guns and naval airpower.

One of the two divisions, composed of Army troops, was transported by the Navy from points in the the Pacific. But to land the other division composed of U. S. Marines, necessitated a movement virtually around the world. From the Mediterranean and through the Suez Canal went U. S. Marines protected by American cruisers and destroyers.

Just before the naval forces and Marines started from their stations in the Mediterranean, reinforcements of Marines likewise went from the United States to replace the Mediterranean forces that had been ordered to the Far East so that the departure and replacement movements occurred simultaneously.

Demonstrates Mobility

But this feat—a conspicuous demonstration of the mobility of the United States Navy—was not the only example of mobility. The same Marine brigade fighting in South Korea on Monday were on Friday fighting their way into Seoul from Inchon. They had been withdrawn from the front line, replaced by army troops and loaded on ships at a South Korean port and brought together on the West Coast of Korea with other Marine units from the Mediterranean and the United States and then put into action as a full strength division. They did not need any new training or maneuvers. It now turns out that the Marine bridage fighting in South Korea for the last several weeks went there merely as a stop gap to help plug the line but was designed from the beginning to join other units in the amphibious or ship-to-shore operation just completed at Inchon though planned last June.

It can now be told also what the meaning of the naval operation is on the East Coast of Korea. Here the battleship Missouri is pouring 16-inch shells up and down the coast. She had been hastily brought back to Annapolis a few weeks ago to unload the midshipmen she had been carrying on a training cruise. The famous battlewagon was sent full speed by Admiral Sherman to the Far East. Her ammunition and supplies were sent ahead of time to Pacific bases. The Missouri packs a powerful wallop. Each of her 16-inch shells is the equivalent of two 1,000-pound airplane bombs and can be fired in all kinds of weather steadily for days, horizontally and at other angles, within a range of 18 miles inland along the coast.

The South Korean marines, trained by America, are the only troops being used for landing on the East Coast. They together with the firepower of the Missouri and of our heavy cruisers and destroyers, are designed to make the narrow road along the East Coast of Korea not only impassable from the north for supply caravans but also unusable for any northward retreat of the communist forces when the United Nations army offensive in the South begins to push them back.

It also can be told now that the battleship New Jersery was a few weeks ago ordered into commission. She was Admiral Halsey's flagship in the last war. A third battleship will be put in commission in a few months. These battleships which are needed in peacetime to train gunners and naval reserve officers for cruisers and destroyers—they can give big ship discipline to a crew of about 2,000 men at a time—can also be used for bombardment whenever required. The importance of the training programs can be realized when it is noted that our destroyers are being increased from 135 to 200.

Carriers Being Increased

Also it can be stated authoritatively now that before the end of the present fiscal year naval airpower which had 30 aircraft carriers operating in 1945 will have at least ten big carriers and 15 smaller ones in commission. Many of these coming out of shipyards in a few months will have been modernized. They are desperately needed for anti-submarine patrol, the chief weakness at the moment in the Pacific.

All in all the United States Fleet is being rehabilitated not only for service in the Pacific but in the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean and in the Indian Ocean. It seems strange that only a year ago some public men and a few military spokesmen were arguing that because Russia had no large navy, America did not need any substantial naval force either. It is apparent that a mobile force of Marines and a flexible navy will always be needed not only as a deterrent in peacetime to potential enemies but as a force in being ready for instant service throughout the seven seas without waiting for draft calls or the mobilization of inactive reserves.

Likewise it is good news that the U. S. Air Forces which have done a remarkable support job in the Far East are being enlarged and that the ground troops of the U. S. Army are at last coming into their own with a tank program and personnel expansion which has long been urged as against the doctrine that wars can be fought cheaply with one branch of the armed services, namely strategic air. Today more than ever the principle of integration of our armed services is being effectively applied.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Fanatical Red-Baiters

IT would seem that Senator Millard Tydings feels called upon to defend his whitewash of the infiltration of communists in government departments, particularly the State. His defense is that the Senate resolution called upon him to investigate Senator McCarthy's charges. It did no such thing. The Senate resolution read:

"Resolved, that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, or any duly authorized subcommittee thereof, is authorized and directed to conduct a full and complete study and investigation as to whether persons who are disloyal to the United States are or have been employed by the Department of State."

Senator Tydings makes a to-do about professional anti-communists, by which he undoubtedly means those who are experts in the field. After all, Maxism is a movement little more than 100 years old. It is a philosophic system with special views on the subjects of religion, biology, economics, politics and social institutions. Since 1917, this philosophy has been applied practically to a country of 180,000,000 persons. It is now being applied to a complex of races consisting of about 800,000,000 human beings.

To understand this development in human history, much study, analysis and thought are required. On both sides, experts have been developed.

For instance, Max Eastman, David Dallin, William Henry Chamberlin, and some others I could mention are experts in the field of communist theory. Dr. J. B. Matthews, T. C. Kirkpatrick, and Karl Barslaag are experts in the field of current communist activities. Isaac Don Levine and Alfred Kohlberg are authorities on the relationship of communist movements to international intrigue. Father Edmund Walsh possesses a vast knowledge of the conflict between Marxism and Christianity.

Such former communists as Jay Lovestone, Benjamine Gitlow, Joseph Zack, Louis Budenz, Eugene Lyons (he was never a communist but his knowledge is invaluable), Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers—to mention a few—know the movement from the inside.

I am not calling the roll, but am merely indicating that if you needed a doctor to look after your eyes, you would not go to a horse doctor. He might be a nice gentleman and quite impartial, but he would not know the human eye.

I could list men in our government who are experts in phases of this field, but I do not want them to lose their jobs as professional anti-communists. It is wrong to blame Senator Tydings or Dean Acheson for their naive astonishment at the truth as it discloses itself, perhaps by such a confession as Lee Pressman's. I blame them for not understanding that they require the services of men as expert in this field as a municipality requires the right kind of engineer to design and build a bridge.

Last winter, I addressed a group of ardent but puzzled men on the subject of fragmentization. This is a commonplace communist tactic. It might be an application of the old political axiom: "divide and rule." But the communists in all countries fragmentize the population by a propaganda device arising out of their theory that all life is a struggle for survival, and nothing else. Therefore, groups must struggle against each other if there is to be human prograss.

In this country, they applied this technique particularly to racial groups. They established the word, minority, as a social entity. Trace that word, as applied to Jews, Catholics and Negroes, and see how recent it is in this relationship. They so built this concept that entire groups of our citizens have accepted their status as members of a minority. Certainly such a figure as Louis D. Brandeis did not think of himself as one of a minority. He was an American among the whole American people.

To understand and trace through this concept of fragmentization; to grasp its poisonous effect upon Jews, Negroes, Italians, Puerto Ricans; to realize its potential evils and to think out the cures—these involve considerable study, understanding and thought. No off-the-cuff superficialties add to our knowledge.

Therefore, the anti-communist expert, the professional anti-Marxist, is a valuable citizen who can contribute much to his country's political health and security. He is not to be held up to opprobrium by politicians who would wash away the whole thing as an alien nightmare. It will not wash away. It has grown too big. It now needs to be understood as a major problem in our lives requiring expert attention.

The New Alphabet Of War Economy

Anyone who spent the trying years of World War II on the home front invariably associates the nagging strait jacket of economic controls of that period with one or more of Washington's alphabet agencies. Thus the appearance in news dispatches of new alphabet combinations is perhaps the sharpest reminder that a war economy is again hovering over the nation.

Looking over the list of names of the new agencies and their functions, the citizens can hope that the changes in names are for the better. Instead of the OPA (Office of Price Administration), there is the ESA (Economic Stabilization Agency) to ride herd on wage and price controls.

The WMC (War Manpower Commission) becomes bureaucratic history as its functions become the charge of the NSRB (National Security Resources Board).

To allocate scarce materials the familiar initials of the WPB (War Production Board) bow out in favor of a new alphabet combination, NPA (National Production Authority). This latter agency will be headed by William H. Harrison, president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, who has already met with steel men to discuss how much of this vital material should be allotted to the civilian economy.

Perhaps the greatest departure from the World War II mode of operation was the appointment of W. Stuart Symington, now head of the NSRB, to boss the system of over-all controls.

Under the powers granted him by the Defense Production Act the President has seen fit to shift all the problems of rearmament to old line government agencies, with the one exception noted above. It also comes clear that the President is determined to impose any or all controls the moment he deems "voluntary" sacrifices to be inadequate.

War Cost Mounting

Middle-aged persons can remember when a billion dollars was a staggering sum. Today the word billion rolls easily off the tongue, and a billion dollars is regarded as just one more blue chip in a bottomless pot. Only with difficulty can the profound effect the billions to be spent in the next 12 months be visualized.

President Truman has already signed the omnibus appropriation bill for $36,000,000,000. The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved supplemental appropriations totaling $17,000,000,000 more. This will bring the total for military expenditures at home and abroad to $30,000,000,000 and will raise the total budget to $53,000,000,000.

But that's not all. Within a few months Mr. Truman is expected to ask for an additional $10,000,000,000—possibly more, if the situation becomes worse. That would bring the year's military total to $40,000,000,000 and the total budget to $63,000,000,000. There is little opposition to these expenditures. The nation's security is at stake. But the inflationary impact will be severe. And today there is no unemployment and no low price level to take up some of the slack. Inflation starts off in high gear.

Present revenue sources at present rates provide a bare $40,000,000,000. The government will be compelled to raise at least $23,000,000,000 by other means. Borrowing such an amount would be equipping the inflationary trend with jet propulsion. Raising the entire $23,000,000,000 through higher taxes would hold down inflation and might be the least painful. What the citizen paid in higher taxes might be little more than he would otherwise have paid in higher prices. But that will not be tried. No government would risk the effect on production, national unity and morale of tax increases on that scale.

This is an election year. Consequently the people cannot expect to hear all the bad news until after election. Higher taxes and more drastic controls are on the way, but they will be kept to a minimum until after election. Next year, when the government drops the other shoe, taxpayers will discover that even today a billion dollars isn't chicken feed.

Barbarian Alexander

The movies have discovered Genghis Khan. His career will soon be filmed. This will make millions acquainted with the man who has been called the greatest conqueror of all time. A barbarian counterpart of Alexander the Great, he started as the chief of a tiny tribe. He and his immediate successors built a Mongol empire which included Russia, China and all Central Asia to the mountains guarding Tibet and India. They even projected the conquest of Japan, but were defeated by a storm like that which helped wreck the Spanish Armada's attempted conquest of England. In the other direction, they invaded Hungary and Poland and reached German Silesia, before the unbeaten armies were called back by news of the death of their ruler, the great Khan.

All this they did with small armies, strictly disciplined, aided by Chinese engineers, and guided by the accurate reports of spies. Their aim was to set up a pastoral civilization. Genghis Khan once meditated the slaughter of the entire Chinese nation to use their land for grazing. He was dissuaded by the reminder that the Chinese did one thing useful for him: they paid taxes.

Soldier Of The South

If armies had possessed tanks in his day, he might have been the foreshadow of George S. Patton Jr. This refers to the South's John B. Hood, a soldier who reveled in fighting. He differed from Patton, however, in one important respect. Patton was a winning general; Hood lost his chief engagement, the battle of Nashville in 1864. Hood was, it now appears, over his head when commanding an army. As leader of a regiment or division, he could not be surpassed; but when a campaign required more than bulldog assault on the enemy, Hood was lacking.

For years Hood has been neglected by biographers. Now, within a few months of each other, two lives have appeared, "Hood, Cavalier General" by Richard O'Connor, and now "The Gallant Hood by John P. Dyer, professor of history in Tulane University, New Orleans. Issuing two biographies where one might suffice is an old publishers' custom. Two biographies of George H. Thomas, who defeated Hood, came out almost simultaneously, and now the two of Hood. They both agree on one fundamental fact, that the promotion of Hood to command of an army was one of the many military blunders of Jefferson Davis.

Perhaps history repeats because many miss the lesson the first time.

It's a long lane that has any empty parking spaces.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Baldness And Scalp Padding

THRUOUT the years many remedies for baldness have been devised but there are millions of "baldies" to attest to the fact that we lack a hair restorer. For this we can blame lack of knowledge concerning the cause. This does not mean, however, that physicians have never given thought to or done research on the problem but their efforts have led mainly to theories and to disproving old wives' tales and ancient beliefs. After all, protecting the public from being swindled thru fraudulent claims is part of the responsibility of the medical profession and it will continue to assume the role of watchdog until a real cure is obtained.

One of the most recent concepts of baldness begins with the proposition that contractions of the scalp muscles lead to kinking and pinching of the blood vessels of the head and the impairment of circulation that follows is responsible for hair fall. But this is not all. It is well known that the tissues comprising the normal scalp are nearly twice as thick as over the bare forehead. It also is known that the tissues of areas that have become bald have lost their padding and are as thin as they are over the forehead.

Doctors T. S. Szasz and A. M. Robertson put two and two together and decided that muscle tension in itself would not kink blood vessels over these spots when they are well padded. From this they reasoned that the man who is destined to become bald first loses the fat underneath the skin of the scalp. Once this has occurred, the muscles can act on the blood vessels to curtain the blood flow to the hair roots.

One objection to this theory centers about the incontestable evidence that the male sex hormone plays a role in setting the stage. But Doctors Szasz and Robertson found the answer for this drawback. By searching the medical literature, they discovered that years ago it was demonstrated that when this hormone was injected in excessive amounts there is a tendency for the fat beneath the skin to undergo chemical changes and literally dissolve. This information apparently made the theory more tenable because it is the men with an overabundance of testosterone who become bald and it is possible that the modus operandi is loss of scalp fat. This in turn makes the scalp more susceptible to circulatory changes by muscle compression.

We also mentioned that baldness was prone to develop in regions where muscles are able to exert their greatest force. As a rule, this is in the midline and near the back where the muscle fibers are more adherent to the skull. The exact pattern depends upon the shape of the head, which is inherited. This is significant, however, because hair thinning is most likely to occur in these spots, creating the characteristic type of baldness. There is nothing practical about this theory. We cannot alter the hereditary pattern nor is it feasible to disrupt the glandular system to grow a thatch. Furthermore, there is no way to open a kinked vessel that is being compressed from within.

J. L. writes: At the end of the day my voice is so weak I can hardly be heard. The doctor tells me there is nothing wrong with my throat. What could the cause be?

This probably is a fatigue phenomenon, provided your physician found no abnormality in the vocal cords as the throat.

DELAYED DIZZINESS

Mrs. R. writes: I took a cruise without seasickness but since my return two months ago I have been suffering from dizziness. It feels as tho I were on a rocking boat.

Seasickness is never retroactive. There are many other causes of dizziness so why not consult your family physician?

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—In the most optimistic war report yet given Congress, Army Chief of Staff Joe Collins promised no more retreats in Korea and predicted the Chinese communists would not attack Formosa.

General Collins summed up the Korean situation for the Senate Armed Services Committee behind closed doors. To the best of his knowledge and judgment, he reported, "there will be no more falling back."

The good news, however, didn't stop senators from needling General Collins about sending untrained American boys into the front lines.

"It was not our intention to do that," Collins explained. "You must remember that we didn't have enough trained men in Japan."

He pointed out that Japan was short of training grounds, because every available inch was under cultivation. Thus, the Army found it difficult to give combat training under actual battle conditions, using live explosion charges. Tank shells, he said, would ricochet for miles and would be likely to kill civilians. Yet, this is the kind of training needed to condition men for war. Collins added that training was a matter of comparison anyway, that a soldier got more out of three months intensified training under emergency conditions than a full year of peacetime training.

The army's chief problem is not lack of manpower, but lack of equipment, the chief of staff clarified.

"People wonder why we don't call up more national guard units and more organized reserves," he explained. "Why call up men in excess of the equipment we have to supply them with?"

Collins added, however, that the equipment was now beginning to roll, which caused Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate's watch-dog over military production, to ask why the super, tank-penetrating bazookas had not been mass-produced earlier.

Bazookas In Nick Of Time

"It was fortunate that we perfected them as soon as we did," replied Collins, who commanded the capture of Cherbourg in the Normandy invasion and has had plenty of bazooka experience. He went on to explain the difficulty in developing the delicate, precision shells for these new super bazookas, which finally stopped the Soviet 60-ton tanks. The shells release a concentrated ray of heat that can bore through 14 inches of armor—a project that took considerable perfecting by Army Ordnance. After the handmade models were completed, Collins added, it was a problem to convert to mass production and the Army was lucky in having them finished just as the Korean War broke.

Collins briefed the senators from a war map, which caused him to remark that the army has developed a new plastics process for building relief maps, reducing the cost of relief maps from $35 to 60 cents per square foot.

This caused Kentucky's Senator Virgil Chapman to look round the room, and noting that economy-minded Senator Byrd of Virginia was not present, he observed: "Be sure to tell Senator Byrd about that."

General Collins also talked about the 38th parallel, along which his son served as an army officer before the invasion.

"The 38th parallel is nothing but an imaginary line. It doesn't follow any river, mountain range or natural barrier," he explained.

Sometimes it cuts right through the middle of a rice paddy, hence the people living along the 38th parallel "pay no attention to it."

However, Collins didn't say whether the allied armies would pay any attention to it. The decision, he indicated, would be left up to the United Nations.

Axman Tauriello

Dapper Congressman Tony Tauriello, the Italian-American from Buffalo, is now greeted in the congressional cloakrooms as "bad news Tony."

This is because Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson resigned just a few days after Tauriello's scathing letter demanding that he quit.

The morning Johnson's ouster was announced, Tauriello received a flock of congratulations, plus an inference from Wisconsin's Andy Biemiller that Taureillo was an axman for the White House.

"Who is next on your list?" Biemiller asked.

The Buffalo Democrat and first-termer protested to no avail that he had no inside from the president. To which Rep. John McCormack of Massuchusetts, the majority leader, said: "You knew about Johnson going before I did, Tony."

Rep. Stephen Young of Ohio pulled Tauriello into a corner and told him Johnson's resignation would so bolster Democrat chances in Ohio that Senator Robert Taft would probably be defeated.

Fidgety Accuser

A chubby little man with a limp Hitler moustache fidgeted before the Senate Interior Committee. He was Frank T. Bow, and he had ghost-written the speech in which Senator Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas tried to pin the red label on Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman.

After a full day of inquiry, puzzled Chairman Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming asked: "Do you end now with the statement that you make no charge of personal disloyalty against Secretary Chapman?"

"Yes, sir," Bow replied meekly.

Earlier in the hearings, Bow had said that he dug his criticism of Chapman out of the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

"Has the house committee ever brought any charges against Secretary Chapman?" shot back O'Mahoney.

"Not to my knowledge," Bow admitted.

He also testified that he received his anti-Chapman information two years ago when he was counsel for the old Harness committee in the 80th Congress.

"You want us to infer," aswed the exasperated O'Mahoney, "that when you were counsel for the Harness committee, you did not regard this evidence as of sufficient moment to justify you to ask the attorney general for investigation. Did you personally examine Oscar Chapman?"

"No, sir," replied Bow, "I did not . . . before this committee I am making no charges."

Disgusted, Senator Jim Murray of Montana commented, "We should be ashamed of ourselves listening to this kind of stuff when our country is threatened with dangers in the world."

Bow spoke up, "I do not doubt the loyalty of Mr. Chapman."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Where We Stand

WASHINGTON

THE news from Korea is good. But the news from New York is bad. On-the-spot reports from Korea will soon appear in this space, but it is believed in Washington that the successful landings in the north may bring victory sooner than it had seemed possible to hope. Yet good news from Korea should not be allowed to obscure the central fact.

This is that the strategic situation of the United States and its allies is nothing short of intolerable. Moreover, it will remain intolerable just so long as there is no real defense of Western Europe—and this is the problem with which the Foreign Ministers of the Atlantic Pact powers have been grappling in New York, with what appears to be marked lack of success.

There is one way to understand just how intolerable our situation is, while the defense of Western Europe remains a paper defense. This is to ask the best informed of the strategic planners for their best estimates of the course of a general war breaking out in the near future. There is, perhaps, nothing particularly surprising about their answers. But just as a reminder of where we really stand, it may be worth repeating these answers in capsule form.

First, of course, just about everything the United States has, except the strategic air force, the inadequate continental air command, and odds and ends of divisions, is now committed in Korea. Thus it is "difficult to see how a stand could be made anywhere in Europe, even behind the Pyrennees."

Second, the planners accept the view of Winston Churchill of the position of the British Isles, if the continent is over-run. Even in the bad days of 1940, Churchill said recently, he had "good hopes" that England would win through, even alone. "But now," he continued, "I cannot feel the same sense of concrete assurance." While the continent is defenseless, the planners believe, it must be assumed that Britain might be neutralized, even without an invasion.

Third, there is virtually nothing available for the defense of the Middle East. Thus, "we would do very well to secure a major base in North Africa."

Fourth, southeast Asia, already so threatened, would go the way of China. And with the mainland of Asia gone, the defense of the American bases in Japan, Okinawa, and the Philippines is rated "very difficult and probably impossible."

It is time to face up to what this means. It means a United States, for the first time in its history, fighting almost alone, retaining as effective allies only such British Commonwealth countries as Canada, New Zealand, and Australia, plus whatever allies could be found among the Latin American countries.

This is the assumption which must be made, at least for planning purposes. There is, of course, another side to the picture. As of today, according to the best guesses of the best guessers in the Pentagon, the Soviet Union could eliminate at most 15 per cent of the American war potential by atomic bombardment. On the other hand, the Soviet Union could be "turned back to the Middle Ages" — reduced to an essentially agrarian civilization.

May Last 30 Years

Moreover, the United States would have many secret allies in the vast areas occupied by the Red Army. It is not impossible that under such circumstances the whole structure of Soviet power might quite suddenly collapse. But it is also not impossible, the planners warn, that "such a war might last for thirty years."

The key to everything is the defense of Western Europe. Only when there is real military power in Western Europe will the growing stockpile of Soviet atom bombs be balanced by equality in conventional military strength in the West. Until the vacuum in Western Europe is filled everyone, in this country as well as

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Now it can be told—the story of a great naval armada of more than 300 ships assembled on short notice and delivering two full strength division of troops at Inchon for a successful landing under the protection of American naval guns and naval airpower.

One of the two divisions, composed of Army troops, was transported by the Navy from points in the the Pacific. But to land the other division composed of U. S. Marines, necessitated a movement virtually around the world. From the Mediterranean and through the Suez Canal went U. S. Marines protected by American cruisers and destroyers.

Just before the naval forces and Marines started from their stations in the Mediterranean, reinforcements of Marines likewise went from the United States to replace the Mediterranean forces that had been ordered to the Far East so that the departure and replacement movements occurred simultaneously.

Demonstrates Mobility

But this feat—a conspicuous demonstration of the mobility of the United States Navy—was not the only example of mobility. The same Marine brigade fighting in South Korea on Monday were on Friday fighting their way into Seoul from Inchon. They had been withdrawn from the front line, replaced by army troops and loaded on ships at a South Korean port and brought together on the West Coast of Korea with other Marine units from the Mediterranean and the United States and then put into action as a full strength division. They did not need any new training or maneuvers. It now turns out that the Marine bridage fighting in South Korea for the last several weeks went there merely as a stop gap to help plug the line but was designed from the beginning to join other units in the amphibious or ship-to-shore operation just completed at Inchon though planned last June.

It can now be told also what the meaning of the naval operation is on the East Coast of Korea. Here the battleship Missouri is pouring 16-inch shells up and down the coast. She had been hastily brought back to Annapolis a few weeks ago to unload the midshipmen she had been carrying on a training cruise. The famous battlewagon was sent full speed by Admiral Sherman to the Far East. Her ammunition and supplies were sent ahead of time to Pacific bases. The Missouri packs a powerful wallop. Each of her 16-inch shells is the equivalent of two 1,000-pound airplane bombs and can be fired in all kinds of weather steadily for days, horizontally and at other angles, within a range of 18 miles inland along the coast.

The South Korean marines, trained by America, are the only troops being used for landing on the East Coast. They together with the firepower of the Missouri and of our heavy cruisers and destroyers, are designed to make the narrow road along the East Coast of Korea not only impassable from the north for supply caravans but also unusable for any northward retreat of the communist forces when the United Nations army offensive in the South begins to push them back.

It also can be told now that the battleship New Jersery was a few weeks ago ordered into commission. She was Admiral Halsey's flagship in the last war. A third battleship will be put in commission in a few months. These battleships which are needed in peacetime to train gunners and naval reserve officers for cruisers and destroyers—they can give big ship discipline to a crew of about 2,000 men at a time—can also be used for bombardment whenever required. The importance of the training programs can be realized when it is noted that our destroyers are being increased from 135 to 200.

Carriers Being Increased

Also it can be stated authoritatively now that before the end of the present fiscal year naval airpower which had 30 aircraft carriers operating in 1945 will have at least ten big carriers and 15 smaller ones in commission. Many of these coming out of shipyards in a few months will have been modernized. They are desperately needed for anti-submarine patrol, the chief weakness at the moment in the Pacific.

All in all the United States Fleet is being rehabilitated not only for service in the Pacific but in the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean and in the Indian Ocean. It seems strange that only a year ago some public men and a few military spokesmen were arguing that because Russia had no large navy, America did not need any substantial naval force either. It is apparent that a mobile force of Marines and a flexible navy will always be needed not only as a deterrent in peacetime to potential enemies but as a force in being ready for instant service throughout the seven seas without waiting for draft calls or the mobilization of inactive reserves.

Likewise it is good news that the U. S. Air Forces which have done a remarkable support job in the Far East are being enlarged and that the ground troops of the U. S. Army are at last coming into their own with a tank program and personnel expansion which has long been urged as against the doctrine that wars can be fought cheaply with one branch of the armed services, namely strategic air. Today more than ever the principle of integration of our armed services is being effectively applied.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Fanatical Red-Baiters

IT would seem that Senator Millard Tydings feels called upon to defend his whitewash of the infiltration of communists in government departments, particularly the State. His defense is that the Senate resolution called upon him to investigate Senator McCarthy's charges. It did no such thing. The Senate resolution read:

"Resolved, that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, or any duly authorized subcommittee thereof, is authorized and directed to conduct a full and complete study and investigation as to whether persons who are disloyal to the United States are or have been employed by the Department of State."

Senator Tydings makes a to-do about professional anti-communists, by which he undoubtedly means those who are experts in the field. After all, Maxism is a movement little more than 100 years old. It is a philosophic system with special views on the subjects of religion, biology, economics, politics and social institutions. Since 1917, this philosophy has been applied practically to a country of 180,000,000 persons. It is now being applied to a complex of races consisting of about 800,000,000 human beings.

To understand this development in human history, much study, analysis and thought are required. On both sides, experts have been developed.

For instance, Max Eastman, David Dallin, William Henry Chamberlin, and some others I could mention are experts in the field of communist theory. Dr. J. B. Matthews, T. C. Kirkpatrick, and Karl Barslaag are experts in the field of current communist activities. Isaac Don Levine and Alfred Kohlberg are authorities on the relationship of communist movements to international intrigue. Father Edmund Walsh possesses a vast knowledge of the conflict between Marxism and Christianity.

Such former communists as Jay Lovestone, Benjamine Gitlow, Joseph Zack, Louis Budenz, Eugene Lyons (he was never a communist but his knowledge is invaluable), Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers—to mention a few—know the movement from the inside.

I am not calling the roll, but am merely indicating that if you needed a doctor to look after your eyes, you would not go to a horse doctor. He might be a nice gentleman and quite impartial, but he would not know the human eye.

I could list men in our government who are experts in phases of this field, but I do not want them to lose their jobs as professional anti-communists. It is wrong to blame Senator Tydings or Dean Acheson for their naive astonishment at the truth as it discloses itself, perhaps by such a confession as Lee Pressman's. I blame them for not understanding that they require the services of men as expert in this field as a municipality requires the right kind of engineer to design and build a bridge.

Last winter, I addressed a group of ardent but puzzled men on the subject of fragmentization. This is a commonplace communist tactic. It might be an application of the old political axiom: "divide and rule." But the communists in all countries fragmentize the population by a propaganda device arising out of their theory that all life is a struggle for survival, and nothing else. Therefore, groups must struggle against each other if there is to be human prograss.

In this country, they applied this technique particularly to racial groups. They established the word, minority, as a social entity. Trace that word, as applied to Jews, Catholics and Negroes, and see how recent it is in this relationship. They so built this concept that entire groups of our citizens have accepted their status as members of a minority. Certainly such a figure as Louis D. Brandeis did not think of himself as one of a minority. He was an American among the whole American people.

To understand and trace through this concept of fragmentization; to grasp its poisonous effect upon Jews, Negroes, Italians, Puerto Ricans; to realize its potential evils and to think out the cures—these involve considerable study, understanding and thought. No off-the-cuff superficialties add to our knowledge.

Therefore, the anti-communist expert, the professional anti-Marxist, is a valuable citizen who can contribute much to his country's political health and security. He is not to be held up to opprobrium by politicians who would wash away the whole thing as an alien nightmare. It will not wash away. It has grown too big. It now needs to be understood as a major problem in our lives requiring expert attention.

Coleman And Schusterman Found Guilty On Commie Count

William Boyd Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman, both self-avowed communists, were convicted for failure to register as communists under a recently-enacted Cumberland ordinance yesterday morning in a crowded Police Court room.

The defendants, both of 56 North Mechanic Street, pleaded not guilty through their attorneys, Harold Buchman, executive secretary of the Maryland Progressive Party, and Mitchell A. Dubow, Baltimore. They were fined $100 each by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

Following the trial, Buchman obtained a writ of certiorari in Circuit Court.

At the outset of Coleman's hearing, defense attorneys offered three motions for dismissal of the case, viz., that Magistrate Perdew disqualify himself because he was approached about a postponement and said the ordinance was constitutional, that the magistrate stated the men were guilty, and that the charges be dismissed on the grounds that they are unconstitutional.

Motions Overruled

Somewhat agitated by the "ridiculous" motions, Magistrate Perdew overruled them. Buchman reasoned that the ordinance violated Federal and Maryland Declarations of Rights, that it deprived communists the right to remain on equal footing with other citizens and that it denied them equal protection of the law.

Quoting decisions of the Supreme Court and other legal cases, Buchman referred to the registration of communists as a "throw back to the feudal age." He said the defendants were "charged with merely being members of a political party." The city ordinance is unconstitutional and simply a bill of attainder, he added.

Buchman hit at the "loose wording of the ordinance, which also bans the distribution of communist literature, and said the law was applicable to persons passing through Cumberland on trains the way it now reads. The City Council has no authority to outlaw a political party, he said.

After Buchman spoke for some 20 minutes, Magistrate Perdew said he thought a time limit should be set on arguments and gave the attorney "three more minutes."

Wants Time To Vote

"We want to vote today," the magistrate remarked. Then Buchman continued:

"If this ordinance is not unconstitutional, then the Federal and Maryland constitutions are meaningless." He attacked the press and radio as being controlled by "men of big money" and asked: "What crimes are Coleman and Schusterman accused of?"

His arguments were the same for Schusterman.

During the trial Buchman asked: "What are the boys in Korea fighting for?" He replied, "For the Bill of Rights."

At this point, Magistrate Perdew answered, "They're fighting against communists and communism."

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn took the stand and testified that both Coleman and Schusterman identified themselves as members of the communist party when the Council unanimously passed the anti-communist ordinance September 5.

The prosecuting attorney, City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey, pointed out that Cumberland occupys a strategic spot in communications through the United States with its railroads and said local plants are engaged in defense work.

Duty To Protect

Referring to the ordinance, he stated "It is not only a privilege, but the duty of the council to protect the people of Cumberland."

Prior to passing sentence, Magistrate Perdew opined:

"The object of the ordinance is to require communists to register so police can keep tab on them during a national emergency. The officers will be in a position to slap them behind bars so they can't tamper with water facilities, railroads, etc."

"They're (communists) in favor of a country (Russia) which has no constitution at all," he said, adding, "I don't think the communist party is a political party—it is a conspiracy against the government."

Schusterman Makes Statement

Then defense attorneys requested permission for Schusterman to read the following statement before a verdict was handed down:

"Coleman and I are working men and share the needs of all other workers. We have lived and worked here for many, many years. It has been our proud duty to serve the best interests of our fellow workers in the continued struggle for a decent living for workers and their families. Their standard of living is continually attacked by the corporations and all others who grow rich and arrogant on our labor and sweat. Our records as peaceful citizens, as trade unionists and as soldiers in the war against Hitler cannot be denied.

"Now we and all workers are being told that we will be denied our liberty to think and speak as free men and women. To act in the interest of ourselves and fellows is branded as criminal. This we and an ever growing number of workers will not accept, even with the threat of fines and jail.

"It has been said that we are hiding behind the constitution and Bill of Rights, but the truth is that we are standing firmly in front of it and are defending it from attack."

Asks For Jury Trial

Dubow then asked for a jury trial and Magistrate Perdew overruled the motion before imposing the fines.

Both Coleman and Schusterman failed again yesterday morning to register as communists before leaving court. They were arrested Saturday in their apartment, just 50 yards from Police Headquarters.

Area Family Has Five In Service

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Woomer, Corriganville, former local residents, have five sons in the Armed Forces.

Three of the brothers have 11 years service in the Army and four are veterans of World War II.

Technical Sgt. John Woomer, father of three children, worked in the Pentagon Building dispensary until another brother, First Lt. Earl Woomer, was reported missing for six months while enroute home from China. He transferred to the Air Corps and later went on 48 missions over Europe, for which he was decorated for "outstanding achievement in battle."

Later Sgt. Woomer attended a government school and spent four years in Korea as a United States agent. He returned home with his wife and children in February, 1949, for jet plane training and reassignment. His new destination is unknown.

Lt. Woomer served as a captain in the Medical Corps in China before he was listed as missing during his homeward flight. He attended Officers Candidate School at Camp Barkley, Texas, and had served at Denver, St. Louis, Fort Worth in Texas and Boise, Idaho, until his young son was killed a year ago. Then he signed up for overseas duty and consequently became adjutant of the 18th Hospital Group in the Philippines.

First Sgt. C. A. Woomer is a veteran of Burma. After War II, he was sent to Frankfort, Germany. While there he was hospitalized six months and after four and one-half years returned to this country. He is stationed in Texas.

SK 2-C Harold E. Woomer served aboard a hospital ship in the Pacific Theater during the war. A member of the Naval Reserve, he has been recalled to active duty as storekeeper aboard the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Monterey.

The fifth and youngest brother, Cpl. Robert Woomer, attended Fort Hill High School before entering the service. He spent two years in Korea during pre-war years and graduated from the Army typist school at Seoul. When American troops left that country he asked for duty in Japan to see his brother, John.

Cpl. Woomer arrived home in February, 1950, and re-enlisted. On July 4 he was sent to Fort Dix, N. J., received training at the quartermaster school in Camp Lee, Va., and then was shipped to Paris, France.

Mrs. Woomer says all her sons write home at least twice a week. During the past 11 years she has accumulated hundreds of letters from all parts of the world.

Fisher Found Guilty In W. Va. Court

A jury in U. S. District Court at Fairmont, W. Va., has found Clyde C. Fisher, 56, former B. and O. Railroad baggageman and well-known among railroaders in this area, guilty of stealing a watch from the mails. Judge Harry E. Watkins presided at the trial.

Fisher is a resident of Parkersburg, W. Va., and worked between Cumberland and the West Virginia city for a long time.

However, Fisher's attorneys, William B. Hoff and Robert B. McDougle, immediately made a motion that the verdict be set aside and a retrial granted. Judge Watkins gave them until September 23 to file a brief for a new trial and instructed U. S. Attorney C. Lee Spillers to file a reply for the government by September 29.

The court also released Fisher from the custody of the U. S. Marshal pending raising of a new bond to allow him to return to Parkersburg and spend two days with his twin sons who are entering military service.

Fisher faces a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The watch, according to testimony of government witnesses, was purchased by Mrs. Emma Kedora, of Chicago, in Waukegan, Ill., on June 14, 1947. Mrs. Kedora stated on the witness stand that she bought the watch and mailed it to her daughter, Mrs. Helen Reppy, then a resident of Morgantown.

Fireman Loses Court Action Against Railroad

Under a decision filed by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman who sued the railroad as a result of his discharge has lost his case.

The man, Richard T. Fredman, charged that an agreement between the railroad and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman and Enginemen had been violated when he was discharged.

Holding that the plaintiff's construction of the agreement was incorrect, Myrl S. Evans, James C. Varner, Ray C. Auvil and the brotherhood asked to intervene in the suit as defendants. This was allowed.

Rule Was Revised

Fredman contended that under the labor contract a fireman who became 50 years of age who had not been marked upon the engineer's working list, could give up his rights as an engineer and retain seniority as a fireman. He based his claim on Rule 22K. This rule was revised in 1942 and a proviso was also added.

Judge Henderson in his opinion points out that the new rule but not the proviso was included in the next edition of the printed rule booklet. The amended rule without the proviso was also filed with the Railroad Mediation Board.

The plaintiff, who was admitted to membership in the union in 1943, denied all knowledge of the proviso according to the opinion.

Fredman was employed as a fireman October 5, 1942 when he was 45 years old. The proviso to Rule 22K states that privileges of the rule "will not be extended to firemen employed subsequent to January 1, 1942, who were 40 years of age or over at the time of their employment."

"In 1946 and 1948 the plaintiff passed two of the required three examinations for promotion to engineer," the opinion reads.

In the summer of 1948 he took the third examination three times. Each time he failed, and therefore in September, 1948, he was dropped from the service of the railroad."

The opinion continues: "At the hearing it was brought out that even under 22K minus such proviso, a fireman over 50 who elected to take the examination for engineer and who failed to pass could not thereafter elect to give up his rights as an engineer and remain on the railroad as a fireman. This is the official interpretation of Rule 22K (without the proviso by the grievance committee of the brotherhood."

The plaintiff made two points — that the railroad failed to file the proviso with the mediation board and that Rule 22K was not binding as it was not in the rules furnished him when first employed.

Judge Henderson ruled that the law requiring filing of rules with the mediation board was "directory, not mandatory."

Chaos Would Result

Regarding the second point the jurist said "chaos would result if x x x a man's right under a contract of employment depended upon what he thought the contract was—or what he said he thought the contract was—rather than upon what the contract said."

Judge Henderson wrote: "a man cannot elect to take the benefit of the contract provisions of which he approves" and at the same time say "he will not be bound by certain others. He must take the bitter with the sweet."

The opinion notes that the young firemen who are defendants in the case would "lose seniority rights if the contention of the plaintiff is correct."

Attorneys representing the railroad were former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter, this city, and F. E. Baukhages, Baltimore; for the brotherhood and the three individual defendants, William C. Walsh, city, and Harold C. Heiss of Cleveland; for Fredman, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Coleman And Schusterman Found Guilty On Commie Count

William Boyd Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman, both self-avowed communists, were convicted for failure to register as communists under a recently-enacted Cumberland ordinance yesterday morning in a crowded Police Court room.

The defendants, both of 56 North Mechanic Street, pleaded not guilty through their attorneys, Harold Buchman, executive secretary of the Maryland Progressive Party, and Mitchell A. Dubow, Baltimore. They were fined $100 each by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

Following the trial, Buchman obtained a writ of certiorari in Circuit Court.

At the outset of Coleman's hearing, defense attorneys offered three motions for dismissal of the case, viz., that Magistrate Perdew disqualify himself because he was approached about a postponement and said the ordinance was constitutional, that the magistrate stated the men were guilty, and that the charges be dismissed on the grounds that they are unconstitutional.

Motions Overruled

Somewhat agitated by the "ridiculous" motions, Magistrate Perdew overruled them. Buchman reasoned that the ordinance violated Federal and Maryland Declarations of Rights, that it deprived communists the right to remain on equal footing with other citizens and that it denied them equal protection of the law.

Quoting decisions of the Supreme Court and other legal cases, Buchman referred to the registration of communists as a "throw back to the feudal age." He said the defendants were "charged with merely being members of a political party." The city ordinance is unconstitutional and simply a bill of attainder, he added.

Buchman hit at the "loose wording of the ordinance, which also bans the distribution of communist literature, and said the law was applicable to persons passing through Cumberland on trains the way it now reads. The City Council has no authority to outlaw a political party, he said.

After Buchman spoke for some 20 minutes, Magistrate Perdew said he thought a time limit should be set on arguments and gave the attorney "three more minutes."

Wants Time To Vote

"We want to vote today," the magistrate remarked. Then Buchman continued:

"If this ordinance is not unconstitutional, then the Federal and Maryland constitutions are meaningless." He attacked the press and radio as being controlled by "men of big money" and asked: "What crimes are Coleman and Schusterman accused of?"

His arguments were the same for Schusterman.

During the trial Buchman asked: "What are the boys in Korea fighting for?" He replied, "For the Bill of Rights."

At this point, Magistrate Perdew answered, "They're fighting against communists and communism."

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn took the stand and testified that both Coleman and Schusterman identified themselves as members of the communist party when the Council unanimously passed the anti-communist ordinance September 5.

The prosecuting attorney, City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey, pointed out that Cumberland occupys a strategic spot in communications through the United States with its railroads and said local plants are engaged in defense work.

Duty To Protect

Referring to the ordinance, he stated "It is not only a privilege, but the duty of the council to protect the people of Cumberland."

Prior to passing sentence, Magistrate Perdew opined:

"The object of the ordinance is to require communists to register so police can keep tab on them during a national emergency. The officers will be in a position to slap them behind bars so they can't tamper with water facilities, railroads, etc."

"They're (communists) in favor of a country (Russia) which has no constitution at all," he said, adding, "I don't think the communist party is a political party—it is a conspiracy against the government."

Schusterman Makes Statement

Then defense attorneys requested permission for Schusterman to read the following statement before a verdict was handed down:

"Coleman and I are working men and share the needs of all other workers. We have lived and worked here for many, many years. It has been our proud duty to serve the best interests of our fellow workers in the continued struggle for a decent living for workers and their families. Their standard of living is continually attacked by the corporations and all others who grow rich and arrogant on our labor and sweat. Our records as peaceful citizens, as trade unionists and as soldiers in the war against Hitler cannot be denied.

"Now we and all workers are being told that we will be denied our liberty to think and speak as free men and women. To act in the interest of ourselves and fellows is branded as criminal. This we and an ever growing number of workers will not accept, even with the threat of fines and jail.

"It has been said that we are hiding behind the constitution and Bill of Rights, but the truth is that we are standing firmly in front of it and are defending it from attack."

Asks For Jury Trial

Dubow then asked for a jury trial and Magistrate Perdew overruled the motion before imposing the fines.

Both Coleman and Schusterman failed again yesterday morning to register as communists before leaving court. They were arrested Saturday in their apartment, just 50 yards from Police Headquarters.

Area Family Has Five In Service

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Woomer, Corriganville, former local residents, have five sons in the Armed Forces.

Three of the brothers have 11 years service in the Army and four are veterans of World War II.

Technical Sgt. John Woomer, father of three children, worked in the Pentagon Building dispensary until another brother, First Lt. Earl Woomer, was reported missing for six months while enroute home from China. He transferred to the Air Corps and later went on 48 missions over Europe, for which he was decorated for "outstanding achievement in battle."

Later Sgt. Woomer attended a government school and spent four years in Korea as a United States agent. He returned home with his wife and children in February, 1949, for jet plane training and reassignment. His new destination is unknown.

Lt. Woomer served as a captain in the Medical Corps in China before he was listed as missing during his homeward flight. He attended Officers Candidate School at Camp Barkley, Texas, and had served at Denver, St. Louis, Fort Worth in Texas and Boise, Idaho, until his young son was killed a year ago. Then he signed up for overseas duty and consequently became adjutant of the 18th Hospital Group in the Philippines.

First Sgt. C. A. Woomer is a veteran of Burma. After War II, he was sent to Frankfort, Germany. While there he was hospitalized six months and after four and one-half years returned to this country. He is stationed in Texas.

SK 2-C Harold E. Woomer served aboard a hospital ship in the Pacific Theater during the war. A member of the Naval Reserve, he has been recalled to active duty as storekeeper aboard the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Monterey.

The fifth and youngest brother, Cpl. Robert Woomer, attended Fort Hill High School before entering the service. He spent two years in Korea during pre-war years and graduated from the Army typist school at Seoul. When American troops left that country he asked for duty in Japan to see his brother, John.

Cpl. Woomer arrived home in February, 1950, and re-enlisted. On July 4 he was sent to Fort Dix, N. J., received training at the quartermaster school in Camp Lee, Va., and then was shipped to Paris, France.

Mrs. Woomer says all her sons write home at least twice a week. During the past 11 years she has accumulated hundreds of letters from all parts of the world.

Fisher Found Guilty In W. Va. Court

A jury in U. S. District Court at Fairmont, W. Va., has found Clyde C. Fisher, 56, former B. and O. Railroad baggageman and well-known among railroaders in this area, guilty of stealing a watch from the mails. Judge Harry E. Watkins presided at the trial.

Fisher is a resident of Parkersburg, W. Va., and worked between Cumberland and the West Virginia city for a long time.

However, Fisher's attorneys, William B. Hoff and Robert B. McDougle, immediately made a motion that the verdict be set aside and a retrial granted. Judge Watkins gave them until September 23 to file a brief for a new trial and instructed U. S. Attorney C. Lee Spillers to file a reply for the government by September 29.

The court also released Fisher from the custody of the U. S. Marshal pending raising of a new bond to allow him to return to Parkersburg and spend two days with his twin sons who are entering military service.

Fisher faces a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The watch, according to testimony of government witnesses, was purchased by Mrs. Emma Kedora, of Chicago, in Waukegan, Ill., on June 14, 1947. Mrs. Kedora stated on the witness stand that she bought the watch and mailed it to her daughter, Mrs. Helen Reppy, then a resident of Morgantown.

Fireman Loses Court Action Against Railroad

Under a decision filed by Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad fireman who sued the railroad as a result of his discharge has lost his case.

The man, Richard T. Fredman, charged that an agreement between the railroad and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman and Enginemen had been violated when he was discharged.

Holding that the plaintiff's construction of the agreement was incorrect, Myrl S. Evans, James C. Varner, Ray C. Auvil and the brotherhood asked to intervene in the suit as defendants. This was allowed.

• Rule Was Revised

Fredman contended that under the labor contract a fireman who became 50 years of age who had not been marked upon the engineer's working list, could give up his rights as an engineer and retain seniority as a fireman. He based his claim on Rule 22K. This rule was revised in 1942 and a proviso was also added.

Judge Henderson in his opinion points out that the new rule but not the proviso was included in the next edition of the printed rule booklet. The amended rule without the proviso was also filed with the Railroad Mediation Board.

The plaintiff, who was admitted to membership in the union in 1943, denied all knowledge of the proviso according to the opinion.

Fredman was employed as a fireman October 5, 1942 when he was 45 years old. The proviso to Rule 22K states that privileges of the rule "will not be extended to firemen employed subsequent to January 1, 1942, who were 40 years of age or over at the time of their employment."

"In 1946 and 1948 the plaintiff passed two of the required three examinations for promotion to engineer," the opinion reads.

In the summer of 1948 he took the third examination three times. Each time he failed, and therefore in September, 1948, he was dropped from the service of the railroad."

The opinion continues: "At the hearing it was brought out that even under 22K minus such proviso, a fireman over 50 who elected to take the examination for engineer and who failed to pass could not thereafter elect to give up his rights as an engineer and remain on the railroad as a fireman. This is the official interpretation of Rule 22K (without the proviso by the grievance committee of the brotherhood."

The plaintiff made two points — that the railroad failed to file the proviso with the mediation board and that Rule 22K was not binding as it was not in the rules furnished him when first employed.

Judge Henderson ruled that the law requiring filing of rules with the mediation board was "directory, not mandatory."

Chaos Would Result

Regarding the second point the jurist said "chaos would result if x x x a man's right under a contract of employment depended upon what he thought the contract was—or what he said he thought the contract was—rather than upon what the contract said."

Judge Henderson wrote: "a man cannot elect to take the benefit of the contract provisions of which he approves" and at the same time say "he will not be bound by certain others. He must take the bitter with the sweet."

The opinion notes that the young firemen who are defendants in the case would "lose seniority rights if the contention of the plaintiff is correct."

Attorneys representing the railroad were former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter, this city, and F. E. Baukhages, Baltimore; for the brotherhood and the three individual defendants, William C. Walsh, city, and Harold C. Heiss of Cleveland; for Fredman, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Roxanna Folk Selects Sept. 30 For Wedding Date

Is Honored At Prenuptial Party

Miss Roxanna Folk, fiancee of Donald N. Whisner, has selected September 30 for the date of their marriage. The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 3:30 o'clock in the Springs, Pa., Mennonite Church with Rev. Walter Otto officiating.

The bridal party includes Miss Dorothy Rae Kerr as maid of honor and Miss Joann Broseker, bridesmaid. Mark Folk, brother of the bride-elect, is serving as Mr. Whisner's best man and Edward Yoder and Walter Killius, all of Springs, are to be the ushers.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleman E. Folk, Springs, the bride-elect is a graduate of Eastern Mennonite College, Harrisonburg, Va., and Goshen College, Goshen, Ind., receiving her B. A. in Natural Science. She also graduated from Memorial Hospital School of Nursing and is on the Nursing staff of the hospital.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whisner, 305 Virginia Avenue, attended Fort Hill High School and is a veteran of Army service in Korea and Japan. He is employed by the Kenneweg Company.

Mrs. Clyde Slider entertained in compliment to Miss Folk with a bridal shower and pre-nuptial party, Friday evening at her home, Louisiana Avenue.

The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations of clusters of white wedding bells. A shower of white ribbons cascaded from a white sprinkling can to the shower gifts arranged on a table, and bouquets of fall flowers were used throughout the house. Cards were played during the evening.

Guests were Miss Kerr, Miss Broseker, Miss Anna Jack, Miss Rebecca Shaffer, Miss Norma Jean Smith, Miss Margaret Hovatter, Miss Ruth Wilson, Miss Betty Engle, Mrs. Samuel Gormer and Mrs. Louis Greggs.

Fall Fashions Shown At Beta Sigma Phi

"Out of This World Fashions" were presented last night by Rosenbaum's at Ali Ghan Country Club for the benefit of the Nurses' Scholarship fund of the Beta Sigma Phi City Council. It also was the plot of the show, which told of the visit of two women from Mars to the earth on their flying saucers to get a line on fall fashions.

Mrs. Betty Green, Rosenbaum's New York fashion co-ordinator, flew to Cumberland to conduct the show and point out the highlights for fall.

Among the highlights of the show wardrobe were suits combining four co-ordinated pieces in companion tweeds. Slim line dresses, Paris inspired, were featured, including many casual types in popular wool jersey and corduroy. The "Mr. Look" was well represented in plaid "smoking jacket" and more formal suits that bore such famous designer names as Schiaparelli.

"Prestige plum" was one of the new colors, presaging, says Mrs. Green, a trend towards purple tones for this coming spring. The "pyramid coat" was shown in a variety of fine fall woolens, as was the flared topper to be worn over "stem slim" skirts. Emphasizing the importance of "separates," Rosenbaum's presented skirts of fake fur, with dyed to match jersey top. Formals, which ended the show in a blaze of glitter, drew swoons and sighs from the audience.

Throughout the show attention was called to velvet accessories, literally, "from head to toe," from millinery to footwear.

Approximately 92 tables were in play following the showing.

Ada Louise Ford Named Chairman Of State Group

Youth Conference Will Be Formed

Maryland All Stars were asked to present a program at the Interstate conference, and Miss Ada Louise Ford, city, was named chairman at the meeting of the Interstate committee held over the weekend at Righie Hotel, Betterton.

Others serving with her are Miss Mary K. Wills, Charles county; and James Pfefferkorn, Howard county. The Interstate conference will be held October 6, 7, 8, at the Viking Hotel, Newport, R. I. The Rhode Island and Massachusetts All Stars will be hosts.

Announcement was made that the Maryland All Stars will celebrate their 30th anniversary at the 1951 Spring conference. It was decided it should be held at a central location and a pageant will be presented.

Plans were discussed for a Youth Conference to be formed of groups of young men and young women from 18 to 28 years of age. It is to be held some weekend with the All Stars voting for winter. It is to be a training conference on recreational lines and there will be guest speakers.

Announcement also was made of a Rural Youth USA conference to be held October 13, 14, 15 at Jackson Mills, W. Va. Amy Fry, Montgomery county, was named the All Star delegate.

John Grier, Hartford county, big chief, presided at the business meeting. The usual roll call by years was held beginning with 1921.

The largest group was the 1950 with 26 New All Stars taken in at Club Week last month. There was special music, boating, square dancing, a banquet and Sunday morning devotionals.

Col. Karl O. Hoffman, Chestertown, chairman of the Kent county Youth committee, principal speaker, used as his topic the theme of the conference, "Living and Working Today for a Better Tomorrow." He reminded his audience that "today is gone and things one does bear on tomorrow," so he urged that one act today to improve the world tomorrow, and to do this he pointed out it is necessary to understand the world of today.

Emphasis was laid on the individual, against collectivism. He pointed out that individual rights must be exercised and warned against funnelling into an ism. He warned that the rapid advance of the isms is due to the desire of the people to move in groups. This, he pointed out, is all right if not done to excess. Reminding the audience that the forefathers formed a collective group that the new nation might survive, they later returned to the family group so the individual would not be overrun.

Pointing out that in 1936 a labor leader warned organized labor not to overdo organization, and that the leader should depend on the people not the people on the leader, but that this was not heeded, so today labor has to do it's housecleaning.

Warning that one half the world is under communism, Col. Hoffman pointed out that one cannot believe in God and communism at the same time. He illustrated by showing how unlikely it is that anyone would knowingly place his future in the hands of a brilliant person who is not a Christian, but rather choose a God fearing leader.

In commenting on communism, the speaker said many are slaves by fear, a large number are coluntary communists, classified as unChristian intellectuals who believe man is so perfect that with science he needs no other help.

The second group he listed as educated but morally unstable, who have an ax to grind; the third, egomsniacs, who are out to get themselves a position without considering any one else; and fourth the simple uneducated, who love their country but are gullible and fall for any bunk.

Col. Hoffman urged his audience to exercise their individual rights, to think as an individual not be one of the herd and depend on Christion guidance. He said the best leaders of the country had been from farm families who have a quality of unspoiled individualism.

Roxanna Folk Selects Sept. 30 For Wedding Date

Is Honored At Prenuptial Party

Miss Roxanna Folk, fiancee of Donald N. Whisner, has selected September 30 for the date of their marriage. The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 3:30 o'clock in the Springs, Pa., Mennonite Church with Rev. Walter Otto officiating.

The bridal party includes Miss Dorothy Rae Kerr as maid of honor and Miss Joann Broseker, bridesmaid. Mark Folk, brother of the bride-elect, is serving as Mr. Whisner's best man and Edward Yoder and Walter Killius, all of Springs, are to be the ushers.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleman E. Folk, Springs, the bride-elect is a graduate of Eastern Mennonite College, Harrisonburg, Va., and Goshen College, Goshen, Ind., receiving her B. A. in Natural Science. She also graduated from Memorial Hospital School of Nursing and is on the Nursing staff of the hospital.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whisner, 305 Virginia Avenue, attended Fort Hill High School and is a veteran of Army service in Korea and Japan. He is employed by the Kenneweg Company.

Mrs. Clyde Slider entertained in compliment to Miss Folk with a bridal shower and pre-nuptial party, Friday evening at her home, Louisiana Avenue.

The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations of clusters of white wedding bells. A shower of white ribbons cascaded from a white sprinkling can to the shower gifts arranged on a table, and bouquets of fall flowers were used throughout the house. Cards were played during the evening.

Fall Fashions Shown At Beta Sigma Phi

"Out of This World Fashions" were presented last night by Rosenbaum's at All Ghan Country Club for the benefit of the Nurses' Scholarship fund of the Beta Sigma Phi City Council. It also was the plot of the show, which told of the visit of two women from Mars to the earth on their flying saucers to get a line on fall fashions.

Mrs. Betty Green, Rosenbaum's New York fashion co-ordinator, flew to Cumberland to conduct the show and point out the highlights for fall.

Among the highlights of the show wardrobe were suits combining four co-ordinated pieces in companion tweeds. Slim line dresses, Paris inspired, were featured, including many casual types in popular wool jersey and corduroy. The "Mr. Look" was well represented in plaid "smoking jacket" and more formal suits that bore such famous designer names as Schiaparelli.

"Prestige plum" was one of the new colors, presaging, says Mrs. Green, a trend towards purple tones for this coming spring. The "pyramid coat" was shown in a variety of fine fall woolens, as was the flared topper to be worn over "stem slim" skirts. Emphasizing the importance of "separates," Rosenbaum's presented skirts of fake fur, with dyed to match jersey top. Formals, which ended the show in a blaze of glitter, drew swoons and sighs from the audience.

Throughout the show attention was called to velvet accessories, literally, "from head to toe," from millinery to footwear.

Approximately 92 tables were in play following the showing.

Ada Louise Ford Named Chairman Of State Group

Youth Conference Will Be Formed

Maryland All Stars were asked to present a program at the Interstate conference, and Miss Ada Louise Ford, city, was named chairman at the meeting of the Interstate committee held over the weekend at Righie Hotel, Betterton.

Others serving with her are Miss Mary K. Wills, Charles county; and James Pfeifferkorn, Howard county. The Interstate conference will be held October 6, 7, 8, at the Viking Hotel, Newport, R. I. The Rhode Island and Massachusetts All Stars will be hosts.

Announcement was made that the Maryland All Stars will celebrate their 30th anniversary at the 1951 Spring conference. It was decided it should be held at a central location and a pageant will be presented.

Plans were discussed for a Youth Conference to be formed of groups of young men and young women from 18 to 28 years of age. It is to be held some weekend with the All Stars voting for winter. It is to be a training conference on recreational lines and there will be guest speakers.

Announcement also was made of a Rural Youth USA conference to be held October 13, 14, 15 at Jackson Mills, W. Va. Amy Fry, Montgomery county, was named the All Star delegate.

John Grier, Hartford county, big chief, presided at the business meeting. The usual roll call by years was held beginning with 1921.

The largest group was the 1950 with 26 New All Stars taken in at Club Week last month. There was special music, boating, square dancing, a banquet and Sunday morning devotionals.

Col. Karl O. Hoffman, Chestertown, chairman of the Kent county Youth committee, principal speaker, used as his topic the theme of the conference, "Living and Working Today for a Better Tomorrow." He reminded his audience that "today is gone and things one does bear on tomorrow," so he urged that one act today to improve the world tomorrow, and to do this he pointed out it is necessary to understand the world of today.

Emphasis was laid on the individual, against collectivism. He pointed out that individual rights must be exercised and warned against funnelling into an ism. He warned that the rapid advance of the isms is due to the desire of the people to move in groups. This, he pointed out, is all right if not done to excess. Reminding the audience that the forefathers formed a collective group that the new nation might survive, they later returned to the family group so the individual would not be overrun.

Pointing out that in 1936 a labor leader warned organized labor not to overdo organization, and that the leader should depend on the people not the people on the leader, but that this was not heeded, so today labor has to do it's housecleaning.

Warning that one half the world is under communism, Col. Hoffman pointed out that one cannot believe in God and communism at the same time. He illustrated by showing how unlikely it is that anyone would knowingly place his future in the hands of a brilliant person who is not a Christian, but rather choose a God fearing leader.

In commenting on communism, the speaker said many are slaves by fear, a large number are coluntary communists, classified as unChristian intellectuals who believe man is so perfect that with science he needs no other help.

The second group he listed as educated but morally unstable, who have an ax to grind; the third, egomsniacs, who are out to get themselves a position without considering any one else; and fourth the simple uneducated, who love their country but are gullible and fall for any bunk.

Col. Hoffman urged his audience to exercise their individual rights, to think as an individual not be one of the herd and depend on Christion guidance. He said the best leaders of the country had been from farm families who have a quality of unspoiled individualism.

Keyser Guard Unit Ready For Active Duty

Field Artillery Battery Leaves Soon

KEYSER, W. Va. — Everything is apparently in readiness for Battery C, 201st Heavy Field Artillery, W. Va. National Guard, to depart for active service. Physical examinations were conducted at the local armory during the early part of the past week.

The men have been reporting at the armory at 6:30 (EST) each morning and going through a daily routine of activity until evening, when those, who reside in Keyser, are permitted to return to their homes until the following morning.

Lt. Lee R. Green, who has been the active commander of the battery for several months, says the men have shown their usual enthusiasm in their work and he says the battery is well fitted for any task they'll be called on to perform.

Captain Leslie Yost, commander of the battery was granted a release a few months ago to carry on other work, but since the organization has been called in service, he has returned and will leave with the force when it departs, sometime within the next ten days. The exact departure date has not been announced publicly.

Other line officers in the battery are Lt. Keith R. Keister, Lt. William Gardner and Warrant Officer Robert L. Brummage. There are 88 enlisted men.

The mess officer of the force is Ernest Brummage, and according to the meals being served to the officers and men, they are being well provided for. A sample of what the men eat was shown Friday, at which time Mayor John Freeland, Keyser, and local newspaper men were guests at the noon dinner with the entire battery. The menu provided: Saute fish, tartar sauce, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, scalloped tomatoes, ice cream and bread, butter and coffee.

At the Friday morning breakfast, Howard Rogers, Mineral County Clerk, dug out his old mess kit and reported for breakfast at the armory and found an excellent meal of fried bacon, corn fritters, dry cereal, fresh milk, orange juice, butter and coffee. Mr. Rogers said it was superior to what he had gotten in the service those "many" years ago.

The menus are well prepared and the enlisted men are not backward about going back for second and third helpings. The mess has been open for the public to see, and it has been an interesting subject of conversation in Keyser, that the Keyser soldiers are getting the best of food and attention. On Thursday the "boys" had well tenderized steak and on the previous day chicken was served.

Before the battery personnel leaves for a camp, all of the rolling stock is to be placed on freight cars and shipped in advance.

Keyser Council To Consider New Milk Law Today

KEYSER, W. Va.—The new milk ordinance for the city of Keyser will come up for its first reading at the semi-monthly meeting in the City Hall on North Davis Street this afternoon.

The ordinance that was proposed at the last meeting of council calls for only milk of Grade "A" quality to be delivered in the city. It was brought up because of many complaints being made that milk of lower grades is being distributed in the city, and offers a threat to the health of Keyser citizens.

There is a possibility officials indicated that there will be some complaints filed against the proposed ordinance when it is called up for passage.

Keyser Guard Unit Ready For Active Duty

Field Artillery Battery Leaves Soon

KEYSER, W. Va. — Everything is apparently in readiness for Battery C, 201st Heavy Field Artillery, W. Va. National Guard, to depart for active service. Physical examinations were conducted at the local armory during the early part of the past week.

The men have been reporting at the armory at 6:30 (EST) each morning and going through a daily routine of activity until evening, when those, who reside in Keyser, are permitted to return to their homes until the following morning.

Lt. Lee R. Green, who has been the active commander of the battery for several months, says the men have shown their usual enthusiasm in their work and he says the battery is well fitted for any task they'll be called on to perform.

Captain Leslie Yost, commander of the battery was granted a release a few months ago to carry on other work, but since the organization has been called in service, he has returned and will leave with the force when it departs, sometime within the next ten days. The exact departure date has not been announced publicly.

Other line officers in the battery are Lt. Keith R. Keister, Lt. William Gardner and Warrant Officer Robert L. Brummage. There are 88 enlisted men.

The mess officer of the force is Ernest Brummage, and according to the meals being served to the officers and men, they are being well provided for. A sample of what the men eat was shown Friday, at which time Mayor John Freeland, Keyser, and local newspaper men were guests at the noon dinner with the entire battery. The menu provided: Saute fish, tartar sauce, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, scalloped tomatoes, ice cream and bread, butter and coffee.

At the Friday morning breakfast, Howard Rogers, Mineral County Clerk, dug out his old mess kit and reported for breakfast at the armory and found an excellent meal of fried bacon, corn fritters, dry cereal, fresh milk, orange juice, butter and coffee. Mr. Rogers said it was superior to what he had gotten in the service those "many" years ago.

The menus are well prepared and the enlisted men are not backward about going back for second and third helpings. The mess has been open for the public to see, and it has been an interesting subject of conversation in Keyser, that the Keyser soldiers are getting the best of food and attention. On Thursday the "boys" had well tenderized steak and on the previous day chicken was served.

Before the battery personnel leaves for a camp, all of the rolling stock is to be placed on freight cars and shipped in advance.

Keyser Guard Unit Ready For Active Duty

Field Artillery Battery Leaves Soon

KEYSER, W. Va. — Everything is apparently in readiness for Battery C, 201st Heavy Field Artillery, W. Va. National Guard, to depart for active service. Physical examinations were conducted at the local armory during the early part of the past week.

The men have been reporting at the armory at 6:30 (EST) each morning and going through a daily routine of activity until evening, when those, who reside in Keyser, are permitted to return to their homes until the following morning.

Lt. Lee R. Green, who has been the active commander of the battery for several months, says the men have shown their usual enthusiasm in their work and he says the battery is well fitted for any task they'll be called on to perform.

Captain Leslie Yost, commander of the battery was granted a release a few months ago to carry on other work, but since the organization has been called in service, he has returned and will leave with the force when it departs, sometime within the next ten days. The exact departure date has not been announced publicly.

Other line officers in the battery are Lt. Keith R. Keister, Lt. William Gardner and Warrant Officer Robert L. Brummage. There are 88 enlisted men.

The mess officer of the force is Ernest Brummage, and according to the meals being served to the officers and men, they are being well provided for. A sample of what the men eat was shown Friday, at which time Mayor John Freeland, Keyser, and local newspaper men were guests at the noon dinner with the entire battery. The menu provided: Saute fish, tartar sauce, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, scalloped tomatoes, ice cream and bread, butter and coffee.

At the Friday morning breakfast, Howard Rogers, Mineral County Clerk, dug out his old mess kit and reported for breakfast at the armory and found an excellent meal of fried bacon, corn fritters, dry cereal, fresh milk, orange juice, butter and coffee. Mr. Rogers said it was superior to what he had gotten in the service those "many" years ago.

The menus are well prepared and the enlisted men are not backward about going back for second and third helpings. The mess has been open for the public to see, and it has been an interesting subject of conversation in Keyser, that the Keyser soldiers are getting the best of food and attention. On Thursday the "boys" had well tenderized steak and on the previous day chicken was served.

Before the battery personnel leaves for a camp, all of the rolling stock is to be placed on freight cars and shipped in advance.

Two CIO "Reds" Face Union Hearing Friday

William Boyd Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman, both former presidents of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) and self-admitted members of the Communist Party, will receive a hearing before the union's executive board Friday at 7:30 p. m. on charges of violating the constitution and by-laws of the organization, according to Earl L. Snyder, union president.

The two will be tried under a section of the by-laws which provides that any member advocating the tenets of communism, fascism, or nazism may be expelled from the union if found guilty.

Those convicted under the local union's by-laws have the right of appeal to the National Executive Council of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) within 30 days.

in Europe, must learn to live on his nerves. Therefore another question needs answering. How long must this period last? Given an absolutely all-out effort, both here and in Europe, how soon could the vacuum be filled?

The planners answer this question by saying that thirty divisions, with the necessary air support, could be created in Western Europe within eighteen months. This would provide "a very useful deterrent." After this hard core had been created, expansion could be very rapid — to sixty divisions in thirty months. This would provide a real and solid defense of the Continent.

In the above answer, the planners put all possible emphasis on what could be done, rather than on what will be done. But in view of the somber realities of our strategic situation, as outlined above, it is surely obvious that whatever can be done must be done. It is against this background that the results of the meetings in New York, which Secretary of State Dean Acheson has correctly described as the most important since the war ended, must be judged.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In George Heister's hometown, Colonel Lemuel Witheringham, noble scion of an aristocratic but improverished family, was known as its most silver-tongued and long-winded orator. When he died of old age, his obit in the Gazette read, "The late Colonel plunged into the unfathomable, soared into the infinite, and communed with the inscrutable—but he never paid cash."

When Mr. Greco moved his tonsorial parlor to its new location, he picked up an assistant who was polite as all get out, but just didn't happen to be a good barber. To one of his first customers he asked in his best Harvard accent, "Will you have anything on your face when I finish shaving you?" The unhappy customer spoke up through his lather. "I hope to save my nose, but from the way you're going, the odds are against me."

Everybody in America should hear the story of the lady who entered a grocery store and demanded a hundred pounds of sugar, explaining, "I want to get it before the hoarders snap it all up."

in Europe, must learn to live on his nerves. Therefore another question needs answering. How long must this period last? Given an absolutely all-out effort, both here and in Europe, how soon could the vacuum be filled?

The planners answer this question by saying that thirty divisions, with the necessary air support, could be created in Western Europe within eighteen months. This would provide "a very useful deterrent." After this hard core had been created, expansion could be very rapid — to sixty divisions in thirty months. This would provide a real and solid defense of the Continent.

In the above answer, the planners put all possible emphasis on what could be done, rather than on what will be done. But in view of the somber realities of our strategic situation, as outlined above, it is surely obvious that whatever can be done must be done. It is against this background that the results of the meetings in New York, which Secretary of State Dean Acheson has correctly described as the most important since the war ended, must be judged.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In George Heister's hometown, Colonel Lemuel Witheringham, noble scion of an aristocratic but improverished family, was known as its most silver-tongued and long-winded orator. When he died of old age, his obit in the Gazette read, "The late Colonel plunged into the unfathomable, soared into the infinite, and communed with the inscrutable—but he never paid cash."

When Mr. Greco moved his tonsorial parlor to its new location, he picked up an assistant who was polite as all get out, but just didn't happen to be a good barber. To one of his first customers he asked in his best Harvard accent, "Will you have anything on your face when I finish shaving you?" The unhappy customer spoke up through his lather. "I hope to save my nose, but from the way you're going, the odds are against me."

in Europe, must learn to live on his nerves. Therefore another question needs answering. How long must this period last? Given an absolutely all-out effort, both here and in Europe, how soon could the vacuum be filled?

The planners answer this question by saying that thirty divisions, with the necessary air support, could be created in Western Europe within eighteen months. This would provide "a very useful deterrent." After this hard core had been created, expansion could be very rapid — to sixty divisions in thirty months. This would provide a real and solid defense of the Continent.

In the above answer, the planners put all possible emphasis on what could be done, rather than on what will be done. But in view of the somber realities of our strategic situation, as outlined above, it is surely obvious that whatever can be done must be done. It is against this background that the results of the meetings in New York, which Secretary of State Dean Acheson has correctly described as the most important since the war ended, must be judged.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In George Heister's hometown, Colonel Lemuel Witheringham, noble scion of an aristocratic but improverished family, was known as its most silver-tongued and long-winded orator. When he died of old age, his obit in the Gazette read, "The late Colonel plunged into the unfathomable, soared into the infinite, and communed with the inscrutable—but he never paid cash."

When Mr. Greco moved his tonsorial parlor to its new location, he picked up an assistant who was polite as all get out, but just didn't happen to be a good barber. To one of his first customers he asked in his best Harvard accent, "Will you have anything on your face when I finish shaving you?" The unhappy customer spoke up through his lather. "I hope to save my nose, but from the way you're going, the odds are against me."

BEST IN HOUSEWORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 16, (INS) — Men, not women, are the best housekeepers, according to Mrs. Mary K. Heiner, an expert in household management. She said their secret was in getting "rid of work by preventing it." Most home efficiency aids, she pointed out, have been developed by men. An electric janitor, designed by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, alone saves the housewife some 5,000 cellarward steps each week by automatically making furnace damper adjustments.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16, (INS) — Men, not women, are the best housekeepers, according to Mrs. Mary K. Heiner, an expert in household management. She said their secret was in getting "rid of work by preventing it." Most home efficiency aids, she pointed out, have been developed by men. An electric janitor, designed by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, alone saves the housewife some 5,000 cellarward steps each week by automatically making furnace damper adjustments.

She said their secret was in getting "rid of work by preventing it." Most home efficiency aids, she pointed out, have been developed by men. An electric janitor, designed by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, alone saves the housewife some 5,000 cellarward steps each week by automatically making furnace damper adjustments.

The Reason For This Contest

This is not one of the ordinary little contests you see every now and then in the newspapers. This one is being presented by one of the largest and most famous book-publishing firms in America — the publishers of the NEW FUNK & WAGNALLS ENCYCLOPEDIA — the magnificent new encyclopedia that is selling like wildfire because it is the BEST — AT LEAST COST!

This contest has been devised by the editors of that great encyclopedia to enchant every family in America — and thus to publicize the encyclopedia, and let EVERYONE know how easy it is to own one, and how wonderful it would be to have one right in his own home.

That is the reason for this contest, and for that purpose the publishers are willing to GIVE AWAY 210 big cash prizes, including a cash first prize of $102,500.00 — more money than any business firm ever gave as a first prize in such a contest in the history of the world!

The contest is designed to give EVERYONE a fair and square chance to win, with no tricks or catches, and to amuse and entertain your whole family for week after week while you are trying for that big first prize.

How You Enter The Contest

Here is a tremendous and marvelous surprise for you. You can send in the coupon at the right below TODAY, and by return mail you will receive ABSOLUTELY FREE the very first Puzzle-Quiz in the contest, with the entry form, and the Official Rules, so that you can enter the contest RIGHT AWAY!

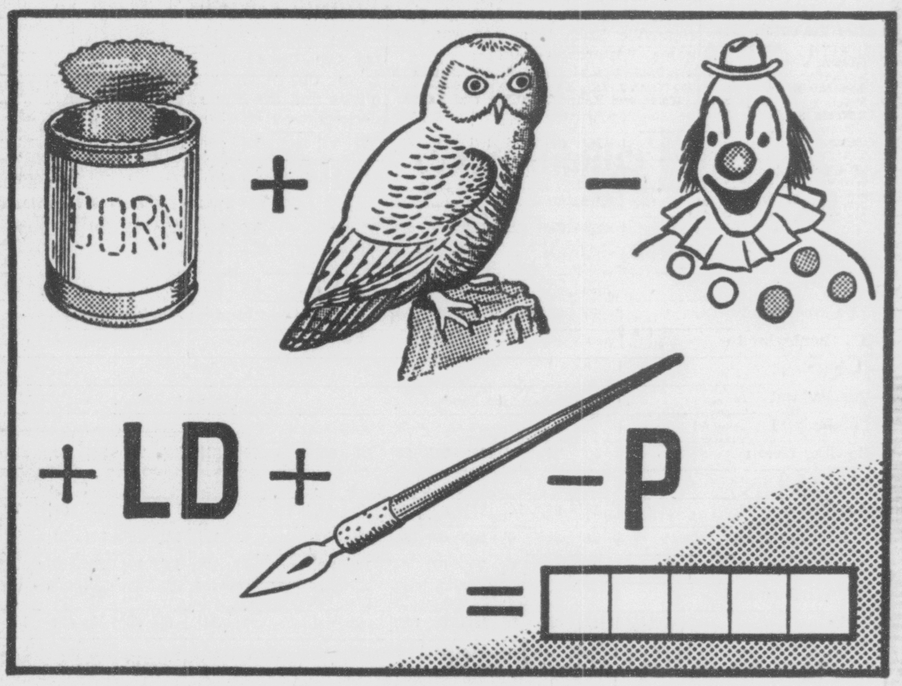
And here's the surprise.

With the first Puzzle-Quiz you will receive a magnificent big book, also ABSOLUTELY FREE. That book is the very first volume of the wonderful New Funk & Wagnalls Encyclopedia. But we don't charge you for it. We don't ask you to pay a cent for it, even though it's worth all of FIVE DOLLARS. We give it to you ABSOLUTELY FREE with your first Puzzle-Quiz, and it doesn't cost you a penny!

Can You Solve This Puzzle?

THIS IS THE KIND OF PUZZLE IN THIS CONTEST

The solution to the puzzle below is the name of a Pilgrim Father who came over on the Mayflower in 1620.



Here Is How You Solve This Sample Puzzle

JUST FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE INSTRUCTIONS

First of all, note that there are a CAN, OWL, CLOWN and PEN in this puzzle. Note also that there are some letters of the alphabet. There are also some plus and minus signs, which mean that you are to add and subtract. To solve the puzzle, write down the letters CAN. Next, add OWL, giving you a total of CANOWL. Next, subtract CLOWN, which leaves you with A. Then add LD, giving you ALD. Next, add PEN, giving you ALDPEN. Next, subtract P, leaving you with ALDEN, which is the solution to this sample puzzle.

We Give You Valuable Book Free—To Help Answer First Puzzle Quiz

The reason we give you this wonderful book as an outright gift is first of all because the first Puzzle-Quiz is based on the book. The answer to each puzzle in the Puzzle-Quiz is the title of one of the subjects in the book. Also, the Puzzle-Quiz will contain a number of quiz-questions, just like the questions asked today in the quiz programs on radio and television. AND RIGHT IN THE BOOK IS THE INFORMATION TO HELP YOU ANSWER EVERY QUIZ-QUESTION CORRECTLY!

That means you NEED THE BOOK TO HELP YOU WIN A PRIZE! And we give you the book absolutely free with the first Puzzle-QUIZ!

Another Reason Why

But there is another reason why we want to give you the book absolutely free. It is the first volume of a world-famous set of books — the New Funk & Wagnalls Encyclopedia — the one set of books every forward-looking American family cannot afford to be without, for the help it can be to them, socially and financially.

By giving you the first volume we hope to interest you in the rest of the set! We give you the free book really as a sample. We think the book is so terrific that once you get it into your hands, you will want all the other volumes! And we are willing to take the gamble of giving you one book to PROVE TO YOU why you need the others.

The Puzzle-Quizzes

In this contest will be a series of Puzzle-Quizzes, with each one based on a volume of the encyclopedia. With the free Volume 1 and the first Puzzle-Quiz we will send you full details about the contest and how you can get the other volumes of the encyclopedia. After you have read all these details we ask you just one favor. We ask you merely to LET US KNOW what you want to do.

Enclosed with the free book and the first Puzzle-Quiz will be a postcard which we ask you to send back to us. On it you will indicate your decision. You can check off "YES" — that you want to stay in the contest and get the other volumes of the set. Or you can check off "NO" — that you do not want to stay in the contest, or get any other volumes.

That's all we ask. And remember, no matter how you decide, the big, beautiful Volume 1, worth $5.00, STILL BELONGS TO YOU!

Act At Once — Today!

So act immediately. Fill out the coupon TODAY and send it off to us. By return mail you get the free first Puzzle-Quiz and the free Volume 1. You also receive full details about the contest, and full details as to how you can buy the other volumes of the set at the rate of three each month at a MIRACULOUSLY low price. And each new volume will contain another Puzzle-Quiz in the contest.

All you do in return is send us a postcard saying "YES", that you want more Puzzle-Quizzes and books — or "NO", that you do not. We gamble EVERYTHING and you gamble NOTHING — and you keep the free book in any case.

So don't hesitate a moment! Mail the coupon at the right at once. Phillies To Sell World Series Tickets On Game-By-Game Basis

23,000 Seats To Go On Sale Wednesday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (INS) —The Philadelphia Phillies announced today they will sell world series tickets on an unprecedented game-by-game basis in an effort to "get the seats to Joe Fan."

With his charges all but mathematically home as National League champions, Philly owner Bob Carpenter said the ticket sale will start Wednesday with about 23,000 seats for each home series game at Shibe Park on a "first come, first served" basis.

Heretofore, world series tickets usually have been sold in three or four-game strips.

Under Carpenter's plan, the Phils will sell tickets separately for games numbers one and two and six and seven.

If the series does not last six or seven games, Carpenter said, "fans who bought tickets for those games will know at least we tried to treat them fairly."

Top priority on ticket sales will go to regular-season seat holders. Each applicant will be limited to one game and a limit of two tickets, and no one will be allowed to choose the game he wishes to see.

"The people who supported us during the season are entitled to series tickets," Carpenter said. "But since it is impossible to accommodate them all, we figured selling individual tickets was the only sensible solution."

Dodgers Beaten By Chicago, 9-7

Brown Belts Three Homers For Losers

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (INS)—Three home runs from the bat of Tommy Brown failed today to keep the staggering Brooklyn Dodgers from losing their fourth straight game, a 9 to 7 reversal at the hands of the Chicago Cubs before a tiny 2,051 crowd.

Brown, batting in all but two of the losers' runs, tied the score once and homered in the eighth with a man aboard as the Dodgers scored four times after trailing 8 to 3.

But Chicago's Wayne Terwilliger homered in the ninth to put the game on ice and give the victory to reliefer Walt Dubiel. Preacher Roe took the loss.

Ron Northey's bases-loaded home run featured a five-run Cub outburst which broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

Philly Eagles Lose Scott, Suffers Broken Shoulder

Van Buren May Play At Chicago Sunday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (AP) — It was really a blue Monday for the Philadelphia Eagles today. They had more than hurt pride to nurse. The 1949 National Football League champions must get along without two star backs and can count on only partial service from a third.

Clyde (Smackover) Scott, considered by many as football's fastest running back, suffered a broken shoulder against the Cleveland Browns Saturday night. He'll be out for at least eight weeks and possibly for the season.

In addition to learning about Scott and trying to figure out just what hit them in Saturday night's 35 to 10 defeat by the Browns, the Eagles and Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale received still another jolt. The team's other fleet halfback, Bosh Pritchard, may be inactive for sometime.

Pritchard suffered a torn cartilage in his knee. The former Virginia Military Institute back left today for St. Louis and a visit with Dr. V. K. Dittrich, well known surgeon. Dr. Dittrich cured the same type of ailment for Quarterback Tommy Thompson back in 1939. The Eagles hope he can do the same for Pritchard.

Steve Van Buren, leading ground gainer in the National Football League and holder of six loop ground marks, may be able to play next Sunday against the Chicago Cardinals at Chicago. Van Buren sat on the bench during the Cleveland game. He's nursing a recently operated-on toe.

Jansen Cops 17th, Beats Cards, 13-0

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (INS) — The New York Giants pulverized the remnants of the once vaunted St. Louis Cardinals, 13 to 0, today behind the brilliant two-hit pitching of Larry Jansen.

The victory and 18th shutout for Giant pitchers this season raised New York to within a half game of the third place Brooklyn Dodgers, who bowed to the Chicago Cubs.

Jansen allowed doubles by Bill Howerton and Erv Dusak as he recorded his fifth shutout and seventeenth win of the year.

Magic Number Is "8" In NL Pennant Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Eight is now the "magic number" in the National League pennant race.

That is to say, any combination of Philadelphia victories and Boston defeats that adds up to eight means the pennant is assured for Philadelphia.

For instance, if Philadelphia wins eight games and loses its other remaining five it will wind up with 95 victories and 59 losses. If Boston wins all its remaining 16 games it will have only 94 wins and 60 losses.

Musial Nears Batting Title

Stan Is Hitting .352 With Two Weeks To Go

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal swatsmith, lost seven points during last week's National League batting race but he still is the odds-on choice for the loop's batting title.

Musial sunk from .359 to .352 and his injured rival, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, climbed two points. Robinson's figures moved up from .331 to .333. But there are only two full weeks of play left and Musial is all but "in."

His 101 runs scored puts him over the century mark for the seventh time in his big league stay. But he doesn't lead. Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants is tops with 108 runs scored.

Del Ennis of the league-leading Phils is the best in the runs driven in sector with 117, six more than registered by Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Forty-one of Musial's blows were doubles, enough to share the lead with teammate Red Schoendienst. Richie Ashburn of the Phils is the top man in triples with 14.

Although he did not hit a single homer during the week Kiner continues to set the pace at 43.

Following Musial and Robinson in the race for batting honors are Walker Cooper of Boston with .317; Sid Gordon, also of the Braves, .315; Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, .313; Duke Snider, Brooklyn, .312; Andy Pafko, Chicago, .311; Stanky .308; Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, and Ashburn at .307.

Sam Jethroe, Boston's speed merchant, swiped one base to keep his lead with 33.

Sal Maglie, former New York relief pitcher, tops the hurlers with a 16 won three lost record for an .842 average. Jim Konstanty of the Phils and Jim Hearn of the Giants each has a .750 average. Konstanty's record is 15 and 5, Hearn's 9 and 3.

Phillies To Sell World Series Tickets On Game-By-Game Basis

23,000 Seats To Go On Sale Wednesday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (INS) The Philadelphia Phillies an- ounced today they will sell world ries tickets on an unprecedented me-by-game basis in an effort to et the seats to Joe Fan."

With his charges all but mathe- atically home as National League ampions, Philly owner Bob Car- nter said the ticket sale will start ednesday with about 23,000 seats r each home series game at Shibe ark on a "first come, first served" sis.

Heretofore, world series tickets ually have been sold in three or ur-game strips.

Under Carpenter's plan, the Phils will sell tickets separately for games numbers one and two and six and seven.

If the series does not last six or seven games, Carpenter said, "fans who bought tickets for those games will know at least we tried to treat them fairly."

Top priority on ticket sales will go to regular-season seat holders. Each applicant will be limited to one game and a limit of two tickets, and no one will be allowed to choose the game he wishes to see.

"The people who supported us during the season are entitled to series tickets," Carpenter said. "But since it is impossible to accommodate them all, we figured selling individual tickets was the only sensible solution."

Dodgers Beaten By Chicago, 9-7

Brown Belts Three Homers For Losers

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (INS)—Three home runs from the bat of Tommy Brown failed today to keep the staggering Brooklyn Dodgers from losing their fourth straight game, a 9 to 7 reversal at the hands of the Chicago Cubs before a tiny 2,051 crowd.

Brown, batting in all but two of the losers' runs, tied the score once and homered in the eighth with a man aboard as the Dodgers scored four times after trailing 8 to 3.

But Chicago's Wayne Terwilliger homered in the ninth to put the game on ice and give the victory to reliefer Walt Dubiel. Preacher Roe took the loss.

Ron Northey's bases-loaded home run featured a five-run Cub outburst which broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

Philly Eagles Lose Scott, Suffers Broken Shoulder

Van Buren May Play At Chicago Sunday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (AP) — It was really a blue Monday for the Philadelphia Eagles today. They had more than hurt pride to nurse. The 1949 National Football League champions must get along without two star backs and can count on only partial service from a third.

Clyde (Smackover) Scott, considered by many as football's fastest running back, suffered a broken shoulder against the Cleveland Browns Saturday night. He'll be out for at least eight weeks and possibly for the season.

In addition to learning about Scott and trying to figure out just what hit them in Saturday night's 35 to 10 defeat by the Browns, the Eagles and Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale received still another jolt. The team's other fleet halfback, Bosh Pritchard, may be inactive for sometime.

Pritchard suffered a torn cartilage in his knee. The former Virginia Military Institute back left today for St. Louis and a visit with Dr. V. K. Dittrich, well known surgeon. Dr. Dittrich cured the same type of ailment for Quarterback Tommy Thompson back in 1939. The Eagles hope he can do the same for Pritchard.

Steve Van Buren, leading ground gainer in the National Football League and holder of six loop ground marks, may be able to play next Sunday against the Chicago Cardinals at Chicago. Van Buren sat on the bench during the Cleveland game. He's nursing a recently operated-on toe.

Magic Number Is "8" In NL Pennant Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Eight is now the "magic number" in the National League pennant race.

That is to say, any combination of Philadelphia victories and Boston defeats that adds up to eight means the pennant is assured for Philadelphia.

For instance, if Philadelphia wins eight games and loses its other remaining five it will wind up with 95 victories and 59 losses. If Boston wins all its remaining 16 games it will have only 94 wins and 60 losses.

Jansen Cops 17th, Beats Cards, 13-0

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (INS) — The New York Giants pulverized the remnants of the once vaunted St. Louis Cardinals, 13 to 0, today behind the brilliant two-hit pitching of Larry Jansen.

The victory and 18th shutout for Giant pitchers this season raised New York to within a half game of the third place Brooklyn Dodgers, who bowed to the Chicago Cubs.

Jansen allowed doubles by Bill Howerton and Erv Dusak as he recorded his fifth shutout and seventeenth win of the year.

Stan Is Hitting .352 With Two Weeks To Go

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal swatsmith, lost seven points during last week's National League batting race but he still is the odds-on choice for the loop's batting title.

Musial sunk from .359 to .352 and his injured rival, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, climbed two points. Robinson's figures moved up from .331 to .333. But there are only two full weeks of play left and Musial is all but "in."

His 101 runs scored puts him over the century mark for the seventh time in his big league stay. But he doesn't lead. Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants is tops with 108 runs scored.

Del Ennis of the league-leading Phils is the best in the runs driven in sector with 117, six more than registered by Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Forty-one of Musial's blows were doubles, enough to share the lead with teammate Red Schoendienst. Richie Ashburn of the Phils is the top man in triples with 14.

Although he did not hit a single homer during the week Kiner continues to set the pace at 43.

Following Musial and Robinson in the race for batting honors are Walker Cooper of Boston with .317; Sid Gordon, also of the Braves, .315; Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, .313; Duke Snider, Brooklyn, .312; Andy Pafko, Chicago, .311; Stanky .308; Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, and Ashburn at .307.

Sam Jethroe, Boston's speed merchant, swiped one base to keep his lead with 33.

Sal Maglie, former New York relief pitcher, tops the hurlers with a 16 won three lost record for an .842 average. Jim Konstanty of the Phils and Jim Hearn of the Giants each has a .750 average. Konstanty's record is 15 and 5, Hearn's 9 and 3.

Phillies To Sell World Series Tickets On Game-By-Game Basis

23,000 Seats To Go On Sale Wednesday

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (INS) The Philadelphia Phillies an- nced today they will sell world es tickets on an unprecedented e-by-game basis in an effort to t the seats to Joe Fan."

With his charges all but mathe- tically home as National League mpions, Philly owner Bob Car- ter said the ticket sale will start dnesday with about 23,000 seats each home series game at Shibe k on a "first come, first served" is.

eretofore, world series tickets ally have been sold in three or r-game strips.

nder Carpenter's plan, the Phils will sell tickets separately for games numbers one and two and six and seven.

If the series does not last six or seven games, Carpenter said, "fans who bought tickets for those games will know at least we tried to treat them fairly."

Top priority on ticket sales will go to regular-season seat holders. Each applicant will be limited to one game and a limit of two tickets, and no one will be allowed to choose the game he wishes to see.

"The people who supported us during the season are entitled to series tickets," Carpenter said. "But since it is impossible to accommodate them all, we figured selling individual tickets was the only sensible solution."

Dodgers Beaten By Chicago, 9-7

Brown Belts Three Homers For Losers

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (INS)—Three home runs from the bat of Tommy Brown failed today to keep the staggering Brooklyn Dodgers from losing their fourth straight game, a 9 to 7 reversal at the hands of the Chicago Cubs before a tiny 2,051 crowd.

Brown, batting in all but two of the losers' runs, tied the score once and homered in the eighth with a man aboard as the Dodgers scored four times after trailing 8 to 3.

But Chicago's Wayne Terwilliger homered in the ninth to put the game on ice and give the victory to reliefer Walt Dubiel. Preacher Roe took the loss.

Ron Northey's bases-loaded home run featured a five-run Cub outburst which broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

Magic Number Is "8" In NL Pennant Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Eight is now the "magic number" in the National League pennant race.

That is to say, any combination of Philadelphia victories and Boston defeats that adds up to eight means the pennant is assured for Philadelphia.

For instance, if Philadelphia wins eight games and loses its other remaining five it will wind up with 95 victories and 59 losses. If Boston wins all its remaining 16 games it will have only 94 wins and 60 losses.

Jansen Cops 17th, Beats Cards, 13-0

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (INS) — The New York Giants pulverized the remnants of the once vaunted St. Louis Cardinals, 13 to 0, today behind the brilliant two-hit pitching of Larry Jansen.

The victory and 18th shutout for Giant pitchers this season raised New York to within a half game of the third place Brooklyn Dodgers, who bowed to the Chicago Cubs.

Jansen allowed doubles by Bill Howerton and Erv Dusak as he recorded his fifth shutout and seventeenth win of the year.

Stan Is Hitting .352 With Two Weeks To Go

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP) — Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal swatsmith, lost seven points during last week's National League batting race but he still is the odds-on choice for the loop's batting title.

Musial sunk from .359 to .352 and his injured rival, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, climbed two points. Robinson's figures moved up from .331 to .333. But there are only two full weeks of play left and Musial is all but "in."

His 101 runs scored puts him over the century mark for the seventh time in his big league stay. But he doesn't lead. Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants is tops with 108 runs scored.

Del Ennis of the league-leading Phils is the best in the runs driven in sector with 117, six more than registered by Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Forty-one of Musial's blows were doubles, enough to share the lead with teammate Red Schoendienst. Richie Ashburn of the Phils is the top man in triples with 14.

Although he did not hit a single homer during the week Kiner continues to set the pace at 43.

Following Musial and Robinson in the race for batting honors are Walker Cooper of Boston with .317; Sid Gordon, also of the Braves, .315; Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, .313; Duke Snider, Brooklyn, .312; Andy Pafko, Chicago, .311; Stanky .308; Carl Furillo, Brooklyn, and Ashburn at .307.

Sam Jethroe, Boston's speed merchant, swiped one base to keep his lead with 33.

Sal Maglie, former New York relief pitcher, tops the hurlers with a 16 won three lost record for an .842 average. Jim Konstanty of the Phils and Jim Hearn of the Giants each has a .750 average. Konstanty's record is 15 and 5, Hearn's 9 and 3.

21,409 Racing Fans Witness Belmont Upset

Four Times Winner Over Citation Loses, Victor Pays $23.10

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Noor, four times winner over Citation in California, made his eastern racing debut at Belmont Park today and had to settle for second money as One Hitter slammed down the stretch for a length and a quarter victory in the Harmonicon Handicap.

A crowd of 21,409 turned out for the opening of the Belmont Park fall season and established Noor the 19-20 favorite in this mile and one-sixteenth event, a tune-up for the $25,000 Manhattan Handicap next Saturday.

But One Hitter, the Greentree stable four-year-old son of Shut Out, had other ideas. The 10 to 1 shot, carrying only 107 pounds, clipped under the wire in 1:42 4-5. He paid $23.10, $5.20 and $2.80 across the board.

At the finish, Noor was a length and a half ahead of Sky Miracle, which in turn was two and half lengths to the good of Three Rings, second choice at $1.10 to $2.

Noor returned $3.10 and $2.40 to place, with Sky Miracle $3.50 to show.

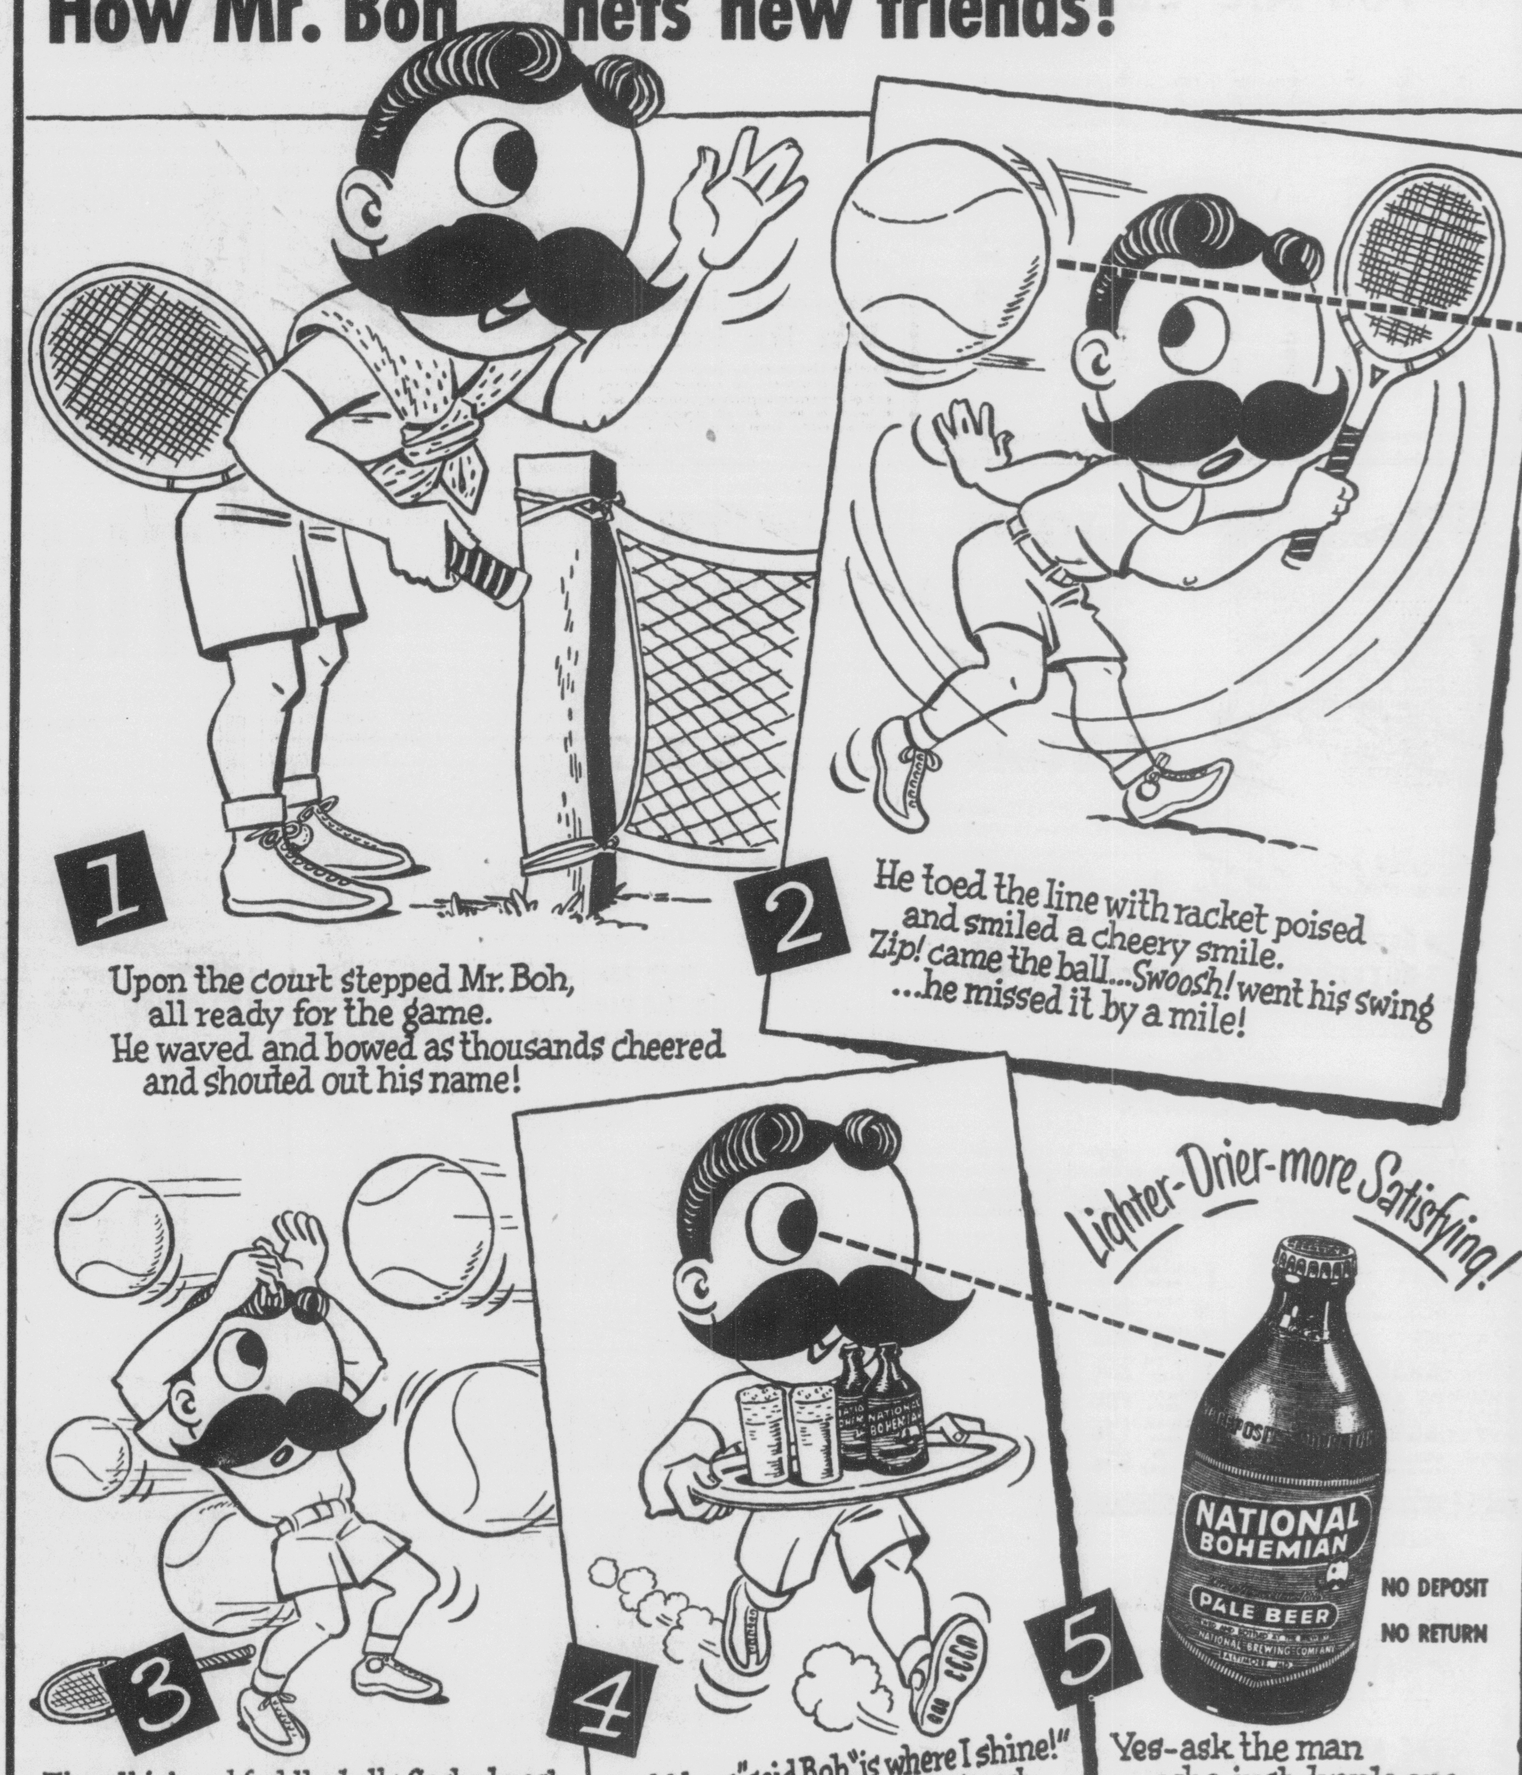
How Mr. Boh 'nets' new friends!



1 Upon the court stepped Mr. Boh, all ready for the game. He waved and bowed as thousands cheered and shouted out his name!

2 He toed the line with racket poised and smiled a cheery smile. Zip! came the ball...Swoosh! went his swing ...he missed it by a mile!

3 Then thick and fast the balls flashed past and for them all he tried. But he hit none; the game was done. "Your serve," his partner cried.

4 "Right here," said Boh, "is where I shine!" and so he served each guest Some National Bohemian, the beer that's always best!

Goodman Holds 17-Point Lead

T[illegible]s AL With .358 Batting Average

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Boston's Billy Goodman with a .358 mark today held a 17-point lead in the American League batting race.

Goodman dropped three points from last week, but runner-up George Kell of Detroit slumped four points to .341.

Goodman during the week banged six hits in 20 trips, while it was six in 24 ab's for Kell. Meanwhile, Detroit's Hoot Evers, who had zoomed 22 points the previous week, collected only three blows in 18 trips to skid six points to .334. That was good for third, a point ahead of Cleveland's Larry Doby.

Double leaders in specialized activity were Kell with 201 hits and 51 two-baggers and Dom DiMaggio with 125 runs and 15 stolen bases.

Boston's Vern Stephens climbed even with Red Sox team-mate Dropo in the vital rbi department, each with 140. Cleveland's Al Rosen slammed two homers during the week to continue as leader in that department with 36. Evers remained the top three-bagger man with 11.

Daily Double Pays Record $2,135 At New Jersey Track

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP) — A new high in daily double payoffs in the five-year history of the Atlantic City race course was established today when the "11-10" combination of Hand In Glove and Justalike returned $2,135.60 for $2 tickets.

One $10 and nineteen $2 tickets were sold to the lucky ones in the gathering of 8,500. The previous high of $1,379.80 was set on Aug. 12, 1948 when Pam Light and Track Talk accounted for the first and second races.

Two Matches Played In Women's Tourney

Two matches were played yesterday in the opening round of the women's fall golf tournament at the Cumberland Country Club.

In the second flight Mrs. Fuller Whitworth defeated Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon, 4 and 3, while in the fourth flight Mrs. Ralph R. Webster won over Mrs. Norman Taylor, 5 and 4.

The women's golf association of the club will hold a point tournament today.

The match scheduled for tomorrow at Somerset, Pa., between the CCC men's team and the Somerset Country Club has been postponed until October 4.

Teams Must Return Uniforms By Friday

All Little League managers are asked to turn in all uniforms (in a group, if possible) and other equipment by Friday, September 22, to the City Recreation Department, City Hall. The request comes from Ed Hoey, city recreation director.

How Mr. Boh 'nets' new friends!

Upon the court stepped Mr. Boh, all ready for the game.
He waved and bowed as thousands cheered and shouted out his name!

He toed the line with racket poised and smiled a cheery smile.
Zip! came the ball...Swoosh! went his swing
...he missed it by a mile!

Then thick and fast the balls flashed past and for them all he tried.
But he hit none; the game was done.
"Your serve," his partner cried.

"Right here," said Boh, "is where I shine!"
and so he served each guest
Some National Bohemian,
the beer that's always best!

Lighter-Drier-more Satisfying!
Yes-ask the man who just drank one and you will hear him cheer

Goodman Holds 17-Point Lead

T...s AL With .358 Batting Average

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Boston's Billy Goodman with a .358 mark today held a 17-point lead in the American League batting race.

Goodman dropped three points from last week, but runner-up George Kell of Detroit slumped four points to .341.

Goodman during the week banged six hits in 20 trips, while it was six in 24 ab's for Kell. Meanwhile, Detroit's Hoot Evers, who had zoomed 22 points the previous week, collected only three blows in 18 trips to skid six points to .334. Double leaders in specialized activity were Kell with 201 hits and 51 two-baggers and Dom DiMaggio with 125 runs and 15 stolen bases.

Boston's Vern Stephens climbed even with Red Sox team-mate Dropo in the vital rbi department, each with 140. Cleveland's Al Rosen slammed two homers during the week to continue as leader in that department with 36. Evers remained the top three-bagger man with 11.

She left 12 years ago after she made a picture here, and returned to her native France, saying she would never come back. Time, two unsuccessful marriages, and a long drawn out fight clearing herself of collaborationist charges have mellowed Danielle—so I hear.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Monte Hale, Republic cowboy, and his studio have parted. Trouble over contract.

Angela Lansbury and Peter Shaw return from England October 1.

We'll be glad to see Morton Downey when he gets here October 7 for the American Legion convention.

Ezio Pinza, who finished "Mr. Imperium," goes to San Francisco for the opera ball next month. He'll take a rest before he starts "Strictly Dishonorable."

Plenty of offers for Connie Moore since she opened at the Cocoanut Grove. Well, Connie did all right on Broadway a few years ago.

Pat O'Brien, who was so good in "Front Page" at LaJolla, opens his night club act at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas next week.

Dennis O'Keefe is buying the Zoltan Korda house in Benedict Canyon. It's all on one floor and his wife, Steffi Duna, doesn't have to walk upstairs. She's never fully recovered from her operation.

Somerset Maugham is coming to New York to raffle off his manuscript of "Trio." The idea came from Mrs. Ruby Schinasi, who is chairman of the big premiere being given for the Damon Runyon Fund.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are there people who can't say No?

Answer: There are men and women who find it extremely difficult to refuse to do what anyone asks them to do, however much it conflicts with their conscious wishes. Such people at heart are still "good children" who have not outgrown the feeling that they're disobedient and will be punished if they do not do as they are told. But also, they usually have a more or less unconscious desire to be dominated because by surrendering their wills to another they can escape the responsibility of making their own decisions.

Does family tension cause crime?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. David Abrahamsen, Columbia University research psychiatrist, in the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology. Family tension is the basic cause of criminal behavior. A research project lasting for four years which investigated the psychosomatic factors in the antisocial behavior of members of twenty-nine families confirmed this assertion. In every case there were evidences of unwholesome home conditions as well as of intense physical disturbances among members of the family.

Are "neurotic compulsions" phobias in reverse?

Answer: A good many of them are, says Dr. Otto Fenichel. For example, a neurotic compulsion to wash, obviously grows out of a phobia of dirt, and having to go through an elaborate ritual of putting everything in order before going to bed may be based on fear of sleeping. On the other hand, you may have a compulsion to keep proving to yourself that something you're afraid of is not really dangerous—like having to pat every dog you meet to prove he will not bite you. Compulsions are cured by finding out their meaning.

Al Jolson In Korea

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 18 (AP)—Al Jolson, "62 years young," was entertraining troops in Korea just as he did in all theaters of war during World War II.

The first big-time entertainer to reach the Korean fighting area said: "I've been trying to get here since the war started. And here I am."

It Says Here

Let's all flex our muscles in tribute.

Yes, sir, physical culturist, Bernarr MacFadden, has just celebrated his 82nd birthday and it was big news in the Health magazine.

MacFadden is famous for his body building methods.

He attributes his health and longevity to vigorous exercise. MacFadden thinks nothing of walking 50 or 60 blocks before breakfast. I don't think much of it either.

Sinatra once tried to build himself up by deep breathing. But after one deep breath, he had no strength left to exhale.

MacFadden has published numerous magazines dedicated to the art of body building and this has led to interesting fan mail. One girl wrote, "I understand you build bodies. I would like one like Lana Turner's."

Hail to the new season.

Yes, sir, the new radio and TV season will soon be under way and all the old favorites are working hard to whip their shows into shape after the summer layoff.

Arthur Godfrey had a busy summer. He was counting his sponsors.

Benny had a hard summer. He spent it trying to convince his guest stars that money isn't everything.

Crosby was in Europe and I'm glad he's back. He traveled so much I didn't know where to send the "CARE" packages.

Berle spent his vacation in the usual way . . . taking notes.

I wanted to take a vacation, but the Treasury Department told me it couldn't afford it.

I suppose you've heard that I'm going to work for a new sponsor . . . That's a man who says, "He isn't selling the product, but my wife thinks he's funny."

Danielle Darrieux, who arrives in Hollywood October 7 for "Welcome to Paris," will play a girl of 18 and later on, Jane Powell's mother, a woman years older.

Fefe Ferr, who saw her in Paris, says, "At 33 Darrieux is more beautiful than ever." But then, it was never her looks that bothered us, it was her temperament.

She left 12 years ago after she made a picture here, and returned to her native France, saying she would never come back. Time, two unsuccessful marriages, and a long drawn out fight clearing herself of collaborationist charges have mellowed Danielle—so I hear.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Monte Hale, Republic cowboy, and his studio have parted. Trouble over contract.

Angela Lansbury and Peter Shaw return from England October 1.

We'll be glad to see Morton Downey when he gets here October 7 for the American Legion convention.

Ezio Pinza, who finished "Mr. Imperium," goes to San Francisco for the opera ball next month. He'll take a rest before he starts "Strictly Dishonorable."

Plenty of offers for Connie Moore since she opened at the Cocoanut Grove. Well, Connie did all right on Broadway a few years ago.

Pat O'Brien, who was so good in "Front Page" at LaJolla, opens his night club act at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas next week.

Dennis O'Keefe is buying the Zoltan Korda house in Benedict Canyon. It's all on one floor and his wife, Steffi Duna, doesn't have to walk upstairs. She's never fully recovered from her operation.

Somerset Maugham is coming to New York to raffle off his manuscript of "Trio." The idea came from Mrs. Ruby Schinasi, who is chairman of the big premiere being given for the Damon Runyon Fund.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are there people who can't say No?

Answer: There are men and women who find it extremely difficult to refuse to do what anyone asks them to do, however much it conflicts with their conscious wishes. Such people at heart are still "good children" who have not outgrown the feeling that they're disobedient and will be punished if they do not do as they are told. But also, they usually have a more or less unconscious desire to be dominated because by surrendering their wills to another they can escape the responsibility of making their own decisions.

Does family tension cause crime?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. David Abrahamsen, Columbia University research psychiatrist, in the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology. Family tension is the basic cause of criminal behavior. A research project lasting for four years which investigated the psychosomatic factors in the antisocial behavior of members of twenty-nine families confirmed this assertion. In every case there were evidences of unwholesome home conditions as well as of intense physical disturbances among members of the family.

Are "neurotic compulsions" phobias in reverse?

Answer: A good many of them are, says Dr. Otto Fenichel. For example, a neurotic compulsion to wash, obviously grows out of a phobia of dirt, and having to go through an elaborate ritual of putting everything in order before going to bed may be based on fear of sleeping. On the other hand, you may have a compulsion to keep proving to yourself that something you're afraid of is not really dangerous—like having to pat every dog you meet to prove he will not bite you. Compulsions are cured by finding out their meaning.

Let's all flex our muscles in tribute.

Yes, sir, physical culturist, Bernarr MacFadden, has just celebrated his 82nd birthday and it was big news in the Health magazine.

MacFadden is famous for his body building methods.

He attributes his health and longevity to vigorous exercise. MacFadden thinks nothing of walking 50 or 60 blocks before breakfast. I don't think much of it either.

Sinatra once tried to build himself up by deep breathing. But after one deep breath, he had no strength left to exhale.

MacFadden has published numerous magazines dedicated to the art of body building and this has led to interesting fan mail. One girl wrote, "I understand you build bodies. I would like one like Lana Turner's."

Hail to the new season.

Yes, sir, the new radio and TV season will soon be under way and all the old favorites are working hard to whip their shows into shape after the summer layoff.

Arthur Godfrey had a busy summer. He was counting his sponsors.

Benny had a hard summer. He spent it trying to convince his guest stars that money isn't everything.

Crosby was in Europe and I'm glad he's back. He traveled so much I didn't know where to send the "CARE" packages.

Berle spent his vacation in the usual way . . . taking notes.

I wanted to take a vacation, but the Treasury Department told me it couldn't afford it.

I suppose you've heard that I'm going to work for a new sponsor . . . That's a man who says, "He isn't selling the product, but my wife thinks he's funny."

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18—(INS)—Esther Williams, who, according to a poll taken abroad, is just about America's top actress in Europe, will be co-starred with Van Johnson in "The Girl From Rectors." But that won't be until next year since Esther doesn't expect her baby until December and it will be at least eight weeks after that before she returns to the studio.

Esther Williams

"The Girl From Rectors," which M-G-M has owned for a long time, will be a Joe Pasternak production. Esther plays a night club entertainer, and Van a young lawyer.

In all the years I've known Jane Wyman, I have never seen her look as well. She is so animated and gay and she has become one of the smartest dressed women in our town. Whether she is in love with Greg Bautzer, or it is just the friendship they both claim, Jane is very happy.

Right now, career-wise, she is reading "The Traveler," a western, for Raoul Walsh. If she accepts she gets Kirk Douglas for her co-star, and that isn't bad.

She wasn't talking business, however, when she was on the Warner lot with the Australian Davis Cup champs—Frank Sedgman, Ken McGregor, George Worthington and Mervin Rose—in tow.

Just before George Bernard Shaw had his accident, Marion Davies had sent him a watch for his birthday. The watch was delivered to the one and only G. B. S. by a friend of Marion's, and the friend writes from England: "He was delighted to get the timepiece because he had just broken the spring of his old gun-metal watch."

G. B. S., himself, sent a personal word to Marion to ask her if she is as beautiful as ever, and then adds that innumerable women are trying to marry him for his money. "But Marion," he says, "is safe. She has no designs on me, and her kindness is pure affection on her part."

P. S. Marion has cabled G. B. S. at the London hospital and that's a cable he'll read.

Want to win the coveted compliment of having a "suit figure"? Here are routines that are sure to do it!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

EVER been told you have a "suit figure"? It's something that can be recognized in a flash — and it is a top compliment since it praises your figure proportions, your erect carriage and your clothes judgement.

This season, when more suits are built on slim, vertical lines, the better to reveal your curves, it is more important than ever to keep your figure proportions under control and in balance, if you are to win such high praise. There are more set-in sleeves to display the set of your shoulders. More low-buttoned jackets to show the definition of your waist. More straight skirts to divulge the bulge of your hip. And no amount of alteration will disguise outsized curves that you wish were not there!

To Win Plaudits

If these fashion notes cause you fright, you'd better get busy before it's too late. Try these exercises and in a few weeks, you'll find that your new figure and your new suit go beautifully together.

1. For poised shoulders: Clasp your hands at waist level. Pull your shoulders first forward and then back as far as possible. Hold for a count of five and then relax suddenly. That's the position shoulders should be in for a smooth fitting suit jacket!

2. For a neat waist: Kneel so you sit on your heels and raise your arms over your head. Salaam until the palms of your hands touch the floor far out in front of you and your forehead brushes the floor just in front of your knees. Come back to your starting position very slowly. Repeat ten times. This one will straighten out your back, too!

Personal Advice

And while you are aiming for compliments, remember that even a lovely figure will miss its mark unless the suit you chose for it was designed with your special figure proportions in mind, whether you are tall or short, thin or heavy. If you have the slightest doubt about what's right for you, before you select your new suit send me your height and your hip measurement. I will send you a copy of my booklet, "How to Look Your Best", telling you your best lines, best fabric texture, best color intensity and colors, and containing cotton swatches and sketches. Enclose ten cents in coin to help cover costs and a self-addressed return envelope, and mail to me in care of this newspaper.

Let's make sure you look your very best in this year's new suit!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

EVER been told you have a "suit figure"? It's something that can be recognized in a flash — and it is a top compliment since it praises your figure proportions, your erect carriage and your clothes judgement.

This season, when more suits are built on slim, vertical lines, the better to reveal your curves, it is more important than ever to keep your figure proportions under control and in balance, if you are to win such high praise. There are more set-in sleeves to display the set of your shoulders. More low-buttoned jackets to show the definition of your waist. More straight skirts to divulge the bulge of your hip. And no amount of alteration will disguise outsized curves that you wish were not there!

To Win Plaudits

If these fashion notes cause you fright, you'd better get busy before it's too late. Try these exercises and in a few weeks, you'll find that your new figure and your new suit go beautifully together.

1. For poised shoulders: Clasp your hands at waist level. Pull your shoulders first forward and then back as far as possible. Hold for a count of five and then relax suddenly. That's the position shoulders should be in for a smooth fitting suit jacket!

2. For a neat waist: Kneel so you sit on your heels and raise your arms over your head. Salaam until the palms of your hands touch the floor far out in front of you and your forehead brushes the floor just in front of your knees. Come back to your starting position very slowly. Repeat ten times. This one will straighten out your back, too!

Personal Advice

And while you are aiming for compliments, remember that even a lovely figure will miss its mark unless the suit you chose for it was designed with your special figure proportions in mind, whether you are tall or short, thin or heavy. If you have the slightest doubt about what's right for you, before you select your new suit send me your height and your hip measurement. I will send you a copy of my booklet, "How to Look Your Best", telling you your best lines, best fabric texture, best color intensity and colors, and containing cotton swatches and sketches. Enclose ten cents in coin to help cover costs and a self-addressed return envelope, and mail to me in care of this newspaper.

Let's make sure you look your very best in this year's new suit!

Tomorrow: Quick figure corrections.

P. S. from J. R. P.
"HOW TO LOOK YOUR BEST"

Just tell me your height and hip measurement and I will tell you — your best lines your best texture of fabric your best intensity of color your best colors

Includes real cotton swatches to guide you. Also sketches to illustrate points. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed return envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

BLUFFTON, Ind., Sept. 18 (AP) — Mrs. Wanda Roberts, 49, charged with murder in the shooting of her husband Saturday, strangled herself to death with a jacket sleeve yesterday in the Wells County jail.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for their expressions of kindness and their sympathy in the recent death of our dear wife and mother. The floral tributes and the donations of cars for the funeral were greatly appreciated.
William F. Paugh and Children

We wish to thank our friends, relatives, and those who served as pallbearers and donated cars, flowers, masses and helped in any way following the sudden death of our beloved son and brother, Leo Henaghan.
The Henaghan Family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Eugene McElfish, who died two years ago, September 18, 1948.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because he was one of the best.
Grandmother, Aunt Marie
Sisters: Dorothy and Betty

A Tribute of Love to the memory of my beloved husband, Paul L. Sullivan, who departed this life one year ago today, Sept. 19, 1949.
You were so stately after life's last day.
I stood beside you there
A majesty beyond the touch of time and tide.
Had left you fair.
The vision that came close with shining wings,
To that poor waiting place,
Had left its beauty in your eager eyes,
And on your pallid face.
I called your name, I who had loved you well,
And touched your resting hand,
Too foolish had I been, but in that September hour,
My soul could understand.
I saw transfigured by some power devine,
No more the house of clay,
And knew you still alive, and with me yet,
As yesterday.
You touched my soul with wonder, and with joy,
A reverent glad surprise,
I found the meeting place of kindred spirits then,
Without disguise.
I will not doubt again, since God has shown to me,
The brightness of that door,
And through it you have passed with singing soul,
Forevermore.
Sadly missed by his wife, Eva.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for their expressions of kindness and their sympathy in the recent death of our dear wife and mother. The floral tributes and the donations of cars for the funeral were greatly appreciated.
William P. Paugh and Children

We wish to thank our friends, relatives, and those who served as pallbearers and donated cars, flowers, masses and helped in any way following the sudden death of our beloved son and brother, Leo Henaghan.
The Henaghan Family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Eugene McElfish, who died two years ago, September 18, 1948.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because he was one of the best.
Grandmother, Aunt Marie
Sisters: Dorothy and Betty

A Tribute of Love to the memory of my beloved husband, Paul L. Sullivan, who departed this life one year ago today, Sept. 19, 1949.
You were so stately after life's last day,
I stood beside you there
A majesty beyond the touch of time and tide,
Had left you fair.
The vision that came close with shining wings,
To that poor waiting place,
Had left its beauty in your eager eyes,
And on your palid face.
I called your name, I who had loved you well,
And touched your resting hand,
Too foolish had I been, but in that September hour,
My soul could understand.
I saw transfigured by some power devine,
No more the house of clay.
And knew you still alive, and with me yet,
As yesterday.
You touched my soul with wonder, and with joy,
A reverent glad surprise,
I found the meeting place of kindred spirits then,
Without disguise.
I will not doubt again, since God has shown to me,
The brightness of that door,
And through it you have passed with singing soul,
Forevermore.
Sadly missed by his wife, Eva.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for their expressions of kindness and their sympathy in the recent death of our dear wife and mother. The floral tributes and the donations of cars for the funeral were greatly appreciated.
William F. Paugh and Children

We wish to thank our friends, relatives, and those who served as pallbearers and donated cars, flowers, masses and helped in any way following the sudden death of our beloved son and brother, Leo Henaghan.
The Henaghan Family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Eugene McElfish, who died two years ago, September 18, 1948.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because he was one of the best.
Grandmother, Aunt Marie
Sisters: Dorothy and Betty

A Tribute of Love to the memory of my beloved husband, Paul L. Sullivan, who departed this life one year ago today, Sept. 19, 1949.
You were so stately after life's last day,
I stood beside you there
A majesty beyond the touch of time and tide.
Had left you fair.
The vision that came close with shining wings,
To that poor waiting place,
Had left its beauty in your eager eyes,
And on your palid face.
I called your name, I who had loved you well,
And touched your resting hand,
Too foolish had I been, but in that September hour,
My soul could understand.
I saw transfigured by some power devine,
No more the house of clay.
And knew you still alive, and with me yet,
As yesterday.
You touched my soul with wonder, and with joy.
A reverent glad surprise,
I found the meeting place of kindred spirits then,
Without disguise.
I will not doubt again, since God has shown to me,
The brightness of that door,
And through it you have passed with singing soul,
Forevermore.
Sadly missed by his wife, Eva.

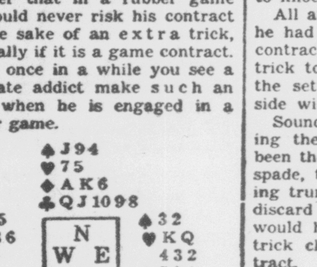
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

AVOID EXTRA-TRICK-ITIS

Playing in match-point duplicate games will sharpen a player's ability to wring every possible trick out of a hand, on the offense or the defense, as the difference of one trick can be the dividing line between top and bottom score on some deals. This style of play will make anybody a better rubber bridge player if he applies his new-found knowledge soundly. But he must remember that in a rubber game he should never risk his contract for the sake of an extra trick, especially if it is a game contract. Every once in a while you see a duplicate addict make such an error when he is engaged in a rubber game.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable).

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠

Many players would have overcalled the 2-Clubs with 2-Hearts in the East, but the finding of a good fit would not have justified sacrificing at the necessary height of 5-Hearts. East was glad after the hand that he had not made the overcall which might have led to a big penalty, especially glad since South managed to beat his own contract.

The heart 6 lead was won by the A over East's Q, whereupon South, a demon for extra tricks in duplicate, saw a way to

Fletcher Wins, Boden Leading In GOP Primary

Four Running Close For Commissioner

Incumbents And Orr Leading

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney of Allegany County since 1941, was winning a clear cut victory early this morning in a three-way contest for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

Fletcher, who received an impressive 2,639 ballots in 47 precincts, polled more than twice as many votes as his nearest opponent, Albert A. Doub.

Shortly after 1 a.m., Doub called Fletcher and conceded the election.

He congratulated Fletcher, who carried virtually every precinct counted so far, and promised his wholehearted support in the coming general election.

Joseph E. Boden, who was seeking election as clerk of Circuit Court for Allegany County, also was leading with 47 precincts in.

Boden, who has served in the Court House for 31 years, had piled up an imposing 2,567 votes.

His only opponent, William A. Wilson, Midland, was trailing with 1,801 ballots.

With 47 precincts in, William H. Lemmert was leading in a hotly contested race for county commissioner.

Lemmert polled 2,387 votes for top place.

Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., president of the board, was in second place, with 2,288 votes.

In third place was James Orr, former police and fire commissioner of this city, with 2,255 votes.

James Holmes, incumbent commissioner, was trailing behind Orr by 12 votes, polling 2,243 for fourth place.

In fifth place was Alban C. Thompson, with 931 votes; while Clyde S. Slider was sixth with 757 ballots. William H. Wiegand had 524 and Christopher Miller 370 ballots.

Flood Control Payments Of $1,900 Passed

Williams Street Report Is Made

Payments totaling $1,900 for temporary and permanent easements in connection with the Cumberland flood control project were ordered last night by the Mayor and Council.

They are as follows:

Payment of $350 to W. Ralph Young and his wife, Elizabeth E. Young; $200 to George Clyde Smith and his wife, Sadie M. Smith; $250 to Robert S. Wilkinson and his wife, Viola C. Wilkinson; and $1,100 to Aaron Lazarus.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said he has received a number of complaints regarding traffic problems resulting from flood control work in the Williams Street section.

Long said one merchant informed him he had lost $2,000 worth of business in August.

Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer for the project, said Williams Street from George Street to the A. and P. Market should be open to traffic in about two weeks.

Paye pointed out that chief obstacle to the work was a delay of about six weeks due to difficulty in obtaining rights of way.

To Finish Soon

He said the contractors, George and Lynch, Inc., have until November to finish the work in that section under their contract with the Army Engineers.

Construction delays were caused by rock near the Red Head service station and by existing sewer locations which hampered tunneling under the B. and O. Railroad tracks.

Paye recalled that the city has no direct control over the operations of the George and Lynch firm, which is directly responsible to the Army Engineers.

In other action, the council followed Paye's recommendation to readvertise for bids for the purchase and removal of a two-story brick garage at 206 Riverview Place.

The bid of $500 for the work, submitted last week by Margaret Cupler, acting for John A. Cupler, II, was ordered rejected. Paye said the bid "seems insufficient." It was the only offer made.

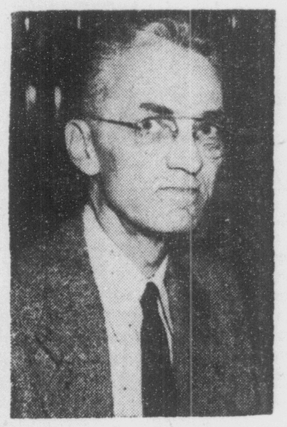
Bid Accepted

Council accepted the bid of $200 offered by Thomas Rennie for the purchase and removal of a brick dwelling at 113-115 Valley Street.

Payment of $100 to the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association was ordered for a full-page advertisement in its anniversary program. That amount is the same as last year.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz was named chairman of arrangements for the observance of United Nations Day here on October 24. Mayor Thomas S. Post asked Buchholtz to appoint a committee.

Filed was a leter from the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission accepting a preliminary report filed last week by the city with regard to plans for a sewage disposal plant.



LEADING—Paul M. Fletcher (left) and Joseph E. Boden were leading their opponents early this morning with [illegible] of 78 polling places in the county reported. Fletcher is a candidate for state's attorney and Boden is running for clerk of Circuit Court.

Mahoney Tops Lane In Close County Race

Ryan Leading; Dunlap Ahead

George P. Mahoney was leading for the Democratic nomination for governor in Allegany County at an early hour this morning, by a margin of 611 votes with only 12 precincts to be heard from. Half of these were in the city and half in the county.

The partial and unofficial count in 66 precincts showed:

George P. Mahoney 3264
William Preston Lane 2653

In the reporting precincts, a near record Democratic primary vote turned out with the percentage surpassing pre-election estimates. Figurges showed about 47 per cent against an anticipated 35.

Complete Democratic totals were available at press time in 60 of the county's 78 polling places.

In the judgeship contest where interest was also acute, Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, led W. Earle Cobey, this city by 1014 tallies.

Edward J. Ryan 3183
W. Earle Cobey 2169

The contest for nomination to represent the party ticket in the Congressional battle put W. Prescott Allen of Montgomery County well ahead of Russell Peter Hartle, Washington County.

W. Prescott Allen 2429
Russell P. Hartle 1595

In the local contest for sheriff between Graydon S. Dunlap, this city, and Frank J. Urbas, the contest was not too close, and Dunlap had piled up what appeared to be a safe margin. The tally gave:

Graydon D. Dunlap 2803
Frank J. Urbas 1616

For United States Senate, J. Millard Tydings led the ticket. In 60 county precincts reporting, he had 3265 votes while his two opponents trailed with fewer than a thousand each.

Millard E. Tydings 3265
Hugh J. Monaghan 959
John Ambrose Meyer 622

The 14-man contest for the six seats on the Democratic State Central Committee showed the party organization lost some seats to the opposition.

The tally from 60 precincts showed:

William L. Wilson, Jr. 3118
C. William McDermott ... 3095
William H. Buchholtz 2790
James P. Kenney 2564
Matthew J. Mullaney 2518
J. Thomas Condon 2231
James T. Kenney 2168
Ira T. Ryan 1852
Samuel T. Weatherholt .. 1497
DeLisle Chaney 1398
Lawrence A. Hewitt 996
Leo V. McGann 993
Edwin C. Hoffman 687
Harland A. Lasher 468

In the 60 precincts from which Democratic returns were complete there were 5856 ballots cast from an approximate registration of 11,500 registered voters. Registration figures were not complete in all precincts and an approximation was necessary.

The vote yesterday was light until mid-afternoon. Later in the day and by the time polls closed, balloting speeded considerably and election officials expressed considerable surprise at the high percentage. Some polling places showed as many as 80 per cent of the Democrats turning out, while in others interest lagged to as low as 20 per cent.

The position will carry a salary of $230 monthly, and the appointment is effective immediately, under the order introduced by Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

Following the meeting, Long said that See has served as a detective for some time and has received FBI training.

The move was made to improve and expand work of the bureau, Long said, pointing out that there was no head of the bureau previously.

Council authorized Long to advertise for bids for 38 uniforms for patrolmen and two uniforms for motorcycle officers in the Police Department.

Under an order introduced by Mayor Thomas S. Post and passed unanimously, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was named city civil defense director to co-ordinate civilian defense activities between the city and county.

The resignation will become effective October 15. Mrs. Marley plans to move to Greensboro, N. C. The resignation was accepted by the council.

An application from Julian F. Schonter, representing City Cab Service, to install extension telephones on poles in various sections of the city was referred to Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn and Fire Chief John E. Brennan for investigation and report.

The telephones would be located at Cresap Street and Virginia Avenue; Fifth Street near York Street; Nu-Acme Market on North Centre Street; Decatur Street; Winton Place and Paca Street; and Chase Street near Fayette.

An application from George and Mary Stevens, who gave their address as Philadelphia, for a license to operate a palmistry establishment on Baltimore Street was referred to Chief Flynn for investigation and report.

22-Year-Olds To Be Called In Oct.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Maryland will not draft 22-year-olds until October, Selective Service headquarters announced today.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director, said most men in that age group already have undergone preinduction examinations and 21-year-olds now are being screened.

Draft calls will pick up the rest of this month, he added. Only 380 men of the state's August-September quota of 735 have been ordered into service. The quota for October is 739 and for November, 1,013.

Stanwood said more registrants are passing mental and physical tests as the draft reaches into lower age brackets. The percentage is now about 50-50.

More, too, are answering calls for examination. The present average is 81 per cent, Stanwood said. Fewer than 70 per cent replied in the first few weeks after the draft was revived.

Municipal League Heads Are Announced Here

The local chairman for the convention of the Maryland Municipal League here November 10-11 will be Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, league president, reporting on a recent league council meeting at College Park, said that Mayors G. Lamar Kelly, Jr., Rockville; Herman L. Mills, Hagerstown; and Herbert W. Reichelt, Mount Rainier, are serving on a committee to obtain speakers.

The next meeting of the league council will be held here on the first day of the convention.

Gunter Wins In Allegany

William A. Gunter, Cumberland lawyer running for attorney general on the Republican ticket, got a tremendous send-off from Allegany County in yesterday's primary election, trouncing his opponent, Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, of Baltimore.

With 47 out of 78 polling places in the county reporting, Gunter had rolled up a vote of 3,755 to Miss Brown's 483.

In the state, Gunter, who trailed during the early returns, had pushed into a lead of 2,512. With 811 of 1,429 precincts reported, Gunter had 21,916 and Miss Brown had 19,404.

Allegany County Republicans also gave Brig. Gen. D. John Markey (retired) of Frederick County, better than a two to one lead over John Marshall Butler, Baltimore attorney, in the fight for the GOP nomination for U. S. Senate.

With 47 of 78 polling places reported, Markey had a vote in the county of 2,788 to 1,021 for Butler.

Statewide, however, Markey trailed Butler by about 4,000 votes with 769 precincts of 1,429 reported.

Suits Totaling $29,500 Filed

Three suits totaling $29,500 were filed against Gerald W. Breese and Ellsworth Breese in Circuit Court yesterday as the result of an automobile accident on Route 40 west of here April 24.

Plaintiffs in the case are Anna M. Huffman seeking $2,500; Artie Earl Huffman, seeking $25,000 and Menerva C. Lantz seeking $2,000. The trio is represented by Morgan C. Harris.

In each of the three suits Gerald W. Breese is identified as driver of the car and Ellsworth Breese as the owner. Both are accused of negligence that resulted in the accident.

Artie Huffman in his bill of complaint said he was operating the second car when it was struck by the Breese automobile which was "being operated in a negligent manner on the wrong side of the road."

Huffman claims that he suffered severe and painful injuries from which he will suffer permanently and asked the $25,000 to cover damages to his health.

Mrs. Huffman and Menerva C. Lantz in their bills state they were invited guests in the Huffman car and suffered painful injuries as the result of negligence on the part of Breese in operating the automobile.

Council Opens Five Additional Reroofing Bids

Two Offers Made On New Automobile

Five bids for built-up reroofing of the city warehouse at Valley Street were opened by the Mayor and Council last night and referred to Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder for tabulation and report.

They were as follows:

Tri-State Roofing Company, $2,225 with an alternate of $2,890; Charles Bauer, $3,780 for double coverage roofing instead of built-up; Largent's Roofing, $2,400; The Inselbric Store (J. J. Grabenstein), $3,210; and Alex J. Schute, $2,345.72.

All are local firms. Seven bids were opened last week for rolled roofing at the warehouse.

Also opened were two bids for a sedan automobile for the Health Department. They were:

Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., $1,118 net; and St. George Motor Company, $1,060 net. Both bids were referred to the Health Department for tabulation and report.

Dump Truck Needed

Mrs. Roeder was authorized to ask for bids on a one and one-half ton six-cylinder dump truck for use in the Street Department. Mrs. Roeder said the present truck is wearing out and a new one is needed to take its place.

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick was authorized to seek bids on a portable compressor for use in the Water Department. Tederick said the present compressor, purchased in 1938, is worn out.

The council authorized Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to ask bids for Lots 78, 79 and 80 on Montreal Avenue.

The report of the annual audit made by Berman, Goldman and Levin, certified public accountants of Baltimore, for the city's fiscal year ended last June 30, was ordered accepted.

Payment of $1,500 to the firm will be charged to the contingent fund, $900, and the water operating account, $600.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was authorized to have 200 copies of the report printed.

Buchholtz explained copies are needed for use by brokerage houses in the event of bond sales.

Payment Ordered

Council ordered payment of $750 to the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee as its share in the $1,500 September payment to Richardson Wood and Company, New York, in connection with economic development services.

Filed was a copy of a letter sent by Homer Berry, 113 Mary Street, vice-president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, to the Cumberland Real Estate Board.

Berry recalled the board's request that the council act to lift rent controls in the city after December 31, on the basis of a survey last July in which vacant apartments and 13 vacant houses were cited.

Berry said he had sought a place to rent for the past year and asked the board to notify him about any vacant houses.

Chest Advance Gifts Group Begins Work

The Advance Gifts committee for the 1959-51 Cumberland Community Chest campaign will begin work today.

Members of the committee, at a "dutch treat" meeting last night, reviewed plans for raising some $40,000, almost half of the $87,794.34 goal.

Goals for the committee were outlined by Lynn C. Lashley, chairman.

David T. Davis, a member of the Budget committee, commenting on the $3,519 increase in this year's goal, said the Chest dollar of today will not buy what it did a few years ago.

Earl C. Robertson, president, and Frederic W. Eiler, general campaign chairman, also spoke.

PE Announces Expansion Plan

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 18 (AP) — A sharp upswing in the use of electric power will speed a $10,000,000 expansion program of Potomac Edison Company, officials announced today.

President R. Paul Smith said business has exceeded estimates so much the company will advance by one year its plans for additional capacity.

He made the report at a quarterly meeting of the board of directors in Frederick.

The expansion, on which some work will begin in the near future, will involve a capital expenditure of some $10,000,000, Smith said.

One of the first projects will be a new $530,000 line between Williamsport and Reid in Maryland.

Baltimore Group Asks Repeal Of Commie Law

Repeal of the city's new anti-communist ordinance, which was termed "extremely undemocratic," was asked in a letter from the Citizens Committee Against The Ober Law, read at the Mayor and Council session last night.

Council ordered the letter filed, and Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said:

"I say file it in the wastebasket."

The letter from the Baltimore group was signed by Louis Shub, chairman.

It said the ordinance was "hastily passed" and that it "jeopardizes the constitutional rights of every citizen of this state and the nation."

The letter continued: "It is significant that the Cumberland ordinance was passed a few months prior to the coming Ober Law referendum. It is bound to create an atmosphere of terror in which the people are to discuss and vote on the Ober Law."

To this Long exclaimed:

"I don't think the ordinance was passed hastily nor does it create terror. I get fighting mad whenever I hear that."

Council also received a letter from Local 654, International Association of Firefighters, AFL, praising the recent unanimous council action in passing the ordinance requiring communists to register.

The letter, signed by Vincent H. Wegman, president, and Raymond E. Leidinger, secretary-treasurer, said in part:

"We feel that you have taken a great step forward in the determination of all loyal Americans to rid our cities and our country of such dangerous elements as the communist party."

Members of the Firefighters Local are prepared to sign Ober loyalty affidavits, the letter added.

Fletcher Wins, Boden Leading In GOP Primary

Incumbents And Orr Leading

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney of Allegany County since 1941, was winning a clear cut victory early this morning in a three-way contest for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

Fletcher, who received an impressive 2,639 ballots in 47 precincts, polled more than twice as many votes as his nearest opponent, Albert A. Doub.

Shortly after 1 a.m., Doub called Fletcher and conceded the election.

He congratulated Fletcher, who carried virtually every precinct counted so far, and promised his wholehearted support in the coming general election.

Joseph E. Boden, who was seeking election as clerk of Circuit Court for Allegany County, also was leading with 47 precincts in.

Boden, who has served in the Court House for 31 years, had piled up an imposing 2,567 votes.

His only opponent, William A. Wilson, Midland, was trailing with 1,801 ballots.

With 47 precincts in, William H. Lemmert was leading in a hotly contested race for county commissioner.

Lemmert polled 2,387 votes for top place.

Flood Control Payments Of $1,900 Passed

Williams Street Report Is Made

Payments totaling $1,900 for temporary and permanent easements in connection with the Cumberland flood control project were ordered last night by the Mayor and Council.

They are as follows:

Payment of $350 to W. Ralph Young and his wife, Elizabeth E. Young; $200 to George Clyde Smith and his wife, Sadie M. Smith; $250 to Robert S. Wilkinson and his wife, Viola C. Wilkinson; and $1,100 to Aaron Lazarus.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said he has received a number of complaints regarding traffic problems resulting from flood control work in the Williams Street section.

Long said one merchant informed him he had lost $2,000 worth of business in August.

Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer for the project, said Williams Street from George Street to the A. and P. Market should be open to traffic in about two weeks.

Paye pointed out that chief obstacle to the work was a delay of about six weeks due to difficulty in obtaining rights of way.

To Finish Soon

He said the contractors, George and Lynch, Inc., have until November to finish the work in that section under their contract with the Army Engineers.

Construction delays were caused by rock near the Red Head service station and by existing sewer locations which hampered tunneling under the B. and O. Railroad tracks.

Paye recalled that the city has no direct control over the operations of the George and Lynch firm, which is directly responsible to the Army Engineers.

In other action, the council followed Paye's recommendation to readvertise for bids for the purchase and removal of a two-story brick garage at 206 Riverview Place.

The bid of $500 for the work, submitted last week by Margaret Cupler, acting for John A. Cupler, II, was ordered rejected. Paye said the bid "seems insufficient." It was the only offer made.

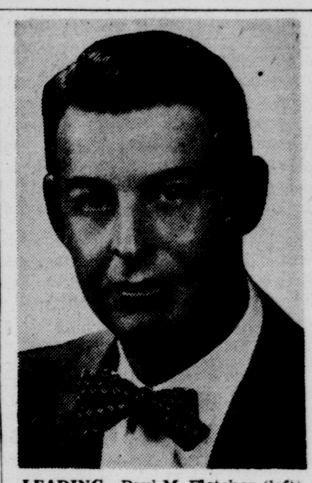
Bid Accepted

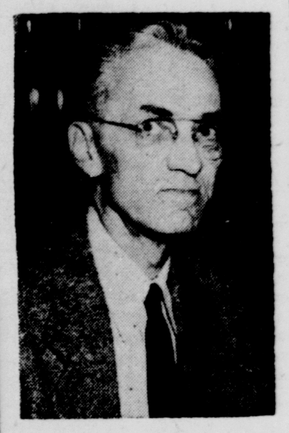
Council accepted the bid of $200 offered by Thomas Rennie for the purchase and removal of a brick dwelling at 113-115 Valley Street.

Payment of $100 to the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association was ordered for a full-page advertisement in its anniversary program. That amount is the same as last year.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz was named chairman of arrangements for the observance of United Nations Day here on October 24. Mayor Thomas S. Post asked Buchholtz to appoint a committee.

Filed was a leter from the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission accepting a preliminary report filed last week by the city with regard to plans for a sewage disposal plant.





LEADING—Paul M. Fletcher (left) and Joseph E. Boden were leading their opponents early this morning with ; of 78 polling places in the county reported. Fletcher is a candidate for state's attorney and Boden is running for clerk of Circuit Court.

Gunter Wins In Allegany

William A. Gunter, Cumberland lawyer running for attorney general on the Republican ticket, got a tremendous send-off from Allegany County in yesterday's primary election, trouncing his opponent, Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, of Baltimore.

With 47 out of 78 polling places in the county reporting, Gunter had rolled up a vote of 3,755 to Miss Brown's 483.

In the state, Gunter, who trailed during the early returns, had pushed into a lead of 2,512. With 811 of 1,429 precincts reported, Gunter had 21,916 and Miss Brown had 19,404.

Allegany County Republicans also gave Brig. Gen. D. John Markey (retired) of Frederick County, better than a two to one lead over John Marshall Butler, Baltimore attorney, in the fight for the GOP nomination for U. S. Senate.

With 47 of 78 polling places reported, Markey had a vote in the county of 2,788 to 1,021 for Butler.

Statewide, however, Markey trailed Butler by about 4,000 votes with 769 precincts of 1,429 reported.

Council Opens Five Additional Reroofing Bids

Two Offers Made On New Automobile

Five bids for built-up reroofing of the city warehouse at Valley Street were opened by the Mayor and Council last night and referred to Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder for tabulation and report.

They were as follows:

Tri-State Roofing Company, $2,225 with an alternate of $2,890; Charles Bauer, $3,780 for double coverage roofing instead of built-up; Largent's Roofing, $2,400; The Inselbric Store (J. J. Grabenstein), $3,210; and Alex J. Schute, $2,345.72.

All are local firms. Seven bids were opened last week for rolled roofing at the warehouse.

Also opened were two bids for a sedan automobile for the Health Department. They were:

Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., $1,118 net; and St. George Motor Company, $1,060 net. Both bids were referred to the Health Department for tabulation and report.

Dump Truck Needed

Mrs. Roeder was authorized to ask for bids on a one and one-half ton six-cylinder dump truck for use in the Street Department. Mrs. Roeder said the present truck is wearing out and a new one is needed to take its place.

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick was authorized to seek bids on a portable compressor for use in the Water Department. Tederick said the present compressor, purchased in 1938, is worn out.

The council authorized Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to ask bids for Lots 78, 79 and 80 on Montreal Avenue.

The report of the annual audit made by Berman, Goldman and Levin, certified public accountants of Baltimore, for the city's fiscal year ended last June 30, was ordered accepted.

Payment of $1,500 to the firm will be charged to the contingent fund, $900, and the water operating account, $600.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was authorized to have 200 copies of the report printed.

Payment Ordered

Council ordered payment of $750 to the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee as its share in the $1,500 September payment to Richardson Wood and Company, New York, in connection with economic development services.

Filed was a copy of a letter sent by Homer Berry, 113 Mary Street, vice-president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, to the Cumberland Real Estate Board.

Berry recalled the board's request that the council act to lift rent controls in the city after December 31, on the basis of a survey last July in which vacant apartments and 13 vacant houses were cited.

Berry said he had sought a place to rent for the past year and asked the board to notify him about any vacant houses.

Mahoney Tops Lane In Close County Race

Ryan Leading; Dunlap Ahead

George P. Mahoney was leading for the Democratic nomination for governor in Allegany County at an early hour this morning, by a margin of 611 votes with only 12 precincts to be heard from. Half of these were in the city and half in the county.

The partial and unofficial count in 66 precincts showed:

George P. Mahoney	3264
William Preston Lane	2653

In the reporting precincts, a near record Democratic primary vote turned out with the percentage surpassing pre-election estimates. Figurges showed about 47 per cent against an anticipated 35.

Complete Democratic totals were available at press time in 60 of the county's 78 polling places.

In the judgeship contest where interest was also acute, Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, led W. Earle Cobey, this city by 1014 tallies.

In the judgeship contest the partial return showed:

Edward J. Ryan	3183
W. Earle Cobey	2169

The contest for nomination to represent the party ticket in the Congressional battle put W. Prescott Allen of Montgomery County well ahead of Russell Peter Hartle, Washington County.

W. Prescott Allen	2429
Russell P. Hartle	1595

In the local contest for sheriff between Graydon S. Dunlap, this city, and Frank J. Urbas, the contest was not too close, and Dunlap had piled up what appeared to be a safe margin. The tally gave:

Graydon D. Dunlap	2803
Frank J. Urbas	1616

For United States Senate, J. Millard Tydings led the ticket. In 60 county precincts reporting, he had 3265 votes while his two opponents trailed with fewer than a thousand each.

Millard E. Tydings	3265
Hugh J. Monaghan	959
John Ambrose Meyer	622

The 14-man contest for the six seats on the Democratic State Central Committee showed the party organization lost some seats to the opposition.

The tally from 60 precincts showed:

William L. Wilson, Jr.	3118
C. William McDermott	3095
William H. Buchholtz	2790
James P. Kenney	2564
Matthew J. Mullaney	2518
J. Thomas Condon	2231
James T. Kenney	2168
Ira T. Ryan	1852
Samuel T. Weatherholt	1497
DeLisle Chaney	1398
Lawrence A. Hewitt	996
Leo V. McGann	993
Edwin C. Hoffman	687
Harland A. Lasher	468

In the 60 precincts from which Democratic returns were complete there were 5856 ballots cast from an approximate registration of 11,500 registered voters. Registration figures were not complete in all precincts and an approximation was necessary.

The vote yesterday was light until mid-afternoon. Later in the day and by the time polls closed, balloting speeded considerably and election officials expressed considerable surprise at the high percentage. Some polling places showed as many as 80 per cent of the Democrats turning out, while in others interest lagged to as low as 20 per cent.

22-Year-Olds To Be Called In Oct.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Maryland will not draft 22-year-olds until October, Selective Service headquarters announced today.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director, said most men in that age group already have undergone preinduction examinations and 21-year-olds now are being screened.

Draft calls will pick up the rest of this month, he added. Only 380 men of the state's August-September quota of 735 have been ordered into service. The quota for October is 739 and for November, 1,013.

Stanwood said more registrants are passing mental and physical tests as the draft reaches into lower age brackets. The percentage is now about 50-50.

More, too, are answering calls for examination. The present average is 81 per cent, Stanwood said. Fewer than 70 per cent replied in the first few weeks after the draft was revived.

Baltimore Group Asks Repeal Of Commie Law

Repeal of the city's new anti-communist ordinance, which was termed "extremely undemocratic," was asked in a letter from the Citizens Committee Against The Ober Law, read at the Mayor and Council session last night.

Council ordered the letter filed, and Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said:

"I say file it in the wastebasket."

The letter from the Baltimore group was signed by Louis Shub, chairman.

It said the ordinance was "hastily passed" and that it "jeopardizes the constitutional rights of every citizen of this state and the nation."

The letter continued: "It is significant that the Cumberland ordinance was passed a few months prior to the coming Ober Law referendum. It is bound to create an atmosphere of terror in which the people are to discuss and vote on the Ober Law."

To this Long exclaimed:

"I don't think the ordinance was passed hastily nor does it create terror. I get fighting mad whenever I hear that."

Council also received a letter from Local 654, International Association of Firefighters, AFL, praising the recent unanimous council action in passing the ordinance requiring communists to register.

The letter, signed by Vincent H. Wegman, president, and Raymond E. Leidinger, secretary-treasurer, said in part:

"We feel that you have taken a great step forward in the determination of all loyal Americans to rid our cities and our country of such dangerous elements as the communist party."

Members of the Firefighters Local are prepared to sign Ober loyalty affidavits, the letter added.

Fletcher Wins, Boden Leading In GOP Primary

Incumbents And Orr Leading

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney of Allegany County since 1941, was winning a clear cut victory early this morning in a three-way contest for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

Fletcher, who received an impressive 2,639 ballots in 47 precincts, polled more than twice as many votes as his nearest opponent, Albert A. Doub.

Shortly after 1 a.m., Doub called Fletcher and conceded the election.

He congratulated Fletcher, who carried virtually every precinct counted so far, and promised his wholehearted support in the coming general election.

Joseph E. Boden, who was seeking election as clerk of Circuit Court for Allegany County, also was leading with 47 precincts in.

Boden, who has served in the Court House for 31 years, had piled up an imposing 2,567 votes.

His only opponent, William A. Wilson, Midland, was trailing with 1,801 ballots.

With 47 precincts in, William H. Lemmert was leading in a hotly contested race for county commissioner.

Lemmert polled 2,387 votes for top place.

Flood Control Payments Of $1,900 Passed

Williams Street Report Is Made

Payments totaling $1,900 for temporary and permanent easements in connection with the Cumberland flood control project were ordered last night by the Mayor and Council.

They are as follows:

Payment of $350 to W. Ralph Young and his wife, Elizabeth E. Young; $200 to George Clyde Smith and his wife, Sadie M. Smith; $250 to Robert S. Wilkinson and his wife, Viola C. Wilkinson; and $1,100 to Aaron Lazarus.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said he has received a number of complaints regarding traffic problems resulting from flood control work in the Williams Street section.

Long said one merchant informed him he had lost $2,000 worth of business in August.

Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer for the project, said Williams Street from George Street to the A. and P. Market should be open to traffic in about two weeks.

Paye pointed out that chief obstacle to the work was a delay of about six weeks due to difficulty in obtaining rights of way.

To Finish Soon

He said the contractors, George and Lynch, Inc., have until November to finish the work in that section under their contract with the Army Engineers.

Construction delays were caused by rock near the Red Head service station and by existing sewer locations which hampered tunneling under the B. and O. Railroad tracks.

Paye recalled that the city has no direct control over the operations of the George and Lynch firm, which is directly responsible to the Army Engineers.

In other action, the council followed Paye's recommendation to readvertise for bids for the purchase and removal of a two-story brick garage at 206 Riverview Place.

The bid of $500 for the work, submitted last week by Margaret Cupler, acting for John A. Cupler, II, was ordered rejected. Paye said the bid "seems insufficient." It was the only offer made.

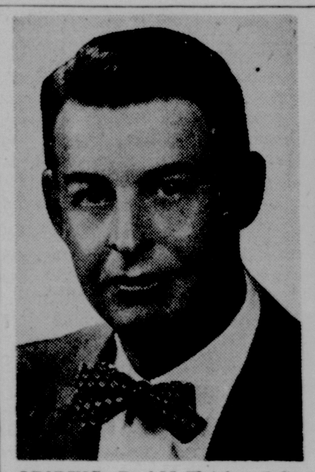
Bid Accepted

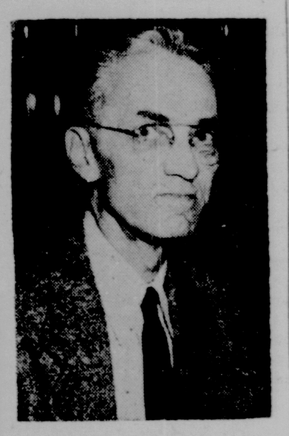
Council accepted the bid of $200 offered by Thomas Rennie for the purchase and removal of a brick dwelling at 113-115 Valley Street.

Payment of $100 to the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association was ordered for a full-page advertisement in its anniversary program. That amount is the same as last year.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz was named chairman of arrangements for the observance of United Nations Day here on October 24. Mayor Thomas S. Post asked Buchholtz to appoint a committee.

Filed was a leter from the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission accepting a preliminary report filed last week by the city with regard to plans for a sewage disposal plant.





LEADING—Paul M. Fletcher (left) and Joseph E. Boden were leading their opponents early this morning with [illegible] of 78 polling places in the county reported. Fletcher is a candidate for state's attorney and Boden is running for clerk of Circuit Court.

Gunter Wins In Allegany

William A. Gunter, Cumberland lawyer running for attorney general on the Republican ticket, got a tremendous send-off from Allegany County in yesterday's primary election, trouncing his opponent, Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, of Baltimore.

With 47 out of 78 polling places in the county reporting, Gunter had rolled up a vote of 3,755 to Miss Brown's 483.

In the state, Gunter, who trailed during the early returns, had pushed into a lead of 2,512. With 811 of 1,429 precincts reported, Gunter had 21,916 and Miss Brown had 19,404.

Allegany County Republicans also gave Brig. Gen. D. John Markey (retired) of Frederick County, better than a two to one lead over John Marshall Butler, Baltimore attorney, in the fight for the GOP nomination for U. S. Senate.

With 47 of 78 polling places reported, Markey had a vote in the county of 2,788 to 1,021 for Butler.

Statewide, however, Markey trailed Butler by about 4,000 votes with 769 precincts of 1,429 reported.

Council Opens Five Additional Reroofing Bids

Two Offers Made On New Automobile

Five bids for built-up reroofing of the city warehouse at Valley Street were opened by the Mayor and Council last night and referred to Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder for tabulation and report.

They were as follows:

Tri-State Roofing Company, $2,225 with an alternate of $2,890; Charles Bauer, $3,780 for double coverage roofing instead of built-up; Largent's Roofing, $2,400; The Inselbric Store (J. J. Grabenstein), $3,210; and Alex J. Schute, $2,345.72.

All are local firms. Seven bids were opened last week for rolled roofing at the warehouse.

Also opened were two bids for a sedan automobile for the Health Department. They were:

Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., $1,118 net; and St. George Motor Company, $1,060 net. Both bids were referred to the Health Department for tabulation and report.

Dump Truck Needed

Mrs. Roeder was authorized to ask for bids on a one and one-half ton six-cylinder dump truck for use in the Street Department. Mrs. Roeder said the present truck is wearing out and a new one is needed to take its place.

Water Commissioner George H. Tederick was authorized to seek bids on a portable compressor for use in the Water Department. Tederick said the present compressor, purchased in 1938, is worn out.

The council authorized Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to ask bids for Lots 78, 79 and 80 on Montreal Avenue.

The report of the annual audit made by Berman, Goldman and Levin, certified public accountants of Baltimore, for the city's fiscal year ended last June 30, was ordered accepted.

Payment of $1,500 to the firm will be charged to the contingent fund, $900, and the water operating account, $600.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was authorized to have 200 copies of the report printed.

Payment Ordered

Council ordered payment of $750 to the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee as its share in the $1,500 September payment to Richardson Wood and Company, New York, in connection with economic development services.

Filed was a copy of a letter sent by Homer Berry, 113 Mary Street, vice-president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, to the Cumberland Real Estate Board.

Berry recalled the board's request that the council act to lift rent controls in the city after December 31, on the basis of a survey last July in which vacant apartments and 13 vacant houses were cited.

Berry said he had sought a place to rent for the past year and asked the board to notify him about any vacant houses.

Mahoney Tops Lane In Close County Race

Ryan Leading; Dunlap Ahead

George P. Mahoney was leading for the Democratic nomination for governor in Allegany County at an early hour this morning, by a margin of 611 votes with only 12 precincts to be heard from. Half of these were in the city and half in the county.

The partial and unofficial count in 66 precincts showed:

George P. Mahoney	3264
William Preston Lane	2653

In the reporting precincts, a near record Democratic primary vote turned out with the percentage surpassing pre-election estimates. Figurges showed about 47 per cent against an anticipated 35.

Complete Democratic totals were available at press time in 60 of the county's 78 polling places.

In the judgeship contest where interest was also acute, Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, led W. Earle Cobey, this city by 1014 tallies.

In the judgeship contest the partial return showed:

Edward J. Ryan	3183
W. Earle Cobey	2169

The contest for nomination to represent the party ticket in the Congressional battle put W. Prescott Allen of Montgomery County well ahead of Russell Peter Hartle, Washington County.

W. Prescott Allen	2429
Russell P. Hartle	1595

In the local contest for sheriff between Graydon S. Dunlap, this city, and Frank J. Urbas, the contest was not too close, and Dunlap had piled up what appeared to be a safe margin. The tally gave:

Graydon D. Dunlap	2803
Frank J. Urbas	1616

For United States Senate, J. Millard Tydings led the ticket. In 60 county precincts reporting, he had 3265 votes while his two opponents trailed with fewer than a thousand each.

Millard E. Tydings	3265
Hugh J. Monaghan	959
John Ambrose Meyer	622

The 14-man contest for the six seats on the Democratic State Central Committee showed the party organization lost some seats to the opposition.

The tally from 60 precincts showed:

William L. Wilson, Jr.	3118
C. William McDermott	3095
William H. Buchholtz	2790
James P. Kenney	2564
Matthew J. Mullaney	2518
J. Thomas Condon	2231
James T. Kenney	2168
Ira T. Ryan	1852
Samuel T. Weatherholt	1497
DeLisle Chaney	1398
Lawrence A. Hewitt	996
Leo V. McGann	993
Edwin C. Hoffman	687
Harland A. Lasher	468

In the 60 precincts from which Democratic returns were complete there were 5856 ballots cast from an approximate registration of 11,500 registered voters. Registration figures were not complete in all precincts and an approximation was necessary.

The vote yesterday was light until mid-afternoon. Later in the day and by the time polls closed, balloting speeded considerably and election officials expressed considerable surprise at the high percentage. Some polling places showed as many as 80 per cent of the Democrats turning out, while in others interest lagged to as low as 20 per cent.

22-Year-Olds To Be Called In Oct.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18 (AP)—Maryland will not draft 22-year-olds until October, Selective Service headquarters announced today.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director, said most men in that age group already have undergone preinduction examinations and 21-year-olds now are being screened.

Draft calls will pick up the rest of this month, he added. Only 380 men of the state's August-September quota of 735 have been ordered into service. The quota for October is 739 and for November, 1,013.

Stanwood said more registrants are passing mental and physical tests as the draft reaches into lower age brackets. The percentage is now about 50-50.

More, too, are answering calls for examination. The present average is 81 per cent, Stanwood said. Fewer than 70 per cent replied in the first few weeks after the draft was revived.
